Cooper Sentenced To Death in Chappell Slaying

FORMER ATLANTAN IS FOUND GUILTY, MUST DIE JUNE 21

'Dumfounded' at Verdict, Defense Counsel To Make Motion for New Trial; Jury Deliberates Less Than Two Hours.

DEFENDANT CALM AS DOOM IS HEARD

Memorial Day Bands, Blaring Martial Music, Pass Along Street as Sentence Is Pronounced.

Charles M. Cooper, 24-year-old former Atlantan, was found guilty Thursday of the murder of James T. Chappell, auditor for the Stoddard Dry Cleaning Company, on November 4, 1932, and was sentenced by Judge E. E. Pomeroy to die in the electric chair on June 21.

The jury's verdict, which carried no recommendation of mercy and therefore made the death sentence mandatory, was reached after an hour and a half of deliberation.

While Cooper himself took the verdict and sentence stoically, defense counsel Len B. Guillebeau expressed himself as "dumfounded" and announced that a motion for a new trial would be made immediately.

The courtroom was the scene of gripping drama while the death sentence was being pronounced.

Cooper, standing with arms crossed and looking directly into the countenance of the presiding judge, showed no sign of emotion, while the widow of the slain man sobbed convulsively as the sentence was being read.

Over the voice of the judge and the sobbing of Mrs. Chappell came the blare of drums and the melody of marching airs as the Memorial Day parade passed, the music dying out just as the court pronounced the final words.

In a brief statement before sentence was pronounced, Cooper thanked Judge Pomeroy for the fairness shown throughout the trial, and repeated his statement made to the jury that he was in Miami at the time Chappell was slain.

"I only want to repeat," Cooper said in a clear voice, raised to be heard above the burst of martial strains from the street below, "that I am innocent of this crime. I shall maintain that to the end."

He smiled as he turned away after having heard his sentence read.

Defense counsel said that the motion for a new trial will be based principally upon the court's action in admitting statements made by Chappell before his death, in which he referred to previous identifications of photographs of Cooper as the man who had shot him while his wife waited across the street in an automobile.

Cooper's defense rested upon an attempt to prove an alibi, while the prosecution, conducted by Assistant Solicitor Ed Stephens, produced two eye witnesses to the shooting. Cooper was identified by Mrs. Chappell and two others as the man who fired the shot which resulted in Mr. Chappell's death nearly a year later.

ATLANTA LEADER IN CLEARINGS GAIN

Increase of 65 Per Cent Is Shown Over Same Period of Last Year.

With an increase of 65 per cent for the week ending April 25 over the same period of 1933, Atlanta led the entire nation in gain in bank clearings, according to figures released Thursday by Dun & Bradstreet.

Atlanta bankers attributed much of the gain to increased business in this section, which has consistenly recorded greater increases in clearings, postal receipts and department store business volume than other localities.

There was an increase of 28.2 per cent in bank clearings for the week over the same week last year in the United States, Dun & Bradstreet announced, while there was an increase of 24.6 per cent in New York.

"Atlanta is certainly leading the nation in recovery," one banking official stated Thursday. He said he was of the opinion that the 65 per cent increase in clearings was due to some degree to the lack of confidence on the part of the people during the same period last year, which followed the banking holiday. He asserted, however, that business volume undoubtedly is picking up steadily.

There also has been a decided increase in the number of units of bank clearings, it was said, indicating even more business gain. Another banker, who is cognizant of clearing house figures, said business volume now is just as heavy as it was in January, while ordinarily the month should slump. Atlanta merchants, too, have said that the late spring business is comparing well with winter business, which usually averages higher.

Deadline Extended On U. S. Crop Loans

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The farm credit administration today extended to May 15 the deadline for receiving applications for emergency crop loans.

TOKYO SILENCES 'EXCESSIVE' TALK ON CHINA POLICIES

Roosevelt, Hull Discuss Eastern Problem; Concerted Action by U. S. and Britain Looms.

By The United Press.

Japanese were "requested" to refrain from "excessive discussion" of Japan's program for over-lordship of eastern Asia as there arose indications Thursday of concerted United States and British action in the oriental situation.

Developments included:

TOKYO — Representatives abroad and publicists at home were ordered to keep quiet about foreign policy. Foreign Minister Koki Hirota was understood to have told United States Ambassador Joseph C. Crew that Japan plans nothing to interfere with United States trade in China.

WASHINGTON — Possibility of concerted action was believed under discussion in conferences among United States and British officials. Japanese Ambassador Hirosi Saito said Japan is striving to deal "straight from the shoulder" with the United States to end mutual suspicions.

LONDON—Great Britain plans a formal declaration Monday defining its attitude on Japan's Far Eastern policy.

TOKYO CLAMPS LID ON POLICY DISCUSSION

TOKYO, April 27.—(UP)—(Friday)—The lid was clamped down today on "excessive discussion" of Japan's program for over-lordship of eastern Asia.

Orders went out to Japanese representatives abroad to publicists at home and to newspapers and magazine editors to hold their tongues and pens.

The "requests" were made in name of "the national interest."

Foreign office officials would not confirm reports the orders were dispatched, but the United Press learned the "requests" already had been received by numerous persons and newspapers.

The action followed conferences between United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and Foreign Minister Koki Hirota.

It was understood the foreign minister told Ambassador Grew that:

1. Japan does not intend to do anything that will interfere with United States trade with China;

2. That the statements made by Eiji Amau, foreign office spokesman, to correspondents of the foreign press here April 20—while a correct declaration of Japanese aspirations from one viewpoint—were not intended as any effort to set up a Japanese Monroe Doctrine for Asia.

3. That Japan's immediate concern is Manchukuo and the relations of that independent state with northern China.

Hirota explained, according to unofficial reports, that normal transit and commercial relations between north China—the Peiping-Tientsin region—and Manchukuo ought to be re-established at once in the interest of

Roosevelt Orders Data On Tobacco Tax Slash

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today ordered a special study of the Vinson bill proposing a 40 per cent reduction in the cigaret tax.

Pending the study, the president told Chairman Doughton, of the house ways and means committee, and Representative Vinson, democrat, Kentucky, author of the bill, he would keep an open mind on the proposal.

Mr. Roosevelt asked Secretary Morgenthau, Secretary Wallace and Director Douglas, of the budget, to make the investigation.

He has been apprehensive that the government could not afford a loss in revenue from such a reduction. It would cut the levy from 6 cents a package to 3.4 cents.

However, he assured the representatives he would defer final decision until he gets a report from his investigators.

Doughton and Vinson said their meeting with the president was "very satisfactory" and each predicted eventual legislation lowering the cigaret tax.

Occasional Showers Forecast for Today

Warm weather today, partly cloudy with occasional showers, and a temperature range of 60 to 80 degrees, was forecast Thursday by the weather bureau.

Thursday was clear, with light frost reported in the morning. The Atlanta bureau reported a minumum of 49 degrees, but the airport reading was 39. The mercury rose to 79 during the afternoon. It was not believed that the frost did any damage.

BISHOPS ESPOUSE METHODIST UNION

Southern Conference Will Sound Plea to "Evangelize the World."

JACKSON, Miss., April 26.—(AP)—Presiding bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today called on the approximately 3,000,000 constituents of the denomination to "gird to evangelize the world" and urged the general conference of the church, opening its quadrennial sessions here, to espouse "the union of all American Methodism."

Preservation of the church's episcopal government was strongly indorsed by the bishops, who answered a movement in the general conference to curtail the tenure and power of the college of bishops by describing the plan as "radically revolutionary and designed to do away with the episcopacy and episcopal government."

"Progressiveness and hopefulness" were sounded as the keynotes for the four-year program to be shared at the conference sessions.

The composite mind of the college of bishops on the work of the quadrennium just closed and the quadrennium just ahead was presented in an address read by Bishop John M. Moore, of Dallas, Texas, speaking for his colleagues.

One Notes Exception.

Trotzky and Wife Flee To Secret Hiding Place

BARBIZON, France, April 26.—(AP)—Leon Trotzky has been spirited away from his forest villa near here. He is in hiding pending word from some other country willing to accept him.

The Russian exile's secretary revealed that both Trotzky and his wife had fled, but declined to say where they went or when.

It was understood, however, that French authorities, who have ordered Trotzky out of France, helped him make his secret plans and were guarding him pending his departure.

Trotzky's baggage and 15 cases of books were carried away for storage in Paris today.

PRISON DISPUTE LAID TO TALMADGE

JACKSON, Ga., April 26.—(AP)—Charging Governor Eugene Talmadge with inspiring the senatorial investigation of the Butts county prison system, Dr. O. B. Howell, chairman of the board of county commissioners, said today he would oppose the governor for renomination if no one else runs against him.

"I supported Governor Talmadge last time," Dr. Howell said, "but with the rest of the county I am against him now."

Dr. Howell branded as "untrue and framed for political purposes" the report of the senatorial committee which recommended the removal of Dr. Howell and officials of the prison

TRIBUTE IS PAID HEROES OF GRAY

Confederate Hosts, Living and Dead, Honored at Colorful Rites.

By RALPH T. JONES.

Atlanta paid reverent tribute Thursday to the men and women of the Confederacy, those fearless ancestors who fought and died for an ideal which still lives in the hearts of their sons and daughters of today, the ideal of justice and of freedom.

It was the annual Memorial Day on which, each year, the city, with all of Georgia and the south, pauses from the struggles and worries of today to turn a backward thought and do honor to the forefathers who saved the state from ruin and disintegration after their long years of battle had proved in vain.

A parade that took more than 30 minutes to pass the reviewing stand in front of the Capital City Club, marched proudly behind the Stars and Stripes, that flag of a great nation today, that flag that waves more nobly because of the inheritance it bears from the other flag, the Stars and Bars to which yesterday it did honor.

Surviving veterans of the gray, pitifully few in number, rode in great buses in the place of honor in the parade. Once again the rebel yell resounded along Atlanta's streets and again it echoed over the graves at Oakland. Fancy dreamed an echo faint came whispering back from the hallowed graves below the sod.

Jones is Orator.

Robert Harrison Jones Jr., orator of the day, delivered a masterly speech at the simple exercises in the cemetery. He referrd to the struggle of the seventies, which he declared called for greater courage by the men and women of Georgia even than they had displayed during the actual years of conflict. He drew the analogy between those days of reconstruction and the years of depression through

Court Rules No Fraud In Insull Bankruptcy

CHICAGO, April 26.—(UP)—Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley ruled in an opinion handed down today that no collusion or fraud had been practiced upon his court in the Insull receivership cases.

The judge's opinion ended one of several inquiries into how the Insull operating and securities companies were put into receivership.

One effect of the decision, it was explained, will be to continue Charles A. McCulloch as receiver for Middlewest Utilities, the giant Insull holding company and key concern of Samuel Insull's light and power empire.

RAILS, EMPLOYES REACH AGREEMENT ON WAGE INCREASE

10 Per Cent Cut Will Be Restored in Installments Over Period of Slightly Less Than Year.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Railroad workers and their employers worked out an arrangement today for giving back to the workers during the next year the 10 per cent that had been cut from their wages.

The agreement was reached in amicable negotiations after the administration had given up hope of a friendly settlement through such conferences.

It ended a month of claims and counter claims during which a committee composed of a dozen railroad managers and 21 representatives of labor unions had argued across a conference table.

This is what they worked out:

The railroads will increase wages 2 1-2 per cent July 1; 2 1-2 per cent January 1, 1935, and 5 per cent April 1, 1935, thus putting them back to where they were in 1931.

Individual Negotiations.

The workers obtained an agreement for negotiations with individual carriers for ending part-time work and furloughs, increasing employment and giving more money to the low-paid workers.

The wage agreement runs for one year from July 1.

Neither side may bring up the subject again until May 1, 1935, supplying the period of stabilization urged by the president.

President Roosevelt and Joseph B. Eastman, the railroad co-ordinator, congratulated the negotiators upon their "wisdom" in settling the controversy.

The agreement worked out would save the railroads about the same amount they would have saved had they carried out the original suggestion by the president that the 10 per cent cut be continued for another six months.

The agreement was announced by A. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association, and W. F. Thiehoff, chairman of the conference committee of managers.

More Wages.

"Railway employes have been impressed throughout," said Whitney, "with the necessity for increasing wages and purchasing power in their effort to reach an agreement with the managers.

"We have reached an agreement, the terms of which are that 25 per cent of the deduction from pay checks will be restored July 1; 50 per cent January 1, 1935, and the balance April 1, 1935.

"We have joined in the agreement

Gandhi's Car Windows Smashed by Enemies

BUXAR, India, April 26.—(AP)—A rock smashed the windows of a car in which Mahatma Gandhi was riding today, but he escaped uninjured from a clash with persons opposing his campaign to assist India's untouchables.

It was the first time the mahatma ever had been made the object of a physical attack.

Three nationalists congress volunteers accompanying Gandhi were injured in the attack, said to have been made by orthodox Hindus who bitterly oppose the Indian leader's long campaign to succor the oppressed classes.

Gandhi was reported today to be threatening to undertake another period of severe penance because of growing opposition to his movement for the untouchables.

ST. PAUL SUSPENDS DOCTOR-OFFICIAL FOR AIDING KILLER

Tucson Citizens Aroused by Seizure of Heiress. New Federal Crime Laws Speeded Toward Enactment.

PHYSICIAN ADMITS DILLINGER TREATED

Minneapolis Girl Released Soon After Abduction; Touhy Gangster Taken in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

Arizona authorities Thursday sought the kidnapers of 6-year-old June Robles, for whom her abductors first demanded $15,000 ransom, then $10,000. Angry Tucson citizens gathered on the courthouse lawn, talked freely of lynching and awaited developments.

In Washington the house judiciary committee approved a measure to permit the death penalty for interstate kidnapings. Other legislation stamped with presidential approval seemed certain to pass congress.

Also in Washington Attorney-General Cummings attended the funeral of a department of justice agent, while in Wisconsin 5,000 federal agents, police, sheriffs, constables and militia sought to silence the guns that had slain him—those of the John Dillinger gang.

After the funeral Cummings said the government was prepared to use the war department's air corps if necessary to locate the Dillinger gang in the area Cummings called a "poison spot of crime."

Doctor Suspended.

In St. Paul, Commissioner of Health John McDonald suspended Dr. N. G. Mortensen, city health officer, who admitted he dressed the wound of Dillinger and his lieutenant, John Hamilton. Mortensen said he did so under threat.

Two ex-convicts in Belleville, Ill., Joseph Lacompte and James Lambert, were arrested on reports that they planned to kidnap William N. Baltz, former congressman, and rob his bank.

In Chicago police captured Ludwig (Dutch) Schmidt without a struggle. Schmidt's pals have been sentenced to 99-year terms and he is wanted both for the John Factor kidnaping and a $105,000 mail robbery at Charlotte, N. C.

Girl Returned.

Five-year-old Mary Lou Carline was found and returned to her Minneapolis home four hours after a strange man forced her into an automobile.

Echoes of a recent murder in Washington, D. C., sprang up in a Philadelphia suburb where a pyjama-clad Washington woman was found in a critical condition from gunshot wounds, lying on the steps of a house in which she had been held captive.

Max Chipman, wanted in Boston for kidnaping, sat in a Kansas City jail awaiting extradition to Massachusetts.

Authorities in Texas promised a quick trial for Raymond Hamilton, bad man of the southwest, captured after an intensive search.

1,000 ARIZONANS JOIN IN HUNT FOR HEIRESS

TUCSON, Ariz., April 26.—(AP)—A thousand men ready to shoot it out at the bat of an eyelid—among them the officers to whom John Dillinger and his outlaw gang surrendered meekly here last January—went gunning today for the abductors of 6-year-old June Robles. The kidnapers of the girl suddenly reduced their ransom demanded from $15,000 to $10,000.

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the last of the series of cooking school sessions in the Georgia Power Company all-electric kitchen will be held, with many new and additional cooking secrets, ideas and methods presented to those in attendance. Following the demonstration, groceries supplied by the Piggly Wiggly Stores will be given away.

Music will be furnished by Perry Bechtel's orchestra between 4 and 5 o'clock and again this evening between 8 and 9 o'clock. The stage show this evening will present the same array of have delighted the audiences during the week.

Tickets are ten cents, and the net proceeds from the show go to the 108 clubs which compose membership in the Atlanta Federation who are sponsoring the exposition.

The show is presenting to Atlantans many attractions rolled into one. The cooking school, the Ford exhibit in the lobby of the auditorium, and inside the building, each and every one of the booths present all manner of appliances and furniture which add to the comfort and attractiveness of housekeeping.

Atlantans are taking advantage of every opportunity to attend both the afternoon and evening sessions. The afternoon sessions present as an added attraction the cooking school, while the audience in the evening is rewarded by the fine vaudeville acts, while during both the afternoon and evening the orchestra plays all the latest dance tunes.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL AID IS APPROVED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The house today passed and sent to the senate the Ellzey bill, extending vocational education aid for three years and providing appropriations of $3,000,000 for each year to be matched with state funds.

By the strategy of Representative Rankin, democrat, Mississippi, efforts of Representative DePriest, republican, Illinois, only negro member of congress, to force a roll call on recommitting the bill to the committee were defeated.

DePriest sought to have the bill amended to provide for equal division of the funds between white and negro schools in states which have separate schools for negroes.

U. S. MONEY POLICY ASSAILED BY SCHACHT

Payment of Foreign Debts Made More Difficult, German Declares.

BERLIN, April 26.—(AP)—The "senseless system under which one country refuses to use the service of another" was assailed tonight by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Reichsbank president, as making the payment of foreign debts increasingly difficult.

"Two of our greatest creditor nations, the United States and Great Britain, by the devaluation of their respective currencies, have made our exporting business extremely difficult because they underbid us on both their own and foreign markets," he declared in an address on the eve of a conference tomorrow regarding the thorny transfer problem.

He maintained that the refusal of nations to use each other's services "is to a high degree responsible for shrinking production, the increase of unemployment, and the low standard of living of the great masses.

"The dwindling of world trade to one-third its previous volume, compared with 1928, has made the payment of foreign debts increasingly hard," he contended, "because the placing of a given volume of merchandise on the foreign market is now three times as difficult as before."

Further obstacles he said, were raised by tariff barriers and a "boycott agitation against German goods."

The remedy, he went on, "can only come from raising German exports and from a willingness on the part of creditors to meet us on the matter of interest rates, the postponement of redemptions, and the like."

He argued that old debts could only be met by a revival of world trade and since "such a revival depended on the sensible regulation of the debt question it is necessary to tackle the debt problem fully."

TVA POWER FAVORED BY MISSISSIPPI CITY

COLUMBUS, Miss., April 26.—(AP)—Columbus taxpayers who participated in a special "straw-vote" election here last Tuesday went on record as favoring this city, securing, if possible, electric power from the Tennessee Valley Authority, a tabulation of the vote today showed.

A total of 1,060 voters favored securing TVA power and 145 voted against it. Those voting for a municipal power and light plant totaled 505 with 303 voting against.

Set Afire by Child, Little Girl Near Death

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., April 26. (AP)—Set afire by two other children as she was on her way home from school, six-year-old Betty Joe West was in a critical condition here today.

The child said on her way home yesterday she passed Marion and Joe Lupper, four and five years old, and that the former exclaimed:

"I'm going to set you afire."

Betty Joe said the child then poked a lighted candle at her dress, which immediately caught fire.

The grandmother of the Lupper children, Mrs. John Waller, and a neighbor, Mrs. Stella Sanderson, ran to Betty Jo's aid but the flames were not extinguished until a passing motorist stopped and threw his coat about the child. All three persons were burned.

ICKES RAPS SCHALL FOR ROOSEVELT ATTACK

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes said today Senator Schall, republican, Minnesota, was more interested in "unfairly attacking" Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt than in protecting the government from "unconscionable profits."

The interior secretary's statement answered an attack which Schall yesterday aimed at him and at the Reedsville, W. Va., subsistence homestead project in which Mrs. Roosevelt has evinced great interest.

State's 4-Year-Old Income Tax Law Is Nothing New, Archives Reveal

The state income tax law which went into effect in 1930 is nothing new to Georgia.

The Georgi.. legislature of 1863 enacted a law taxing incomes to help defray the burdensome cost of the troops the state sent into the Civil War.

The measure brought in $650,000 in the year following its passage, at a time when there were only 90,000 registered voters in the state, and when most of these were at the front.

And, be it known to those persons who grumble at paying the present 1 per cent per $5,000 of income up to $20,000, the 1863 law demanded a tax ranging from 5 per cent on incomes of $10,000 and less up to 25 per cent on incomes above $100,000.

There was no $1,500 exemption for single persons or $3,500 deduction for those who were married. Neither was there any provision for deductions for interest paid, taxes, losses by fire or storm, bad debts, contributions or dividends received from bank stocks. The measure exempted the first 8 per cent of income and taxed all above that figure.

Specifically required to pay the tax were "all persons and bodies corporate in this state, all persons making income by purchase or sale of any property, real or personal, all keepers of hotels, inns and livery stables, express companies, railroad companies, not exempt by their charters from taxation, insurance companies, brokers, auctioneers, all persons engaged in the sale of goods, merchandise, groceries and provisions, all persons and bodies corporate engaged in the manufacture and sale of cotton or woolen goods, in the tanning and sale of leather, the distillation and sale of alcohol or spiritous liquors from grain of any kind, or from any other article."

For failure or refusal to return the tax, the law set up a penalty of "high misdemeanor" and declared that those persons convicted shall "be confined at hard labor in the penitentiary for not less than one year or more than five years," with a double tax assessed.

FIRE STATION PLANNED IN DRUID HILLS SECTION

Plans for establishing a private fire company in Druid Hills, fashionable Atlanta residential section, were announced Thursday by A. T. Conway, sales representative of J. V. Draughon Fire Department, Inc., a company now operating in Belle Meade, Nashville, Tenn.

A fire station and complete fire fighting equipment will be installed within 60 days, Conway said, if Druid Hills residents signify their desire for the protection. The fire department will be private for the use of its subscribers.

Druid Hills now has high insurance rates because of lack of protection, it lying outside the city limits of both Atlanta and Decatur, and insurance officials in Atlanta estimated that rates would be reduced if the private company succeeds in furnishing protection considered adequate by underwriters.

125 COFFEE ROASTERS DISCUSS THEIR CODE

Approximately 125 coffee roasters of the southeast held a one-day meeting at the Biltmore hotel Thursday to discuss the various provisions of the coffee-industry code which was approved on February 5.

Among those present were R. A. Workman, district manager of the Maury Cole Company, Atlanta; J. Rosenthal, of New York, and A. E. Wehmeyer, vice president of the Maury Cole Company, of Memphis.

Late May Adjournment Seen As Congress Speeds Work

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—There was more talk of late May adjournment today at the White House and congress set its gears in a record-breaking ratchet in an effort to attain that goal.

The senate rolled up a two-day record that astonished even democratic leaders and exhausted clerks who kept tab on the results.

Most of the activity that kept members working far into the night after earlier-than-usual convening hours was on the senate side, but assistance from the house, whose program is farther advanced, was needed to send important measures to the White House.

Between actions on major bills and air mail debate, the senate passed 165 private relief and other measures of a secondary nature yesterday and added 90 more to its speed record today.

Final action had been taken on the administration sugar control and home loan bond guarantee bills.

Conferees on the huge tax measure had reached a complete agreement, with the exception of one item, on the scores of major differences between the house and senate texts, and the finance committee started on the way to enactment one of the last important administration proposals — the reciprocal tariff.

Chairman Fletcher, of the banking committee, presented a formal report on the stock market regulation bill, which will jockey for floor priority with the tariff.

The senate agriculture committee approved the latest administration proposition to strengthen the licensing provisions of the farm act and to permit marketing agreements with dealers in non-basic commodities.

Two important measures giving additional powers to the already authority-burdened Reconstruction Finance Corporation also were passed by the senate. One would authorize the government agency to compromise its interest in railroads with a view to scaling down what President Roosevelt holds to be a top-heavy capital structure. Another would permit it to finance shipments abroad through an export bank.

On the house side, the stock market regulation bill is the most important administration proposal remaining to be considered.

Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the democratic leader, said today the house woould adopt the conference report on the tax bill and reject the 10 per cent supertax amendment.

The stock market bill is to be brought up immediately afterwards and most of next week probably will be devoted to its consideration.

POLICE PUSH SEARCH FOR 4 'RIDE' BANDITS

No Clue to Their Identity Found; Stolen Articles Identified by Owners.

City detectives Thursday were busy gathering up the loose ends of a series of crimes in Atlanta in the last several days, including search for four men in a green sedan who escaped Wednesday with $450 of Fulton county emergency relief funds.

Working with only a meager description of the men who kidnaped and robbed John A. Butler and E. H. Lanford, relief agency messengers, Wednesday morning, the officers Thursday night had no clue as to their identity. Butler and Lanford were abducted and robbed of the relief money near Morris Brown College on Boulevard in a daring daylight robbery.

Meanwhile, detectives said Miss Saydie Fowler, of Smyrna, identified numerous articles found in possession of four youths and a girl Wednesday as having been stolen from her home recently. Those held on "suspicion" by police gave their names as Louis Craig, of New Orleans; James Moore, of Houston, Texas; Mrs. Maxine Wells, of Dallas, Texas; R. H. Wells, of San Antonio, Texas; and Codie Sorrells, of San Antonio. They were arrested on Trinity avenue Wednesday after C. E. Perkins, of Briarcliff road, identified articles found in their room as having been stolen from his home.

Police were investigating the robbery of Jack Gray, 32, of 251 Pine street, who was beaten and severely cut with a knife by a negro man early Thursday morning. Gray said the negro attacked him near his home when he resisted the robbery. He was treated at Grady hospital for a wound in the side.

As a result of the number of burglaries in Atlanta, all police radio cars will have powerful searchlights installed immediately, Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant announced Thursday. The lights will be used in spotting burglars after cars have received calls, the chief said.

During the absence of the family, the residence of the Rev. E. L. Flanagan, of 1110 Gordon street, was looted by burglars, it was discovered Thursday. No description of the articles lost was given by the minister.

Forrest Cavalrymen Wanted for Reunion

This notice is for Confederate cavalrymen who served under General Nathan Bedford Forrest. As a tribute to the leader for whom the veterans' camp in Chattanooga, Tenn., is named, they are especially invited to attend the forty-fourth annual reunion of Confederate veterans in the Tennessee city June 6-8.

Many events have been arranged for their entertainment there, and through congressional appropriations, the United States marine band will be present to play. W. Shep Shelton, commander of the J. W. Bachman camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans in Chattanooga, has urged that "all the boys" be rounded up for the reunion.

COAL FREIGHT RATE HIKE IS DISAPPROVED

I. C. C. Ruling Saves Atlantans $100,000 Yearly, Freight Bureau Says.

A proposed increase in freight rates on bituminous coal for the Atlanta vicinity has been ruled down by the interstate commerce commission, resulting in an annual saving to Atlantans of approximately $100,000 per year, it was announced here Thursday by the Atlanta Freight Bureau.

For 14 years the freight bureau has fought the proposal to increase the freight rate on coal 25 cents and still later 26 cents per ton, and the battle was won this week when the I. C. C. ruled that the increase was not justified. The proposal would have affected coal shipped in from mines in Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky and southwest Virginia.

Since 1920, Atlantans have saved more than $1,500,000 which they would have been required to pay had not the freight bureau consolidated efforts of various companies to prevent the increase being adopted and carried the battle through to a successful end, the announcement said. Rate cases on the question began in 1920 and litigation has constantly been before the I. C. C. in the last few years.

The saving will be felt by small lot buyers as well as carload purchasers, it was said.

5 LOCAL STUDENTS WIN HIGH AWARDS FOR CREATIVE WORK

Five Atlanta high school students have won high places in the scholastic awards for creative work by secondary school students in art and literature, it was announced Thursday by Scholastic, national high school weekly paper. The awards had the support of the Carnegie Corporation.

Those winning prizes were: George Goodwin and Louis Marsh, of Boys' High school, second place in journalism with an interview; Olivia Sudderth, 17, of Commercial High school, fourth place with a historical article; Catherine Weaver, 17, of Commercial High, was awarded $25 and second place for an essay, and Charles Merkle Jones, 16, of Tech High school, fourth in mechanical drawing in the national contest in which thousands of students were entered.

James Knight and Avery Means, freshmen at Tech High, both received honorable mention in journalism for articles submitted by them. They are members of the staff of Tatler, school paper, as is Goodwin.

Ralph T. Jones Speaks At 'Y' Rally Saturday

Ralph T. Jones, dramatic critic of The Atlanta Constitution, will be the principal speaker at the Athens Y camp rally at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night. Mr. Jones has been a member of the camp's cultural committee for the last three years. His subject is "What I Know of the Athens Y Camp, Where Boys Are Made Into Men."

Billie Massengale, son of W. R. Massengale, of Atlanta, will speak on "What My Three Summers at the Athens Y Camp Has Meant to Me." McCarthy Crenshaw, University of Georgia athlete, who is in charge of water activities at the camp, will discuss the camp program. W. T. Forbes, superintendent of the camp, and Mrs. Henry M. Rice, of Atlanta, will be the other speakers.

Moving pictures of camp activities will be shown by A. Butler of the Coca-Cola Company, followed by free swimming in the club's pool for boys who bring along their bathing suits and towels. The meeting will be held in the club's gymnasium.

Earlier n the day, at 2:30 o'clock, Miss Frances Forbes, director of Camp Chattooga for girls, will meet Atlanta girls in the parlors of the Athletic Club to discuss plans for the camp this year.

ATLANTANS ATTENDING RAILWAY CLUB SESSION

A private Pullman car carried 75 Atlantans to Thomasville Thursday night to attend the annual meeting and election of officers of the Association of Railway Clubs, which is holding its convention today in conjunction with the Thomasville rose show.

LABOR FEDERATION ACCUSED BY SLOAN

Plot To Disrupt Automotive Industry Charged; Closed Shop' Ignored.

BOSTON, April 26.—(AP)—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, today charged the American Federation of Labor with trying to disrupt the automotive industry and flatly declared his corporation would not recognize the "closed shop" union. Sloan said he believed the position of General Motors was in common with that of the industry as a whole.

The challenge of the automobile magnate to the labor federation was made in an address before the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

"The employe representation plan, or "company union," Sloan said, was the route through which the "real interests of both the employer and the employe can best be promoted." He said he believed collective bargaining was a "step forward" in American industrial life but expressed the conviction that the workman did not prefer the national union.

Industry's Progress.

A record of 30 years in the industry with the "finest possible co-operation between employers and employe," Sloan said, had resulted in the development of the "most aggressive industry that exists in our country; . . . a wage rate always high, and today higher than that existing in any other major industry; . . . working condtions second to none; co-operative plans betweens employer and employe of various kinds to advance the social and economic position of the employe;" and organized savings promoted by the employer in which employer and employes had participated.

"Notwithstanding all this—facts which cannot and have not been denied—the American Federation of Labor, through its organized agents," said Sloan, "is today making a determined drive to stir up trouble; to sow the seed of discontent; to disrupt this great industry—a key industry making determined efforts to promote the cause of national recovery—an industry which has not only done everything it has been asked to do by the president of the United States, in support of his efforts, but has done so promptly, effectively and loyally.

Statement of Position.

"To sum up this phase of my discussion, and in order that there may be no confusion as to definition of terms, let me state concretely the position of General Motors Corporation, which I believe to be in common with that of the automotive industry.

"We will deal with any representation of our employes, properly established.

"We believe in, and will support, the principle of collective bargaining. On the other hand, we will, under no circumstances, permit any group, be it a majority or a minority group, from preventing other groups dealing with us. This is both the law and the interpretation of the law by the national recovery administrator.

"Again, under no circumstances will we recognize any union as that term is interpreted by the American Federation of Labor—that means the closed shop."

Sloan quoted President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, as having said in an official statement on September 18, 1933, that the federation "is not going to be stopped in its aggressive and sweeping campaign to bring workers into unions throughout the nation" and that it was going to be "the recognized, all-embracing spokesman for American labor," with "no room in the United States for any other labor movement."

Saying recognition of the union means the closed shop, Sloan added, "do we need any further evidence than the record itself, of the very definite objective of the American Federation of Labor to dominate American industry and make every American workman pay a price for a job?"

The American workman, left to his own individual judgment, Sloan said, "has in general decided that his interests are outside of a national union rather than inside one."

THREE MEALS A DAY

KITCHEN TESTED RECEIPES

by Sally Saver

Unusual Meat Dishes.
By MARIE GIFFORD,
Department of Food Economics
Armour & Co.

Have you ever wished for something different in meats, something that would be a change for steaks, chops and roasts? I think most of us have and while we were making this wish we were overlooking the portions of the meat animal which are known as "meat delicacies." These are the liver, heart, kidneys, tripe, sweetbreads and brains.

These meats are rich in vitamins and minerals and because of this are particularly valuable in the diet.

Since many questions are asked as to the cooking of these meats, the following recipes may be of help to you:

Broiled Kidneys.

Small kidneys, bacon drippings, salt and pepper, grated nutmeg.

Split kidneys; cover with boiling water and simmer over a low fire for five minutes. Drain and remove the skin. Dip into melted bacon drippings and season with salt, pepper and nutmeg. Broil five to eight minutes, turning frequently and brushing with drippings. Serve with any preferred sauce.

Sauted Brains.

Soak brains in cold water for one hour; remove membranes and, parboil in salted water to which a little vinegar or lemon juice has been added. Drain, cover with cold water and when cold, drain again. Separate into pieces the size of an oyster, dip in crumbs, then in egg, and then in crumbs again. Brown in butter or fry in deep fat and drain on unglazed paper.

Tripe a la Creole.

One pound boiled tripe, 2 cans tomatoes, 3 tablespoons bacon drippings, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 3 tablespoons chopped onion, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika.

Method: Melt drippings in frying pan; add onion and cook until brown, add tomatoes and cook 10 minutes. Mash through strainer and add flour which has been mixed with cold water; boil five minutes, season. Wash and dry tripe, cut in small pieces, sprinkle with flour, brown on both sides in hot drippings, add green pepper and then add to sauce. Garnish with boiled rice and parsley. Serves four.

Liver Loaf.

Remove skin from one pound of beef liver, cut into slices and cook in boiling salted water for five minutes. Drain, put through the meat grinder and add: One cup bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons tomato ketchup, 1-3 cup fresh pork, chopped; salt and pepper to taste, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, 1 egg, beaten; juice 1-2 lemon.

Mix well together and turn into baking pan lined with slices of bacon. Press the mixture firmly into the pan and lay strips of bacon on top. Bake in a moderate oven 1 1-2 hours. Serves five.

Sweetbreads.
General Preparation.

Plunge sweetbreads into cold water; soak 1-2 hour. Remove loose membrane. Then cover with boiling water, allowing 1 teaspoon salt and 1 1-2 tablespoon vinegar to each quart of water. Simmer 20 minutes. Keep in cold water until ready to use to prevent darkening.

Stewed Heart.

Two calves, lambs or pigs hearts, 2 tablespoons cut onions, 2 tablespoons carrot or celery, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon caramel, 1 tablespoon cinegar or lemon juice.

Wash hearts thoroughly in cold water; remove all tough muscles and veins; cut in small dice and cover with cold water for 15 minutes. Drain and cover with boiling water; add onion and carrot, and boil slowly for three hours; if water boils away, add just enough to keep heart covered. When tender, add salt, a little pepper and flour, which has been rubbed smooth with melted butter. Boil five minutes; add the caramel and vinegar or lemon juice. Put into the center of a chop plate with boiled rice or mashed potatoes as a border. Sprinkle with parsley or celery top and with paprika. Serves four.

Creamed Sweetbreads.

Chop fine 1-2 can mushrooms, mix with prepared sweetbreads. Add 1 cup well seasoned white sauce. Heat thoroughly in double boiler. Garnish with peas.

RECIPES PREPARED BY MOVIE STARS

Here are favorite recipes of movie stars:

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS.

Rice Timbales Mexicana: Drop 3-4 cup rice in quart boiling water. Stir constantly so that rice does not stick to bottom of pot. Boil for 20 minutes or until rice is tender. Drain rice and place in a saucepan. Add 4 tablespoons thick cream and 4 teaspoons powdered sugar. Place buttered moulds and stand in hot water 10 minutes or longer. Unmold and serve with hot maple sauce or hot chocolate sauce.

MAE WEST.

Lobster Bisque: Crack bones of 2 pounds of lobsters and remove the meat. Cook the small claws and lobster bones for 20 minutes in two cups of cold water. Brown 2 tablespoons of flour in 2 tablespoons of butter. Drain the bones and cook with the browned flour. Cut the tail meat of the lobster in small pieces and add one quart of scalded milk. Combine the two liquids, add the body and claw meat cut fine. Season and serve sprinkled with paprika.

JIMMY CAGNEY.

Welsh Rarebit: Dice 2 cups American cheese. Place in double boiler and add 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1-8 teaspoon Cayenne pepper, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 6 tablespoons ale or beer. Stir briskly while cooking. When cheese shows signs of boiling, pour contents over hot toast.

MARION DAVIES.

Peach Shortcake Tampa: Place 6 canned peach halves in flat dish, cover with peach syrup from can and heat in moderate oven. Mix 1-4 cup sugar with 1 cup milk and dip the rounds of six large slices of bread into this mixture. Brown the bread in pan with hot butter same as you would when making French toast. Brown on both sides and arrange slices on six warmed plates. Remove the peach halves from their hot syrup, drain and place half a peach on each slice of bread. Cover peach with whipped cream and trim with chopped nuts and sliced dates.

Harriman Businesses Remove Blue Eagles

HARRIMAN, Tenn., April 26.—(AP)—Fifty-six business and professional men in Harriman, a town of 4,700 population, sent a telegram today to President Roosevelt and NRA Administrator Hugh Johnson, announcing they had taken down their Blue Eagle "as a protest against the NRA's forceable removal of the Eagle from the Harriman hosiery mills."

The telegram, made public by S. K. Johnson, an automobile dealer, declared that "if the mill is not permitted to operate under the NRA emblem, advise us where to send ours."

TRAMP SHIPS' RENEW RATE-FIXING ATTACK

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Attacks by American operators of foreign flag ships and tramp steamers upon rate-fixing provisions of the shipping code were resumed today at the third public hearing on the proposed charter which NRA Administrator Johnson once referred to as "another pineapple."

The rate-fixing provisions were denounced as "monopolistic and unsound" by the foreign flag operators, and one spokesman for the "tramp steamers," Jules L'Hote, of the Page L'Hote Company, of New Orleans, accused Joseph B. Weaver, deputy administrator presiding at the hearing, of showing preference to the conference lines.

WOMEN VOTERS SEEK U. S.-LEAGUE ALLIANCE

BOSTON, April 26.—(AP)—The National League of Women Voters today renewed its pledge to work for the entrance of the United States into the world court and the League of Nations and opened a campaign to bring about governmental control of manufacture and shipment of arms.

In a day-long session of its eleventh national convention broken only by a brief recess, the League adopted a partial program of work and study for the next two years and then dropped its cares, temporarily, for a night of merriment at the convention banquet. Final business sessions will be held tomorrow along with the election of officers.

TUGWELL ADDRESSES DARTMOUTH STUDENTS

HANOVER, N. H., April 26.—(AP) Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, told Dartmouth University students tonight that in the past the autocratic theory in industry and the democratic theory in government had prevented "an intelligent approach" to technical and industrial change.

Tugwell said in an address that each "great technical and industrial change has had effects for which society was totally unprepared," and that "an intelligent approach to them would have required adjustment in all the institutions and situations they affected."

The former Columbia professor of economics said "the new deal involves some of these decisions."

Spanish Government Still Without Cabinet

MADRID, April 26.—(AP)—Spain tonight was still without a cabinet while President Niceto Alcala Zamora faced the apparent alternatives of forming one speedily or resigning himself.

Despite a series of hurried conferences with leaders of various parties, the president reached no decision on a course of action.

He may, it was indicated, rename Alejandro Lerroux, whose cabinet resigned yesterday, to form another one, bringing into it several opposition leaders to conciliate opponents of the government.

The country, under a state of alarm declared yesterday, was tense. A spread of strikes, with attendant disorders, was feared unless the government quickly steered out of what apparently is the gravest crisis in the history of the young third republic.

Martinez De Velasco, leader of the agrarian party, refused the premiership, offered him by Alcala Zamora.

camp on the charge that convicts had been used for personal services and that prisoners had been strung up by the hands and feet for infractions of the rules.

In a statement today Dr. Howell said the senate committee visited Butts county and made its report to the governor at the instance of the chairman of the senate committee on prisons, Joel B. Mallett, of Jackson.

Senator Mallett, who resides here, would not comment on Dr. Howell's charges.

"Joel B. Mallett is a brother of my opponent in the present primary," Dr. Howell said.

"The committee was sent here for political purposes and contrary to expectations the report is having the opposite effect from what it was supposed to have in that it has placed my opponent in an embarrassing situation. The committee did not look me up, but I looked them up and showed them the work that had been done by prisoners in June of last year. Two grand juries since that time have complimented me on my public services.

"The committee did not report all the facts, as is known by every citizen of Butts county. For instance, I told them, and so did others, of my permitting a legislator to be kept in the convict camp for 13 days during the year 1931, allowing convicts to wait on him while there, when he was in such a drunken condition that his own people requested me to let him stay there and sober up."

Dr. Howell said there is "nothing at all to that inhumane treatment charge and the prisoners as well as citizens here know that it is untrue. Would be glad to have newspapers or others investigate these charges. We treat prisoners right but work them like we do free labor."

The county commission chairman said he has reduced the bonded indebtedness of Butts county in three years from more than $500,000 to $20,000 and the local taxes to a point where the county instead of being second from the highest, now ranks in keeping with the times."

"In fact Butts county is practically out of debt, has a good credit and is going strong," he said.

"The people are satisfied with the management of county affairs. In order to bring the county out as I have, it was of course necessary to cut out politics and discharge those not rendering services in keeping with their salaries. That is really the reason why this framed report was made."

ops on every subject except one. Bishop Collins Denny, of Virginia, noting an exception to the recommendation for closer affiliation between the northern and southern Methodist churches a long-agitated subject.

On this question the majority of the bishops said:

"We have been looking forward toward ultimate union for a long time. We need to move toward it and in a way that will effectively promote the interest of all American Methodism.

Protestanism in this country greatly needs the momentum of a great uniting movement in the mobilization of the ecclesiastical forces of the same origin, same policy, same belief, same spirit and same purpose. The hope of unity and the union of all American Methodism should never be allowed to grow dim.

Bishop Denny said he did not subscribe to this section "for fear it might be construed as recommending unification, which interpretation, in my opinion, might damage the church."

Bishop Candler Presides.

Massed thousands in the Jackson municipal auditorium heard the bishops' message, read almost immediately after the venerable senior bishop of southern Methodist, Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, Ga., had led his colleagues to the rostrum and opened the conference with prayer.

One chair in the episcopal cabinet remained vacant as the sessions opened—that reserved for Bishop James Cannon Jr., of Richmond, Va., detained in Washington by his trial on charges of conspiracy to violate the corrupt practices act in connection with 1928 activities against the presidential campaign of Al Smith.

Five hundred clerical and lay delegates representing the church's as conferences and missions had their credentials certified in preparation for the work of molding Methodist policies during a sitting expected to continue three or four weeks. Dr. L. H. Estes, of Brownsville, Texas, a delegate from the Memphis conference, was unanimously re-elected general conference secretary.

Bishop Moore told the assembly that the college of bishops anticipated "the greatest advance to build around "a comprehensive financial system, a worthy missionary endeavor, an adequate educational program, a consistent and persistent evangelical movement, and an intelligent promotion of the meaning, spirit and purpose and value of Methodism."

May Elect Five Bishops.

The conference was urged to elect five new bishops to replace two who died during the quadrennium and three who will automatically retire through the age limit this year, the recommendation constituting an answer to a movement to redistribute conference jurisdictions in lieu of new elections at this time. Life terms for bishops as opposed to limited terms were defended, the college declaring:

"Bishops should be as subject to retirement from service for unacceptability and inefficiency as are ministers."

Revision of the discipline to provide for such retirement was asked.

The college noted that mergers of some of the denominations schools "seem inevitable."

A goal of 750,000 new members in the next four years was suggested in the recommendation for a "well organized plan of evangelism."

The bishops urged the church "to stand unalterably for the utter annihilation of the liquor curse" and condemned war.

The Rev. D. C. French, of Dallas, Texas, a ministerial delegate, today accepted co-leadership with William T. King, editor of the Christian Advocate, Nashville, Tenn., in what the Texas associates of Dr. French termed the "French revolution," aimed at taking away from the bishops their virtually lifelong offices.

"From the information I have been able to gather," said Dr. French today, "I am thoroughly convinced that the limited terms of the episcopacy will be adopted by the general conference."

Delegates held a divided opinion over whether the question was a purely conference subject to be decided by a majority vote, or one of fundamental origin requiring a two-thirds vote of the conference and ratification by the district conferences.

The original proposal provided for superannuation back to district conferences after four years in office and election of new bishops, but today delegates were discussing a compromise of eight years.

Equal Women's Rights Sought.

Mrs. W. J. Piggott, of Irvington, Ky., and Miss Daisy Davies, of Atlanta, Ga., declared today that they intended to appeal directly to the conference from the floor under the heading of privileged resolutions for equal rights for women in the ministry, and equal representation in district and general conferences.

This proposal received a majority vote of the general conference four years ago, but failed of the required two-thirds majority for submission to the district conferences where it must be ratified to become effective.

Memorials seeking unification of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, the Methodist Episcopal church and the Methodist Protestant church were referred today to the committee on church relations, headed by Dr. T. D. Ellis, of Louisville. These memorials, from scattered sections, sought to unify the branches of Methodism by 1944, or 100 years after the separation of the northern and southern churches.

The legislative machinery of the conference was set in motion during the day with organization of the 12 standing committees, from which comes most of business considered on the floor.

Dr. H. L. Estes, of the Memphis conference, was re-elected general secretary. He served at the 21st conference at Dallas four years ago.

The powerful committee on episcopacy, which considers all matters relating to the college of bishops, chose as its chairman Rev. J. W. Perry, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Harry Denman, Birmingham.

Fund Release Sought By University System

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Immediate release of over $3,000,000 by public works administration for new buildling at institutions of the University of Georgia was sought today by officials of the university system.

Public works already has allotted the money and its release depends upon drafting of a satisfactory contract.

Philip Weltner, chancellor of the university system; Dr. S. V. Sanford, president of the University of Georgia, and H. W. Caldwell, dean of the university law school, presented to public works officials data to substantiate the legality of the contract and to prove that each unit of the proposed construction was self-liquidating.

Senate Body Approves Nomination of Moore

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The senate finance committee today approved the nomination of Daniel D. Moore as internal revenue collector at New Orleans. He is opposed by Senator Huey P. Long.

The action was taken after only a few minutes discussion and without a record vote.

Moore had been bitterly opposed by Senator Long, democrat, Louisiana, at two long series of hearings and on the senate floor. Several thousand dollars was spent in bringing more than a score of witnesses from Louisiana to Washington.

Moore is a former newspaper editor and real estate operator.

PUBLISHERS HEAR MRS. ROOSEVELT

First Lady Warns Against Newspapers Evading Duty of Nation's Women

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—A woman tonight told the nation's newspaper publishers what women want and expect to find in their papers.

The woman was Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, first lady of the land. She spoke at the annual dinner of the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

"We know that newspapers are published for men," she said, "but don't give us just women's pages.

"Watch your women! They read the news of today, not the women's pages. As a rule they are not interested in abstract problems, like currency. They are interested in human relations."

Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Ogden Reid, wife of the publisher of the New York Herald-Tribune, were the only women at the speakers' table.

"Women of today," she said, "know all there is to know about cakes and pies and children."

She was commenting on "women's pages," and the great newspapers that continue to publish them. She mentioned the subjects on which she receives letters from women, including business, the old age pension problem, the child labor amendment, war and war loans, public health, labor, economic conditions from the point of view of the middle aged woman and from the point of view of youth.

Smiling, she said:

"I do not expect you to take me really seriously. But women want real facts about all of the phases of life in the world today. Women are more likely to face facts and think things through and look into the future than many of you men yet are ready to believe.

"Your papers, gentlemen, are being read today not only by men but by women, and perhaps women read them with a newer and therefore more precious care than the men.

"They are much more apt to weigh the facts, the opinions, the editorials from their own personal experiences. There was a day when women took no interest in political affairs. That day is gone."

3 Gas Stations Robbed By Same Bandit Pair

Three filling stations were robbed Thursday night by two men who, from the descriptions furnished by managers of the victimized stations, are believed to have been the same pair.

At a Spur filling station on Forrest road, near the railroad underpass, the men got between $12 and $14 in cash and then locked W. I. Boggs, of 942 North avenue, N. E., and C. F. Martin, of 126 Third avenue, Oakhurst, attendants at the station, in the building and drove away.

Shortly thereafter the two drove up to the Standard filling station at Peachtree and Collier roads, where they obtained $100 from B. T. Keen, night manager, who was alone in the station at the time.

H. A. Barfield, of 924 Washington street, manager of a Gulf filling station, reported that he was robbed of between $8 and $10 by two white men who drove up to the gasoline pump in a coach automobile. Barfield said that the men locked him in a room of the filling station.

In each case the procedure followed was the same, the men driving up to the station ostensibly to buy gas and then drawing nickel-plated guns and ordering the station attendants into a room where they could be locked up after being robbed.

The men were described as dressed in brown suits, one wearing sun glasses and a brown hat, the other being bareheaded. They were said to be about 30 years of age.

STARCHY MEALS BLOAT YOU?

Use Placidan, the new 2-way Antacid, when you begin feeling uneasy

Few people have stomachs so strong that they don't need help to take care of the unbalanced meals (too much bread, potatoes, macaroni, etc.) that they eat. Many times you feel sick after eating, sour substances rise in your throat, your stomach feels "lumpy" and hot, you belch bad-tasting gas, your starchy meals are creating excessive acidity. Take a swallow of Placidan immediately. Soon your stomach can be calm, sweet. All drug stores carry Placidan. It contains four antacids. One reduces excess acids, others keep the stomach sweet many hours. And Placidan is very pleasant to take.

Clark Howell Accorded Reception By Georgia Lawmakers at Capitol

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Passing through Washington en route to Atlanta after attending the Associated Press annual meeting in New York this week, Clark Howell, publisher of The Constitution, today was accorded an impromptu reception by the entire Georgia delegation in the lower house.

Mr. Howell had called at the office of Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, for a brief informal visit when news of his presence at the capitol became nosed abroad. One by one members of the house delegation dropped in to pay their respects and before the reception ended it assumed the proportions of a caucus.

Representative Carl Vinson, of Milledgeville, dean of the state delegation, used the occasion to bring up for discussion a number of pending congressional legislative projects having a pointed bearing on Georgia affairs. An informal review of the activities of the democratic leadership of the house was also presented by Representative Eugene Cox, of Camilla.

The others present included Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton; Representative John S. Wood, of Canton; Representative Emmett Owen, of Griffin; Representative Paul Brown, of Elberton; Representative Homer S. Parker, of Statesboro; Representative Braswell Deen, of Alma, and Representative Bryant Castellow, of Cuthbert.

Following the reception Mr. Howell returned to Atlanta tonight on a late train.

RELIGIOUS COLONY HEAD LIFTS BAN ON PORK, TOBACCO

ZION, Ill., April 26.—(AP)—Wilbur Glenn Voliva decided today that an occasional pork sandwich or after-dinner cigar wouldn't keep anyone out of heaven.

Therefore, he announced in a decree that startled the residents of this religious colony, neither eating of pork nor using of tobacco would henceforth be grounds for expulsion from the Christian Catholic Apostolic church, of Zion.

Alexander Dowie, founder of the sect, had always called hogs scavengers of the earth.

Not that Voliva approves of either practice. He will undertake a campaign against them, but "using the power of speech and the printed word rather than the lash."

"It is better to bring a man into church and show him why he is doing wrong than to ban him and leave him in ignorance," the dictator of Zion for 27 years decreed.

Voliva included a warning that such things as "beer guzzling and whisky soaking" never will be tolerated. Use of cosmetics, chewing of gum by young women, wearing of short skirts and other conduct deemed unseemly by Dowie and Voliva also will be banned.

His campaifns to make trains stop shrilling their whistles at Zion crossings and his teachings that the world is flat also will be continued.

50 CASES SETTLED BY LABOR BOARD

Perfect Record Enjoyed by Regional Body Launched Last October.

The Atlanta regional labor board, embracing six southern states, has a perfect record of cases settled—50—and it cost the fedeeral government but 25 cents per man to arbitrate differences involving 16,175 workers, Frank Coffee, executive secretary of the board, said Thursday.

The board, which began functioning last October, had had 74 disputes referred to it up to April 1 and 50 already have been marked "closed." Coffee said hearings had not been held on most of the remaining 24, adding that the board is considering a few of the cases now.

Thirty-nine of the cases were settled by mutual agreement before the labor board, the secretary added. Only in 11 instances was it necessary for the board to reach an arbitrary decision.

"It is remarkable how quickly two factions that have been at daggers point reach agreement when they come before the board," Coffee said. "Employers and employes seem to understand each other's problems better when they sit around an arbitration table with the labor board."

Much of the work done by the regional board, which has authority in Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Florida and North and South Carolina, doesn't get into its records. Coffee estimated that cases involving an additional 16,000 men had been adjusted without the necessity of a hearing before the board.

Coffee has conducted 30 elections to determine who will represent employes in collective bargaining with employers. Ten of 14 strikes have been settled and 12 other potential strikes were averted after the workers had already voted to walk out.

Violation of the collective bargaining clause of the national recovery act was the complaint in 50 cases. Sixteen others involved demands for wage increases; two alleged that weekly earnings had been reduced in violation of the code, and the remaining six had to do with working conditions. The board has ordered 216 workers reinstated after complaints that they had been fired for activities justified by the collective bargaining clause.

The labor body sits as a board of arbitration only with the consent of both parties. When either or both disagree to the board acting, it concerns itself with finding the facts in the case. If either side refuses to accept the board's recommendations, Coffee said, the case is referred to the national labor board, which can either ask the department of justice to prosecute or turn the matter over to the national compliance board for action. A number of cases have been sent to the national board and the local body has been upheld in every instance, its secretary added.

Labor and industry members of the board have been in agreement on every case, Coffee said.

TECH ANNUAL REVIEW WILL BE HELD TODAY

The annual review of military and naval R. O. T. C. units of Georgia Tech will be held at Grant field at 3 o'clock this afternoon instead of the time originally scheduled, at 7 o'clock tonight, Captain John J. London, commandant of the units, announced Thursday.

In addition to exhibition drills by the prize-winning companies, platoons and squads of the regiments, the review also will feature various individual competitive events, winners of which will receive gold, silver and bronze medals.

A trophy cup will be presented to company A, of the infantry, commanded by Cadet Captain John W. Hatcher, for the best-drilled company. The first platoon, company A, commanded by Cadet First Lieutenant W. T. Millican, will receive a prize for the best-drilled platoon. First squad, second platoon, company A, headed by Corporal H. C. Taylor, will receive the award for the best-drilled squad.

Cadet Lieutenant Commander John Norman Gentry, of the naval group, will be given the award of the General John Floyd chapter, Daughters of 1812, with Mrs. Moreland Spear making the presentation and Cadet Colonel Benjamin Mattingly, of the military group, will receive the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R. medal from Mrs. S. E. Brownell.

The annual military and naval ball will begin at 10 o'clock tonight at Peachtree Gardens.

200 HONOR MEN AT TECH WILL GET AWARDS TODAY

Recognition and awards for scholastic achievements will be conferred on more than 200 students of Georgia School of Technology in the annual honor day exercises at 10:45 o'clock this morning in the chapel of the administration building. Among the students receiving awards will be 90 Atlantans.

Dr. M. Ashby Jones, prominent Atlanta minister, will deliver the principal address. In conjunction with honor day, fathers' day will be observed, and the school will hold open house, welcoming families and friends of students and alumni.

The honor roll will be read by H. H. Caldwell, registrar. Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech, will extend honor day greetings and will introduce by Jones.

Clifford M. Witcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Witcher, of 239 Moreland avenue, N. E., totally blind since infancy, will receive the Phi Kappa Phi scholarship cup, the highest scholastic award, for having attained the highest average in the senior class.

ST. PHILIP'S BOXWOOD DEDICATION SUNDAY

Boxwood shrubbery, the source of which was spared by General Sherman during his march through Georgia because of a southern woman's kindness to his wounded soldiers, will be dedicated by Dean Raimundo de Ovies following the Sunday morning services at the Cathedral of St. Philip, where the shrubbery has been planted.

The boxwood was given the cathedral by Mrs. E. C. Thrash and her daughter, Mrs. S. T. Dobbs, in memory of the late Dr. E. C. Thrash and his friend, the Rev. Thomas Henry Johnston, former dean of St. Philip's. Its moving and planting was made possible through the gift of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Percy, in memory of their father, Dr. A. P. H. Akers, on whose father's Boulder Crest road farm, later bought by Dr. Thrash, Dr. Akers' grandmother nursed wounded federal soldiers, causing the Yankee leader to throw a picket around the home and protect it from invading troops.

Some of the boxwood given the cathedral, it is said, was planted by Dr. Akers' grandmother.

Martial Law Order Looming in Austria

VIENNA, April 26.—(AP)—A series of disorders and acts of violence in several sections of Austria produced the rumors tonight that martial law will be proclaimed during the May Day week-end when a new Austrian constitution will be proclaimed.

A riot near Gmunden and a bridge bombing near Linz caused authorities to redouble their watchfulness.

Rioting in Vienna during the meeting of Vice Bourgomaster Winter and workers April 23 was considered particularly significant by those who expect the situation to come to a head on May Day.

The political situation also became increasingly complicated tonight as the possibility appeared that a small landbund group might block a reported government plan to get a rump parliament to approve the constitution before May 1.

GASOLINE FIRE VICTIM SUCCUMBS TO BURNS

Mell Gunter, 24, of 295 Dargan place, a mechanic, died Thursday morning in Grady hospital as the result of burns received a week ago when an open pail of gasoline caught fire in a garage on Whitehall street. Gunter was working at a bench when an electric extension light fell into the gasoline and set it on fire.

Gunter is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gunter, of Monroe, and three brothers, John and Wilfred Gunter, of Monroe, and Howell Gunter, of Atlanta. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock (eastern standard time), this afternoon in the Mt. Vernon Christian church, near Monroe. The Rev. Duke Jones will officiate. Interment will be in the Mt. Vernon cemetery, with Almand & Co., in charge.

CHORUS OF 500 VOICES ON PROGRAM SUNDAY

A chorus of 500 voices, representing 40 Atlanta negro churches of all denominations, will be presented in a special program at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the city auditorium, and it was announced Thursday that more than 6,000 persons are expected to attend. A section will be reserved for white people.

At the conclusion of the concert which will feature plantation songs and spirituals, the McDaniel choir convention, under whose sponsorship it was arranged, will disclose the results of a contest in which a choir member of one of the churches will receive special recognition. Selections by Emma McDaniel, noted negro singer, will be heard during the concert.

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 27, 1934.

EUROPE'S UNREST.

Of all the nations in Europe, only two, Italy and Russia, are free from definite currents of unrest, and in these two the peaceful conditions that exist are enforced by the mailed fists of all-powerful dictators.

Reports from Spain tell of outbreaks, with bullets and bombs playing a prominent part, because of religious dissatisfaction. In France the communist threat is becoming daily more aggravated, with disorders sending hundreds daily to prisons and hospitals. In Germany the communists are also troublesome, despite Hitler's firm hold on the government, and the religious question is likewise a disturbing issue.

Austria, fresh from a civil war that saw hundreds of its men and women shot down in their homes and on the city streets, is ready for an explosion, and the other central European nations are seething with plots of various kinds. Even in England, the fascist black shirts only a few days ago staged a meeting with an attendance of more than 10,000, in which the attacks on the government were little less than treasonable.

Of all the great peoples of the earth, only those of the United States have anything like the semblance of sound internal peace. We have no greater national asset than our good sportsmanship in our attitude towards government control. When we are defeated at the polls, we take our loss in good humor, and, instead of resorting to bullets and bombs, lay our plans for the next battle of ballots.

It is a national characteristic that goes farther than anything else in contributing to stability of our government and of every condition affecting our daily lives.

The present unrest in Europe emphasizes the wisdom of the strict immigration laws which a decade or so ago cut off the huge stream of men, women and children that was pouring over our borders from every corner of the globe. Most of these immigrants were representatives of the same classes that are now responsible for the disturbances and clashes from which Europe periodically suffers.

Had our immigration barriers not been put up, a large per cent of Europe's trouble-makers would now be in the United States and our troubles from radicals would be serious in nature, instead of inconsequential, as they are.

We should, and do, welcome worth-while citizens of other countries who wish to cast their lots with us, but other nations are welcome to the riff-raff of their populations.

COTTON'S NEWEST OUTLET.

The material increase in cotton consumption that can be gained by the development of new outlets for cotton is emphasized by R. J. Cheathem and John T. Wigginton, cotton technologists of the federal bureau of agricultural economics, in an article commenting on the enlarged use of cotton bags in solving the problem of merchandising vegetables and fruits.

These federal experts point out that the use of cotton for consumer packaging of potatoes alone grew from 500,000 bags in 1928 to more than 10,000,000 bags in 1932, and that the success which has marked the use of bagging for this purpose assures its adoption in rapidly increasing quantities for all other types of agricultural products.

Textile mills are now manufacturing a dual-mesh bag, close woven on one side and with open fabric on the other, for advertising purposes. First put out only two years ago, more than 2,000,000 of these bags have been sold and the market for them is constantly growing larger. The first fabrics of this nature were manufactured in the laboratory of the textile school of the North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering, and are now being manufactured by textile mills in every section of the country.

Surveys conducted by the government have revealed that "wholesalers and retailers believe that the small cotton bag is rapidly becoming the principal type of container for merchandising potatoes, onions and citrus fruits."

While bags are being made from burlap and paper, as well as cotton, the use of the former materials is rapidly decreasing because it has been found that cotton bags make the most attractive packages; that they supply a suitable surface for brand names and make possible effective advertising; that they are durable and little affected by moisture; represent minimum tare weight, and have a high salvage value.

The problem of the overproduction of cotton would be solved overnight if materials made from the fiber were used for all of the purposes for which they are suited. During the depression years marked advance has been made in the opening of new outlets for cotton, and unquestionably with the return of normal conditions the average annual consumption of the south's chief product will be materially in advance of the amount used in former years.

STERILIZATION IN CALIFORNIA.

In view of the movement, which has received the indorsement of the medical associations of the state, for the enactment of a sterilization law in Georgia, there will be general interest in the report of the Human Betterment Foundation, of Pasadena, in which the experience of California for 25 years with such a law is reviewed.

Sterilization is not a panacea, the report holds, but "in the light of California's experience, it does appear to be an integral and important part of any far-sighted and modern program for dealing with the tremendous problem of mental disease and deficiency, for helping to reduce the burden of taxation, and at the same time for preventing some of the most poignant misery and suffering that now exist."

Since the law became effective in April, 1909, California has sterilized 10,200 men and women, of whom three-fourths were insane and one-fourth feeble-minded, the ratio between the sexes being about equal.

The law provides for compulsory sterilization, but the written consent of the nearest relative is always sought, and in the vast majority of cases has been obtained.

California was one of the first states or nations to pass such a law and has sterilized as many men and women as all the rest of the world put together, the foundation points out. Now such laws exist in 27 American states, as well as many foreign countries, a total of 150,000,000 people living under these statutes.

Since there is on record no instance of ill effects upon the health of a patient from sterilization, and since the patient is not unsexed, the foundation reports that "the operation is not a punishment, but a protection, and as such is, in most cases, eagerly welcomed by the patient and his family."

The foundation further reports that, as the result of a careful survey of the workings of the law that it has conducted since 1827, it has been developed that hospital authorities, probation and parole officers, social workers and others in touch with the administration of the measure are almost unanimously convinced that it has worked well and that its scope should be extended.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Bread.

Returning from a speaking engagement in Boston to New York one morning recently into the deserted streets of Gotham, I passed the rear of a big restaurant. An employe was putting out the ash cans, an immense array of them. Half of them were filled with bread. "It's for the pigs," he said, when I asked him where the offal went. I took a better look and saw that most of the bread looked unspoiled, untouched even and I felt a queer dread creeping over me. For I was told when a little boy that whoever throws bread away, however stale, commits an almost unpardonable sin. The punishment for throwing away bread, I was told then, would be that one would have to search for it in later life and—perhaps not find it.

Older peoples have a naive, primitive reverence for bread. You find it among the French, also among the Jews. Bread is something sacred. One of the tickliest measures for any French government to undertake even in our time is to increase the price of bread by so much as an eighth of a cent. They might spill wine in France, but the peasants will never waste bread.

In olden days the Hebrews offered 12 fresh loaves to the tribal deity each day. Bread was something holy. We should have a little more regard for it in America.

On the Writing Of Books.

Every time you sit in a railway station waiting for a train, get out your notebook and scribble down some of your observations, said a publisher to me in seeing me off at the boat. "You'll soon have a book that way!" That may be true. But when I am sitting in a railway station, whether in Cairo or Kieff, I don't think of notebooks or of writing. I watch the people. Moreover, my notion of writing books is a different one. If ever I do compose a volume it will have to be something worth while, something that will add to the sum total of human knowledge, a new light on some problem, a contribution. I have no intentions of writing for entertainment. There are enough clowns in this world.

It is true, as that same publisher observed, that the best newspaper stories are written under pressure, amidst the roar and rush of the local room. But a book is not a newspaper story. A book is something more permanent. Therefore should be composed in a thoughtful manner. Too many books in our day are just trash.

Hollywood Moves.

A news item suggests that Hollywood is moving to New York. That's where it should be. Movies should be made in the midst of life, not in some distant, ethereal, specially manufactured atmosphere. In Russia last summer upon arrival I inquired where the leading movie actors and scenario writers were. I was told they were out of town, with the authors and scientists, gathering in the harvest and sharing the life of the farmers.

"Is that compulsory?" I asked.

"Not at all, but they feel," it was explained to me, "that they must be in the thick of life and not sit back in some ivory tower of touch-me-not to look down on events."

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

YOU HAD BETTER KNOW ABOUT SPRAY INFECTION.

When I was about to talk about this important health question over a national broadcasting chain the censor of the broadcasting company insisted that I omit all reference to the spray given off during ordinary conversation. He interposed no objection to references to the spray given off during coughing or sneezing, but forbade reference to the equally dangerous conversational spray, on the strange ground that it might be unpleasant for listeners to think about it! Far be it from me to imagine that the sponsors of many radio programs would expect the broadcasting company to do its duty in a situation like that.

Every one knows that during sneezing or coughing more or less spray is shot from nose and mouth, because the droplets in such spray are often quite visible. But during ordinary conversation a similar spray is given off, only it is less apparent because the droplets are too fine to be noticed, as a rule. Yet the droplets of moisture, mucus or other secretion may contain the germs or virus of disease, whether spray is produced by coughing or sneezing or by talking.

There is a difference between cough or sneeze spray (with nose and mouth uncovered) and conversation spray. The cough or sneeze spray carries up to 10 or 12 feet, while the spray from ordinary talking carries less than five feet from the nose or mouth (uncovered). This has been precisely measured by scientific investigators. It is not guesswork.

The inference which we should draw from this is plain and practical. When you have the cri or when you meet or associate with any one who has it, you are beyond effective range as long as you can manage to keep at least five feet away. At that distance you are reasonably safe or your associate is, as the circumstance may be, provided you are reasonably polite and do not sneeze or cough open-face, either in the face of your associate or upon the environment. Of course a suitable muzzle or mask should be required for animals that indulge in open-face coughing or sneezing in the presence of intelligent persons; a muzzle or a kick where it will impress the animal most.

It is entirely probable that respiratory infections are spread by kissing, and possible though I believe highly unlikely that they may be spread in some instances by the custom of shaking hands. These modes of infection are comparatively insignificant, in my judgment. The main way in which illness spreads, I believe, is via droplet or spray infection, and I am convinced (though I don't believe many other doctors are) that it is in the casual conversational spray that the vast majority of victims succumb to infection. I believe that most of the respiratory infection which some sanitary students ascribe to hand shaking is really conversational spray infection, for when you have an opponent by the hand you can pepper him thoroughly with a few hearty words of greeting or a laugh and a farewell. Mind, I do not imply that you splash when you talk—like Weber explaining things to Fields. I tell you it is impossible to converse politely and properly without emitting spray.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

BARKING WASHINGTON, April 26.—There is a little truth in what the Wall Streeters and the liberals are saying about each other on the front pages every day, but not much.

Their excited allegations are mostly old-fashioned ballyhoo for their opposing sides in the struggle over the stock market bill.

The Wall Streeters probably are spending a lot of money (as the liberals say), but it is not doing them much good. The advantage is all with the liberals. They have key men in congress with whom they work directly. The Wall Streeters are working with perhaps half a dozen congressmen (no more), who dare not openly espouse their cause.

OPERATIONS The Whitney-Redmond stock exchange group operates from a downtown hotel, but is rarely seen around the capitol. The Corcoran-Cohen liberal cheer-leaders march into councils with Chairmen Fletcher and Rayburn, of the senate and house committees, even going to the extent of writing statements for Fletcher. Their ace under-cover worker, however, is Senator Jim Byrnes, the South Carolina nonpareil, who covers the floor of the senate for them.

Their major influence, however, is Big Bertha (their affectionate name for President Roosevelt).

All this lobbying they do in the name of the people without spending a dime.

INFLUENCE The poor little rich boys from Wall Street have been doing everything they could do to beat that lineup. They started out by stirring up every employe of every brokerage house around the country to write and wire congressmen. Lately they have branched out, getting manufacturers to bring pressure on the congressmen. That is probably legitimate because every manufacturer who issued stock is affected by the bill.

The liberals recently made much of this phase of Wall Street lobbying when Rayburn discovered that certain amendments offered by the manufacturers really had come from the stock marketeers' mimeograph machine.

The trouble with the Wall Street efficiency is that most congressmen would jump up and run if they saw a Wall Streeter coming—that is, if they thought anyone was looking.

RESULTS All the charges and counter-charges will boil down in the end to exactly nothing.

A strong stock market bill will be passed within the next 30 days. Its major provisions will not be written in either house of congress. The real work will be done later in a conference of committees representing both houses.

The way things are shaping back-stage now, the house margins provisions, with some modification, will finally prevail, as will the senate independent commission idea.

That means you may expect a minimum margin requirement of 35 to 45 per cent and the market will be regulated by a federal commission of three to be appointed by the president.

Wall Street will not like this, but it can work under such an arrangement.

MASTER STROKE The best answer Mr. Roosevelt figured out to the Wirt flurry was to take Barney Baruch to the baseball game. Publicity experts considered it a master stroke. Pictures of the president tossing out the first ball always get wide public circulation, and, in them this year, Mr. Baruch sat at the right hand of the president. It was the first time he had been invited to the White House in a long time.

TOILING LEADERS Speaker Rainey and Floor Leader Byrns have been working furiously on the administration legislative program since the story got out that Mr. Roosevelt might change leaders next year.

Their feverish activity has not only virtually killed the McLeod bill, objectionable to Mr. Roosevelt, but also is having an influence on silver.

Rainey always has been a brazen silverite, but lately the silver bloc has been complaining that it is unable to get a word out of him on that subject.

NOTES You can bet your last cent that Germany will not get export credits here as long as she continues her interest-defaulting policy on her bonds. Those who are working out the export policy are agreed on that.

The independent stock market commission idea was considered a Wall Street victory at first, but the liberals are coming around now to accept it. They realize Mr. Roosevelt will appoint the commission and their group will be represented on it.

The house leadership failure was discussed at Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet meeting last Friday.

The state department continues to send up to congress bills for payment of claims to French subjects. The house foreign affairs committee knows more than to report these bills to the house. There is not a chance of French subjects getting their claims as long as the French war debt policy continues.

Some officials in the Indian bureau, housed in the vast new postoffice building, have suggested that rations and compasses be cached in various parts of the building for callers who become lost.

The nickname they have for Secretary Perkins in the labor department is "Sis."

There Is Equality Before the Law If the Bank Rolls Are Equal

By Robert Quillen

Some weeks ago the law took its revenge on two groups of young men who had violated the rules of society.

The boys in the first group were black. They were guilty of murder.

They had grown up much as domestic cattle do. They could neither read nor write. They were stupid. Except for their cotton shirts, their overalls and their shapeless shoes, they differed but little from the simple creatures that were brought to America in the hold of slave ships.

The law butchered them.

The other group was composed of white boys. They were guilty of operating a whisky still in the mountains.

They were dressed like the black boys—cotton shirts, overalls, shapeless shoes. They never had possessed underclothes or socks.

They had never "been to school." They had never before ventured from the shadow of their mountains. They had never slept in a bed. They were part of the stagnant backwash left in mountain coves when the first wave of pioneer emigrants invaded the wilderness. They kept soul and body together by the only means they knew.

The law sent them to prison.

The guilty must be punished, you will say, and the law can make no exceptions.

But suppose the members of that first group—the killers—had been rich and powerful racketeers.

They would be out on bond now. The witnesses against them would disappear. Shrewd lawyers would find ways to trick justice and save them.

Or suppose the others—the mountain boys—had been "big shots" of the prohibition era.

Federal agents found their little still, but none would have seen their block-long breweries. Their trucks, laden with alcohol and often escorted by police, would have gone to market unmolested. Rich bankers would have financed them and the keenest of lawyers advised them.

What does it mean? What can it mean except that poverty and ignorance are the only crimes?

Strip away all pretense and you must face the ugly truth that laws apply only to the poor and the friendless.

COUNTY IN GEORGIA WAS FIRST SECEDER IN CIVIL WAR DAYS

Dade county, Ga., was the first territory to secede from the union in 1860, notwithstanding the long accepted claim of South Carolina to this honor. At the time Dade seceded from the Union, the county also seceded from the state of Georgia, according to old residents and others who have studied the records. For this reason, to this day, Dade is frequently referred to as "the state of Dade."

The county is located in extreme northwestern Georgia, separated from the rest of the state by the Lookout mountain range. In the legislature of 1860, according to Attorney-General M. J. Yeomans, Dade was represented by a Mr. Tatum, a man of strong convictions. He said, during the debate on secession, that Georgia could do as it saw fit but that Dade county was going to secede.

A convention of the people of Dade was called after Mr. Tatum returned home and passed a resolution seceding not only from the Union but from Georgia as well.

This resolution was lost when the Dade courthouse was destroyed by fire.

McDuff, Leading Parader, On Hand for Memorial Day

For benefit of the extremely few who may not know, the lone rider led by a negro boy in Thursday's parade was John A. McDuff, Atlanta lawyer, who in recent years has become one of the city's leading paraders.

Friendly police reported Thursday night that they identified McDuff's mount as a retired equine quadruped pensioned some years ago by the City Ice Delivery Company. McDuff's orderly was "Dummy" Greer, Auburn avenue figure.

McDuff, an "original Roosevelt man," has taken part in numerous parades, chief among them being the great Roosevelt parade here in October, 1932. He also marched (solo) in the Roosevelt inaugural parade last year.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Employers' Hand In Gridiron Club.

NEW YORK, April 26.—The Gridiron Club of Washington, D. C., is one of the most exclusive clubs in the United States. It is limited to 50 active members who must be active newspaper reporters, or correspondents, which is another, but more pretentious, word for the same thing. To be an active reporter, or correspondent, a candidate must have an employer. The employer, whatever his character or the character of his publication, thus is a silent, or assistant member as to each active member of one of the most exclusive clubs in the United States. This silent membership usually entitles the boss to one or more invitations to the Gridiron dinners. That is, the correspondent had better invite him or else.

The Gridiron Club exists to give two parties every winter. The parties are dinners at which the president customarily, but not invariably, is the guest of honor and the attraction. The dinners are held in a big ballroom up under the eaves of an old hotel called the New Willard, about 10 stories above the street. The ballroom is served by four creaky, cable-type elevators, which discharge the guests onto a creaky wooden-inlay floor. There are usually about 400 head at a Gridiron dinner so that in case of emergency each of the elevators running on a 10-minute schedule, with a capacity of 10 head, would take about one hour and forty minutes to bring the last of its cargo to the street. By that time the last passengers might be pretty well done but an invitation to the Gridiron dinner is a great honor and worth the risk.

True to Tradition And to Old Hotel.

The Gridiron Club is now 50 years old. The dinners have always been held in the Willard. Originally they were held in the Old Willard, and when that hotel passed they were continued in the edifice now known as the old New Willard. The Mayflower hotel, a new one in which many of the minor statesmen and lobbyists now have their residential quarters, made some seductive passes at the Gridiron Club in the hope of winning over this profitable business and the prestige and publicity which naturally ensue. But the Gridiron Club repulsed the Mayflower, with its hydraulic elevators and reinforced concrete construction and its resident senators, including Huey P. Long, and remained true to its traditions and the old New Willard.

Exclusive as it is nowadays, the Gridiron is about as liberal as the International Order of Barflies as compared with the original Gridiron. The old Gridiron did not elect subcorrespondents, but held out for head correspondents under a custom or rule which implied that the head correspondent was necessarily more distinguished than an assistant. This custom, or rule, rather riled the assistant correspondents, who greatly outnumber the chiefs in the Washington bureaus. They knew that in many cases the assistants did the work for which the chief took the bows. But the head correspondents of the Gridiron stood off and, on the occasions of their great ceremonial dinners, showered themselves with bouquets as persons of unusual importance in the national capital. In the natural course of things some of them became lobbyists or were fired for one reason or another and were succeeded by their assistants who then became members of the Gridiron themselves. Life went on and on in the Gridiron.

But for many years it was understood that press association men, even though they might be chiefs of bureaus, Hearst men and Jews were barred from membership. A club has the right to select its members without proclaiming its standards of eligibility and the Gridiron did not have to announce an aversion to press association men, Hearst men or Jews. Persons in these classifications just did not happen to occur among the membership list and anyone who drew any conclusion from that fact had to be responsible for his own conclusion.

Restrictions Relaxed of Late.

In recent years, however, three press association men, including one Hearst man, and one Jew, have been elected. And, under the influence of an element which I have heard described as the Young Turks of the Gridiron, the requirement that a man be a bureau head has been waived in at least one instance.

Membership in the club is likely to impose considerable social and home-office pressure on the man who wears the gilded Gridiron in his lapel and considerable expense, too. The active member is allowed to invite three guests to each of the two annual dinners and these occasions have become so famous and, with their limited facilities, so difficult to crash, that thousands of Americans eat their hearts out and resort to every possible influence or angle to obtain invitations. Consequently the member long ago lost any personal choice as to whom he would invite to the Gridiron dinner which also included an amateur theatrical show. He can not spare invitations for his friends. The dinner has become a roll-call of big shots whom the members themselves may never have met. The list is very similar to that of Tex Rickard's very best people who always had the first three rows at his great prizefight promotions. Many of the big shots among the current standard Gridiron list are survivors of the late Flo Ziegfeld's first-night roster.

It is presumed that the member in each case pays for the tickets of his guests but the expense came to from $15 to $25 per head under prohibition and, now that three flavors of wine are served, the price per big shot is somewhat higher. A correspondent making, say, $150 a week, which is much above the average even of Gridiron correspondents these days, would have to shoot at least one week's salary and possibly two weeks' pay, counting all expenses, entertaining his three guests at the two Gridiron dinners per year. You may imagine what the little woman would say to that, in a time when some of the correspondents are compelled to take from two to four weeks' vacation per year without pay and guess whether members sometimes find it necessary to compromise their ethics as gentlemen and clubmen and let the boss pay the expense of entertaining his own big shots at the Gridiron dinner.

Comment at the Capital

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Continued Labor Troubles Forcing Administration Toward Definite Decision As To Future Policy.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—An unprecendented era of labor agitation and strikes has brought the government here face to face with a determination of policy that cannot be long postponed.

Delay in the president's efforts to mediate in the railroad situation through Federal Co-ordinator Eastman now has been followed by the outbreak of a series of small but paralyzing strikes in the motor industry just as it had been thought that the administration had found a way to keep the motor industry going and employment uninterrupted.

The revived interest in the Wagner bill being manifested by the administration is due directly to the developments since Mr. Roosevelt, single-handed, worked out a truce in the motor industry. The trouble seems to be that there is no central body in which either labor or the employers have confidence and there is no way by which workmen can be compelled to work if labor union organizers insist they shall strike for higher wages than the industry in question thinks it can afford at the time.

Usual Practice.

True to trade union tradition, the labor union executives know that the time to have a strike is when production cannot be slowed down without considerable loss to management. In other words, the leverage is stronger in proportion to the damage that might be done by interruption itself.

But, in the motor industry, there is a disposition to fight out the issue at all costs. The difficulty seems to be that the labor executives of high rank do not have as much control over the smaller locals as has been claimed and, likewise, the labor board, set up to settle the disputes, does not seem to get co-operation from men who pull off the strikes without first exhausting their remedies before the newly created tribunal.

Undoubtedly, there is a struggle going on every day between the labor organizers and the so-called company unions. The latter are pointing out the disadvantages of outside unions and their dues-paying features, while the trade union spokesmen are insisting that such wage increases as have been obtained or will be obtained are the direct result of trade union pressure.

Company Unions.

The Wagner bill started out as a measure to outlaw "company unions." The New York senator, who is sponsoring the measure, believed that the root of the trouble lay in the influence upon employe organizations wielded by employers who wished to keep labor from becoming too powerful. Mr. Wagner has since been urged to consider that all company unions are not of the same kind and that, basically, workmen should have the opportunity to vote for or against the type of organization placed before them without being coerced or influenced by fellow workmen or by groups of outside workers.

It may be that the new Wagner bill, which is being rewritten by a committee of administration experts, will tend more toward legislation that shall broadly set up a means of settling labor disputes, but it is doubtful whether those engaged in revising the proposed measure—they are all pro-labor—will ever admit a principle like compulsory arbitration, which would be one way to end the present labor troubles expeditiously.

Not Bright.

The prospects of a settlement by strikes of the issues raised by the NRA and the collective bargaining provisions, especially in industries which for generations never have had any labor trouble and have paid higher wages than other industries, is not very bright. For the employe representation plan has come to be regarded by various employers as embodying a principle of freedom to employ workmen and to operate industry.

A concession is reported as under consideration whereby employers would be permitted to "initiate" and "participate" in company unions, but, until the revised draft of the Wagner bill is open to public inspection, such reports will continue to be mere rumors. This is because the authorities here, who have been handling labor matters for Mr. Roosevelt, are not yet convinced that the time has come to end the increasing labor warfare and promote industrial peace. Their formula thus far has been to stimulate the agitation by attempting to deal with the subject by vague phrases in law.

Everybody who has watched the mediation efforts of government for generations knows that, in the last analysis, the whole thing comes down to the selection of a fair tribunal and an insistence by the government that all sides obey the mandates of such a tribunal. As yet, political government is unwilling to assume such a responsibility. Hence strikes may continue to be the order of the day.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

By MOLLIE MERRICK

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 26.—The ides of Hollywood are on Clark Gable. Here is one of the most promising players in the motion picture profession—the man chosen by the public, not by the producer; the lead who won out by the sheer bulk of fan mail which poured into the studio from all quarters of the globe. Here is the actor who has gone through a difficult slump with a cheery smile and who came out on top when he was loaned to a minor studio for what turned out to be a major picture.

When Harry Cohn—and, by the way, I admire and respect him when I say a minor studio—took Clark Gable for the role of the newspaper reporter in "It Happened One Night," he took a chap who wasn't hitting on all cylinders in his profession. Harry Cohn had sense enough to know why.

Clark Gable hadn't been given good stories, good dialog or correct casting. Harry Cohn gave him a real story, a charming leading lady and some dialog that was unforgettable. Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert, featured players before, emerged stars from the picture, "It Happened One Night."

The home lot has previewed its latest effort in Clark Gable's behalf. Conscious of the box-office smash which "It Happened One Night" turned out to be, "Manhattan Melodrama," obviously intended as the first vehicle to honor Clark Gable as a star, opened with a huge picture of that actor—a screen-full view, if you get what I mean, and then continued with:

First—A trashy old story which incorporated all the banal and outmoded angles of gang, political and "Sidewalks of New York" stories.

Second—The dullest dialog that ever hampered an already painfully familiar theme.

Third—Surrounded Clark Gable with a group of good actors, all of whom tried, in their embarrassed way, to make something out of nothing, to read sorry old cliches with a new or fresh intonation and to infuse some spirit of freshness into a stale situation.

This isn't the way to make a star. To be frank, it isn't good sportsmanship to a fellow who has shown himself true star material when given a chance. It isn't even fair to the public who pay their money to see a good picture. Director Van Dyke is very fine in out-of-doors stuff. He's a he-man director who knows his medium and who rings the bell when given something he can handle. William Powell is an actor who is always competent, adequate or even excellent, according to the material given him. Myrna Loy is one of my favorites, but I admit her role in "Manhattan Melodrama" gave me a pain.

What I am trying to say in my hesitant, delicate fashion is that you can't make a star on somebody else's work. You've got to give an actor the break of a good story, good dialog, and correct tempo in direction. It's unfair to a lot of competent persons to miscast them in a maudlin mix-up of all the stories you've ever seen since "Little Caesar" and "Public Enemy."

Arthur Caesar, well-known humorist, revealed no shred of humor in this one. But put the average wit in the "drammer" class and he'll go over the line every time. This really isn't an excoriation of the "Manhattan Melodrama" unit. It may sound like one. What it really is, is a plea for Clark Gable, one of the best actors in the profession, who deserves to be a star and who will be if major lots will wake up to the fact that you have to give the public more than names framed in tripe.

A star needs a story just the same as any other actor.

And speaking of stories, W. C. Fields wrote his own. Then the studio staff came along and made some improvements. A friend met W. C. Fields on the lot and said:

"Well, W. C., how's the great epic coming along?"

W. C. put that famous nose of his at its most famous angle.

"Epic!" he snorted, "you mean epoch!"

And he's ordered his name off the script.

Air Mail Measure Nears Senate Vote

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The administration's air mail bill neared a vote in the senate today with the completion by Chairman Black, democrat, Alabama, of the special air mail investigating committee, of a four-hour excoriation of aviation companies whose contracts were cancelled by Postmaster-General Farley.

Black's denunciation of former Postmaster-General Brown's administration brought a demand from Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, that Farley resign as chairman of the democratic national committee in order to remove the air mail service from politics.

Senator McCarran, democrat, Nevada, a member of the committee, said he was in substantial agreement with most of the committee's findings, but questioned whether the bill under consideration would be "building up or merely tearing down."

Administration leaders said they expected to reach a vote tomorrow. Debate will be limited to 30 minutes on the bill and on any amendment.

Seaboard President Urges Transportation Co-ordinator

L. R. Powell Jr. (left), president and co-receiver of the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company, here Thursday conferring with W. L. Stanley, of Atlanta, chief public relations officer of the railway in Georgia. Mr. Powell, who resides in Norfolk, Va., is making a tour of inspection. Staff photo by George Cornett.

A federal co-ordinating body to regulate all methods of transportation was advocated in Atlanta Thursday by L. R. Powell Jr., president and co-receiver of the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company, who is on an inspection tour of the railway system.

Mr. Powell said air, water, highway and rail transportation should be regulated by a governmental control body in a uniform manner. He mentioned the interstate commerce commission as the co-ordinating body, and proposed investing the central group with regulating power over fares, rates, additional lines and all business pertaining to interstate commerce.

"I do not believe that the government will find it necessary to take over the operation of railroads," he said. "However, as the development of the country, especially in the south, is so dependent on transportation then something must be done to enable the railroads to carry on. Consolidation and regulated competition is perhaps the best way."

The Seaboard president said his company was in favor of 2-cent-per-mile coach fares, but if the Southern railway is granted the plea it has made to the I. C. C. for 1 1-2 cent rates, then all railroads would meet those rates.

"Our company has had a 37 per cent plus increase in the volume of passenger revenue during the first three months of this year over last year, but how much of this increase was caused by fare reduction and how much by the return of prosperity, I cannot say," asserted Mr. Powell.

CHILD-DIET ALSO GOOD FOR THE GROWNUPS

The next time mother insists that junior finish his spinach because "it's good for him," it's quite possible that junior, if he's up on his scientific reading, will come back with the snappy retort that she had better eat it, too, because it's just as good for her.

Scientists are discovering that many of the foods considered essentially good for children should also form an important part of the adult diet. Recent research in the properties of vitamin D particularly reveals the fact that this vitamin, known as one of the most important factors in the prevention of rickets, a widespread disease of childhood, with often serious consequences in mature life, is of considerable potential benefit to the health of adults also.

"There is little room for doubt," writes one medical authority, "that an additional source of vitamin D, especially during the colder months of the year, affords a safeguard to health . . . In temperate regions people of all ages should take some source of vitamin D."

The two major sources of vitamin D are sunshine and cod-liver oil. It is for this reason that physicians urge us to get adequate amounts of sunshine and, when the weather does not permit this, to take cod-liver oil. But both children and adults dislike cod-liver oil because of its disagreeable taste and odor. Adults too, have long felt that it is a "baby food."

To overcome this serious objection scientists have developed a process for extracting vitamin D from cod-liver oil in a form that is without fishy taste or odor, and using this extract to fortify bread and milk. Many dairies and bakeries are now employing this special process to bring to the home, in these familiar foods, the benefits of vitamin D to young and old alike.

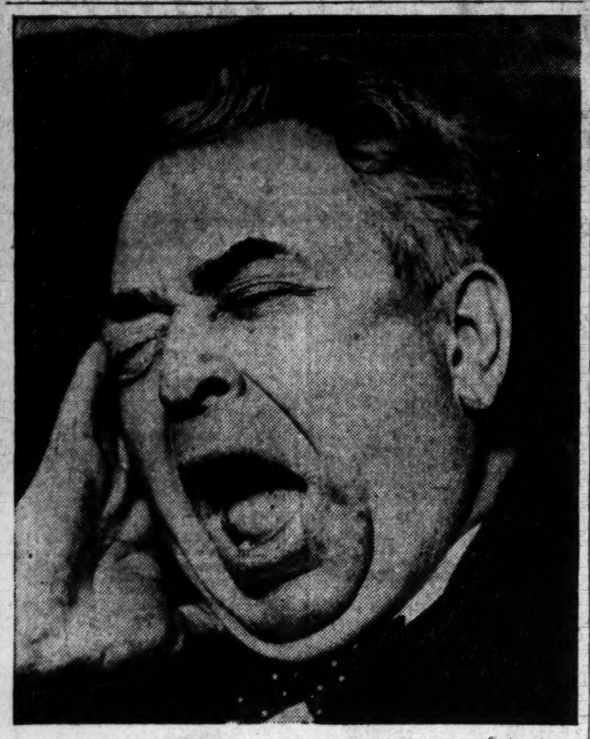
VETERAN FOUND DEAD WITH THROAT SLASHED

SARASOTA, Fla., April 26.—(AP) Nathan J. Hickey, 38, of Providence, R. I., World War veteran, was found dead on the front porch of his home here this afternoon with a throat wound which Constable E. A. Kirkland said was self-inflicted.



"spring fever" time is here

...and what does it mean to you?

JUST THIS: if you feel listless, tired, run-down, appetite dull, with a weak, let-down feeling... perhaps nervous and worn out... why not make an effort to "snap out" of this condition?

Try toning up your appetite... increasing your red-blood-cells—get in step with those who put zip and pep into everything they do... the best way to be happy and cheerful.

Colds, the "flu," or other illness, and poisons accumulated during the winter months, often diminish the number of red-blood-cells which are so vital in maintaining vigor... strength... and a clear skin.

You need a tonic—

not just a so-called tonic... but a tonic that will tone up your blood... bring back to normal its red-cells... build up its hemo-glo-bin... stimulate the gastric juice flow. S.S.S. is specially designed to do this for you.

Perhaps your blood is the cause of your trouble... it frequently is. Try S.S.S.... take it just before meals. Unless your case is exceptional you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite... your color... skin... pep... and energy should improve as your oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin increases.

S.S.S. is truly a blood and body invigorating tonic. Its value has been proven by generations of use, as well as by modern scientific appraisal... and it is especially good as a Spring tonic.

FRANC'S REVALUATION PREDICTED BY RAINEY

PINEHURST, N. C., April 26.—(AP) Addressing the North Carolina Bankers' Association here, Speaker Rainey today predicted the revaluation of the franc by France within three months and expressed belief the party alignments swept aside in the election of President Roosevelt would result in rule of a "merged party" in the future.

The Illinois democrat said that France is in dire straits and that more scandals of a financial nature than those which have come to light are in the offing. He quoted Sir Josiah Stamp, noted British financier and economist, as telling him France soon must again revalue its franc.

TRIBUTE IS PAID HEROES OF GRAY

which we of today have just passed. He said that the inspiration of 60 years ago made easier the troubles that have been ours during the last four years.

Mr. Jones paid a beautiful tribute to the women of the Confederacy and their daughters who, today, keep ever green the memory of the south's chivalry that wore the gray, keep ever fresh the blossoms upon the graves of the dead.

The entire program Thursday was under the sponsorship of the Confederate Ladies' Memorial Association, of which Mrs. A. McD. Wilson Jr., is president. This association was formed from the original Soldiers' Aid Society of Columbus, Ga., created in that city in 1861 to perform woman's part in the service of her section in time of war.

Mrs. Lizzie Rutherford Ellis, it is said, first suggested the annual Confederate Memorial Day, an outgrowth of the immemorial custom of annually decorating the graves of loved ones with flowers.

Parade Moves Promptly.

Yesterday's parade moved promptly at 2 o'clock from the point of rest at West Peachtree and Baker streets. Led by the marshal of the day, Major Joseph R. Cooke, and his staff, and Governor Eugene Talmadge in the first automobile, soldiers of the 22d infantry, of the regular army, were the first unit in line.

Following came the Georgia National Guard, represented by the 122d infantry, and units of R. O. T. C. from the various high schools and other educational institutions in the city.

The United States naval reserve in white uniforms made a bright spot amid the olive drab of the uniformed ranks, with the Georgia Tech naval reserve unit scarcely less picturesque in their blue and white.

Military schools added the touch of the flamboyant in their snappy uniforms of gray, while the great bearskin shakos of the Old Guard added the touch of old world symbolism.

Other Veterans March.

The American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other organizations representing more recent conflicts all contributed their marching numbers to the long line.

Then came the white-haired men in gray. Too feeble to march, they rode in coaches provided by the Georgia Power Company and motor bus lines. Trembling old hands waved the Stars and Bars from the coach windows. Piping old throats yelled an echo of the robust shouts of their youth and tear-dimmed eyes of the spectators watched them pass, while the eyes of the spirit visioned another and vaster army, the army of the dead who marched unseen, perhaps, above the heads of their comrades of the years long gone.

Automobiles bearing members of the various local chapters of the U. D. C., the D. A. R. and other patriotic organizations followed.

On the reviewing stand at the Capital City Club were members of the Ladies' Memorial Association, members of the governor's staff, state and city officials, army officers and other dignitaries.

At Oakland cemetery the exercises were held around the shaft of the Confederate monument, decorated with flags both of the Confederacy of the Stars and Stripes, with wreaths and garlands of living flowers.

Confederate Flag Raised.

Miss Nancy Waldo Jones, great-granddaughter of Major William Franklin Slaton, hoisted the flag of the Confederacy to the top of the flagpole, while the audience, led by Major Cooke, presiding, voiced the pledge to the Confederate flag.

Rabbi Harry Epstein pronounced the invocation and benediction. Several patriotic hymns were sung and the crowd listened in appreciative silence to the oration by Mr. Jones.

A file of soldiers from Fort McPherson fired a volley salute across the graves. The Georgia Power Company band played "America," as the audience stood. A bugler sounded the haunting strains of "Taps" and its echo floated gently upon the late afternoon breeze. The tiny flags, placed at the head of each Confederate grave, moved softly in the wind, as though the spirit of the dead beneath the green sod was saluting in return, signifying immortal allegiance to the cause for which a life was given and which still lives in the hearts and emotions of the people of Georgia today.

Veterans who battled foreign foes in many foreign lands paid tribute Thursday to the memory of the Confederacy when Charles Moran, state aide-de-camp, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, accompanied by officials of the V. F. W. and its auxiliary, without ceremony placed Buddy Poppy wreaths at various sites at Oakland and West View cemeteries.

April 26 is observed as Confederate Memorial Day in Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Mississippi. In Kentucky and North Carolina the day is observed on May 10, while in Virginia it is May 20 and in Tennessee, June 3.

April 26, in Georgia, also is World War Memorial Day.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and lasting relief can be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts lifeless. To end Piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for hundreds of patients with a marvelous record of success and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs drug stores say "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe, clean way to get rid of your Pile misery or money back."—(adv.)

TARIFF BILL FOES DEMAND HEARINGS

Hull, Wallace Assailed by Reed During Day of Heated Discussion.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Republican opposition to the Roosevelt reciprocal tariff bill congealed tonight into a vigorous drive for an amendment assuring hearings to affected industries before any change is made in the duty on their products.

This became unmistakably clear after a day of hearings in which Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, and other republican members of the senate finance committee fired a broadside of sharply worded cross-examination at two cabinet members, Secretaries Hull and Wallace.

At one point, Senator Connally, democrat, Texas, objected to what he termed "partisan heckling," and at another Senator Clark, democrat, Missouri, interposed the remark that "no amount of hearings would convince the senator from Pennsylvania that it was advisable to decrease any tariff rate."

In an extemporaneous explanation of the purposes of the bill, Wallace said it was intended to increase foreign purchasing power and if successful the administration's acreage control program could be curtailed or eliminated which, he added, "would make us at the department of agriculture very happy."

He pleaded with the committee for a non-partisan approach to the problem, asserting that "the executive branch of the government is "better able to formulate a well-rounded policy than congress," and that with "suitable advisors the president could determine those articles of which we could accept more from abroad with least damage to our industrial structure."

"Would you regard it as a partisan contention to say that no one should be condemned unheard," asked Reed.

"I do not understand your point," Wallace replied.

"Would you oppose an amendment requiring that notice be given to industries and they be given an opportunity to present their side of the case before the tariff on their products is changed?"

"I do not know what the stand of the administration would be on that; it seems to me to be a matter of common sense and executive routine."

Shows To Arrive in Atlanta Today For 'Fiesta of Fun' at Lakewood

The carnival spirit will prevail at Lakewood park today, when America's Model Shows, 30 big cars in a special train, will arrive here from Montgomery and be switched to the Pryor street siding for unloading.

The big carnival train is due shortly after noon at the amusement park, where the "Fiesta of Fun" and the Georgia Products Recovery Exposition will open Saturday, and the troupers and show attaches will pitch in at once to have Midway ready to open in full swing Saturday.

J. C. McCaffery, manager of the shows, already has been here and with officials of the Southeastern Fair Association, staked out the grounds and made definite plans for the setting up of the 12 rides and 20 sideshows which will augment the regular Lakewood attractions for the spring carnival.

Presenting a wide assortment of the latest attractions, including several European importations, America's Model Shows are expected to open in gala fashion the regular summer season at Lakewood.

"The Waltzer," a $25,000 feature, heads the list of rides, and the side show program features "Carioca," in which "Ray-Nell" takes the leading role assisted by a bevy of beautiful girls and an Argentinian orchestra direct from the Chicago World's Fair.

With all exhibits in place, and all available space at the grounds taken by attractions, prospects point to one of the most diversified spring programs ever presented at the Southeastern Fair grounds for the nine-day event, to be opened formally at 1 o'clock Saturday.

No admission will be charged and free parking space will be available, Mike Benton, president of the fair association, announced.

Beginning Saturday afternoon, a full program will be inaugurated, with motorboat and bicycle races and fireworks displays in front of the grand stand, moving picture shows in the exposition building and in front of the grandstand, and the first of a series of matinee and night performances in an "All-Georgia" show in the automobile building under direction of Kenneth Murrell, entertainment committee chairman of the American Legion.

The Saturday program, following the formal opening of the exposition when principal speakers will be Attorney-General Yeomans, Luke Arnold, secretary to Mayor Key; President Mike Benton, of the fair association, and Colonel Franklin S. Chalmers, of the American Legion, will include two performances of a "Kiddie Revue" to be staged by pupils of Miss Jessie Reese.

OLD WATER BARREL GOES AT LAKEWOOD

The old water barrel at Lakewood park has gone the way of all relics in the new clean-up, paint-up, dress-up campaign just completed by the Southeastern Fair Association.

Workers completed installation Thursday of a group of modern drinking fountains along the midway and near the exhibit buildings, President Mike Benton announced. These fountains are of the sanitary type used in all modern parks.

DOCTORS ADMIRE THIS LAXATIVE

To banish headaches, dizziness and other constipation ills doctors regularly prescribe the laxative ingredient used in Feen-a-mint, the modern, pleasant-tasting, chewing gum laxative. Feen-a-mint acts more promptly, thoroughly, and satisfactorily, for it is gently released into the intestines by chewing, thus giving a "full," more natural action. Feen-a-mint is pleasant to take, but contains no richness to upset the stomach or diet. Feen-a-mint is the modern development from old-fashioned, unpleasant-tasting, habit-forming, bowel-abusing laxatives. Does not interfere with duties. "Delay" is dangerous—chew Feen-a-mint for constipation. 15c and 25c at druggists.

Dog Able to Crawl 13 Days After "Death"

BERKELEY, Cal., April 26.—(AP)—Able to crawl about, a dog which was put to death 13 days ago and then revived, exhibited returning strength today, but as yet had not fully recovered consciousness.

The animal was revived by Dr. Robert E. Cornish after being asphyxiated. The young research professor at the University of California hopes the animal eventually will recover.

"The dog is not fully conscious," said Dr. Cornish. "But he is eating regularly and showing increased strength. Of course, it is difficult to say whether his brain will function normally again. But the dog's right front leg has limbered up, although at first it seemed to be paralyzed from the injury to the animal's brain, suffered when it was put to death."

Key, with a number of other leading Georgians, will attend the annual joint convention of Confederatae veterans and Sons of Confederate veterans in Chattanooga, June 5-8, it was announced Thursday by Martine Harmsen, commander of the John B. E. A. Morgan, whose address is given as 1147 Arlington avenue, was knocked down at the corner of Lee and Gordon streets, at 8 o'clock Thursday night, by an automobile driven by Marion B. Brown, of a White street address, according to police reports. Morgan refused to go to the hospital and no case had been made against Brown Thursday night.

Elwood Camp, 11, rode his bicycle into the side of an automobile driven by R. L. Murphy, of 555 Winton terrace, Thursday night, according to police reports, at Glen Iris drive and Angier avenue. Young Camp was taken to the Georgia Baptist hospital where doctors found a superficial scalp wound. He was treated and dismissed. No case has been made against Murphy.

Miss Mary Barnett, giving her address as 511 Luckie street, and J. E. Easling, who is reported to live at 548 Plum street, were held at police station Thursday night on a charge of disorderly conduct. The two were reported by police to have engaged in a fight on Plum street earlier in the night. Miss Barnett was treated at Grady hospital for injuries received from a brick said to have been wielded by Easling, while the man was treated for stabs from an ice pick said to have been in the hands of Miss Barnett. After both were treated they were removed to police station.

Faster Record Seen For Panama Passage

BALBOA, C. Z., April 26.—(AP)—In case of an emergency, port authorities said today, the United States could rush a fleet of 111 vessels through the Panama Canal within 40 hours.

Although the recent maneuver required 47 hours, it was pointed out, pilots were specifically instructed to take no risks. Speed of the vessels was restricted to 22 knots, while the maximum speed is 35 knots.

Risks which are not undertaken in peace-time, authorities said, would be taken in a similar maneuver during time of war.

Speed of vessels through Gatun lake on the canal this week was limited because launches, dredges and other craft were tied along the shore. Forty-seven minutes were lost at the Pacific locks when a gate strut broke, necessitating repairs.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drugstores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

MACHADO IN HIDING TO AVOID ARREST

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—Gerardo Machado—the man who ruled the island republic of Cuba with an "iron hand"—remained in hiding tonight as federal authorities in four states sought his arrest for extradition on charges of murder and embezzlement.

Police of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania were conducting an extensive search for the gray-haired exile who disappeared from his apartment on fashionable East 91st street on Sunday—apparently warned that a federal warrant for his arrest would be issued.

Machado, president of Cuba for eight years, is wanted by the government which succeeded him for trial for the slaying of 17 revolutionaries in the "massacre" of August 7, 1932, shortly before he fled to the Bahamas.

The warrant for his arrest had been obtained by the Cuban consulate here from United States Commissioner Garret W. Cotter, but when United States Marshal Raymond V. Mulligan, accompanied by deputies and detectives, arrived at the Machado apartment the deposed president had fled.

Half of Lindy Ransom Cash Said Found in New England

BOSTON, April 26.—(AP)—The Boston Globe says that a large quantity of the money which Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh paid to the kidnapers of his 16-month-old child who, later was found dead, has been recovered in New England. The amount recovered totals more than half of the $50,000 paid and was found in blocks of $4,000 and $5,000, the Globe says.

The Globe relates that a squad of 31 agents of the department of justice, heavily armed, visited Rutland, Vt., yesterday and began "drawing a dragnet" in that vicinity. The agents, the paper says, moved secretly in small groups and left Boston yesterday afternoon and last night under orders of Clarence D. McKean, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice in New England.

The recovery money, the Globe says, was traced through the federal reserve bank of Boston to the member bank which received it.

The Globe says the clew that sent the justice agents scurrying into Vermont resulted from the tracing of large quantities of the Lindbergh money which has been passed in New England for the past six months.

The agents, the paper says, began drifting into Boston in small groups last Saturday, and obviously attempted to avoid recognition. More than a score of them visited the offices of the department of justice last Saturday and conferred there with George West, who had been left in charge of the office by McKean.

Reports from Rutland, Vt., today described the mysterious visit there of 25 federal agents who arrived last Friday and left last night. Their activities centered about a public forest on the outskirts of the city known locally as Pine Hill. There they questioned numerous small boys, but would not reveal the purpose of their inquiry.

DONNELLY SAILS FOR U. S.; WILL BE QUESTIONED HERE

LE HAVRE, France, April 26.—(UP)—Steward Donnelly, wanted in New York for questioning in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping, was extradited from France today and sailed under guard for the United States. He was placed in the brig.

Two detectives, Frank Raihl and Martin Hayes, had Donnelly, internationally known "confidence man," in their charge aboard the liner Washington, bound for New York. They said he would be questioned about a report he had some of the Lindbergh ransom currency in his possession when arrested in France last summer.

Herman Leffert, a United States secret service officer, conferred with Hayes and Raihl before the sailing, and commented: "We believe Donnelly can enlighten us on the Lindbergh ransom."

The bills alleged to have been found in his possession were said to be part of $50,000 paid over to a gang during the Lindbergh kidnaping threat two years ago, through Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon.

Donnelly denied he knew anything about the case.

"If I had any of those bills, I didn't know it," he told the United Press.

He spoke more feelingly of his prison term in a Le Havre jail, where he was sentenced last August, adding: "I'd rather do five years in an American chain gang than another year in a French jail."

OFFICIALS DENY BOSTON REPORTS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP) The department of justice said today reports that large quantities of Lindbergh ransom had been found in New England were "without any foundation whatever."

Earlier Attorney-General Cummings told reporters at his press conference that there was no concentration of federal agents in Vermont.

Georgia Fields And Streams

By H. A. Carter.

Specimens continue to flood the laboratory. Kind friends seem to have decided that my mentality is not so warped and have begun to indulge me with offerings of all sorts of snakes. One man brought what he thought was one snake; later on there will be about 16. I will tell you later exactly how many eggs are deposited and how many hatch.

The most interesting specimen that I have had recently, however, was neither reptile nor bird nor amphibian nor fish. You guessed it. It was a mammal. Earle Greene made up for the tantalizing cards he wrote me from his recent trip through south Georgia by presenting me with a flying squirrel. The little fellow had strayed into a trap, and he is now awaiting transportation to a museum to join his hundreds of relatives who preceded him there in a sort of family reunion.

The skin tells an interesting story alone, while an exploratory dissection of the body revealed other facts. To begin with, there is a decided break in the fur across the middle of the back. Examination reveals a brighter shade on the head region than on the rump, leaving no conclusion possible except that the animal was half-way through the molt when it was caught. The patagium, or gliding membrane, seen from above, shows a narrow border of white fur, and the entire underparts are a uniform white with the faintest of flushes of pink.

The body on dissection showed that the breeding season is approaching speedily. The entire reproductive tract was enlarged. These facts have to be noted on the field books for the use of some future person who shall measure and compare colors of all the flying squirrels he can get his hands on, and then form a bit more accurate conclusion as to their relationships. I certainly intend no discourtesy to Dr. Howell who made the last revision of the American flying squirrels. I believe he would be the first to agree with me that the last word has not been and will not be said for many years to come.

I hope that hickory on the opposite hill will bring many more flying squirrels to me next fall. I have never been one of those unfortunate individuals who are plagued with flying squirrels. They always provide more pleasure for me than trouble; I can imagine no association with Glaucomys that would be too intimate to suit me unless it were the association of his teeth and my thumb.

LARGE GAIN SHOWN IN LEAF EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Aided by a sharp increase in the value of leaf tobacco, principally flue-cured, sold to foreign countries, the export value of tobacco and tobacco products from the United States in 1933 increased $16,753,416 over that of 1932.

The figures were announced today by B. D. Hill, of the commerce department's tobacco division, who said 1933 exports were valued at $89,878,715 compared with a 1932 value of $73,125,299.

The increase was more than accounted for by leaf tobacco, which increased $17,022,839 in value while the export value of cigarettes, chewing tobacco and smoking tobacco all increased.

J. B. Hutson, chief of the farm administration's tobacco section, said the increase in leaf tobacco was due in part to increased flue-cured prices brought about last fall by a marketing agreement signed by domestic buyers.

Higher Bids Forced.

While export buyers were not parties to the marketing agreement, Hutson said the domestic buyers' agreement to pay an average of 17 cents a pound for a large part of the crop forced export buyers to higher auction bids in order to stay on the market. Export purchases, he said, started moving in November and December and therefore a large portion of them are included in Hill's report.

Leaf tobacco exports for 1933 were valued at $82,924,211 as compared with $65,901,572 in 1933. Cigarettes ranked next with exports valued at $4,894,902 against $5,328,629 in 1932, a decrease of $433,727.

Other tobacco products exported and their comparative values for 1933 and 1932 were: chewing tobacco, $676,445 against $843,088; smoking tobacco, $558,234 against $605,332; other tobacco manufacturers, $541,231 against $131,262; tobacco extract, $194,587 against $210,354; and nicotine-sulphate, $89,105 against $109,062.

United Kingdom in Lead.

The United Kingdom took the bulk of American leaf tobacco in 1933, its purchases totaling 172,908,637 pounds valued at $48,571,148, compared with 121,901,000 pounds, valued at $31,912,304 in 1932.

China, France, Belgium, Germany, Australia, Netherlands, Sweden, Canada and Japan were other leading foreign markets for American leaf tobacco during the year.

U. S. TRADE BALANCE SHOWS BIG INCREASE

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—United States foreign trade was shown by department of commerce figures today to have increased more than seasonally in March, when exports gained $27,000,000 and imports $25,000,000 over February.

Exports were $190,000,000 compared with imports of $158,000,000 to give a favorable balance of trade of $32,000,000, compared with a favorable balance of $13,155,000 in March last year.

Exports for the first three months of 1934 were $525,029,000 compared with $330,119,000 in the first three months of 1933. Imports in the first three months this year were $426,169,000 compared with $274,614,000 in the same period last year.

TROLLEY OPERATORS SIGN NEW CONTRACT

A new year's contract, governing working conditions and wages of approximately 1,000 employes of the Atlanta street railway system was signed Thursday by officials of the Georgia Power Company and officers of local division No. 732, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, it was announced by the power company.

A maximum wage scale of 60 cents an hour for trolley operators is provided for in the agreement, and this rate, it was said, although based on length of service, will affect virtually every employe. The contract further provides that operators, motormen and conductors having regular runs will be paid for a minimum of seven and a half hours each working day, and that they will work on the basis of one day off every seven days.

House Committee Favors Death Penalty for Kidnapers.

of the pistol and the rope, joined officers in canvassing Tucson with microscopic thoroughness, determined to find the granddaughter of the reputedly wealthy Bernabe Robles, a cattle baron since Spanish land grant days.

While the search gained momentum and a muttering crowd of several hundred persons gathered at the Pima county courthouse spreading lynch talk, the old cattleman received a second ransom note in which the abductors said they would accept $10,000 "if you act quickly."

The note reached Robles in a manner not made public. Its delivery was announced by Undersheriff Colby S. Farrar. It read:

"Child safe. We're willing to reduce ransom to $10,000. If you act quickly child will be returned safely as per instructions. Obey instructions. Z."

It was the second note from the abductors since the child was picked up and whisked away yesterday as she was going home from school. The first note was delivered to the girl's father, Fernando Robles, operator of an electric store, about two hours after June vanished.

It demanded $15,000 and although its exact contents were not divulged, it was understood to demand that the grandfather drive alone along a country road each evening at 9 o'clock with the money, until contact was made.

It was the purpose of officers to rake Tucson from end to end in the hunt for the little girl, and then, if still empty-handed, to take to the hills.

DEATH PENALTY BILL WINS COMMITTEE VOTE

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—A measure to permit the death penalty for interstate kidnapings was approved today by the house judiciary committee.

The bill also provides that failure of the kidnap victim to be returned in seven days shall be presumed as evidence of his having been transported across a state line.

The death penalty would not be imposed if the victim were returned in sound health.

The committee also approved another measure asked by the attorney-general, to make it a federal offense to incite riots, assist in escapes and other offenses in connection with federal penal institutions.

DILLINGER TWICE GIVEN TREATMENT IN ST. PAUL

ST. PAUL, April 26.—(AP)—The wide-flung manhunt for John Dillinger once more focused on St. Paul today with disclosures that not once—but twice—the desperado had gun wounds treated here.

The development resulted in the suspension of City Health Officer Dr. N. G. Mortensen, for caring for the wounded outlaw. He was the second Twin City physician to become involved in Dillinger's episodic career.

The chase continued as the federal government concentrated its forces in this vicinity.

Some 5,000 peace officers were on the alert for the here-today-gone-tomorrow criminal as suspicion hovered in widely separated parts of the nation, giving rise to rumors, reports and tips that "Dillinger was seen here"—Chicago, Hammond, Ind.; Staunton, Va., and in Pennsylvania.

The government was prepared to use the war department's airplane facilities if necessary, said Attorney-General Cummings in Washington, who recently referred to this area as a "poison spot of crime."

St. Paul, the hunters believed, afforded the most likely digging place for clues, chiefly because of their knowledge that it was from here the arch criminal and his mob at least three times planned their raiding sorties, sallied out to execute them, and then skulked back into their Twin City hideouts.

Spurred by fear that another crime scheme was afoot, the government intensified its hunt for the will-o'-the-wisp fugitive whose luck still held though many of the men and women tainted with his acquaintance are paying.

Dr. Mortensen was the latest. He was suspended after admitting he had treated Dillinger and John Hamilton, his chief lieutenant, the middle of March for gunshot wounds.

The health officer's confusion as to whether the date was March 13, 14 or 15 prevented authorities from determining whether it was in the Sioux Falls (S. D.) Security National bank raid that the desperadoes were wounded or in the robbery of a Mason City (Iowa) bank.

2 EX-CONVICTS HELD AS KIDNAP PLOTTERS

BELLEVILLE, Ill., April 26.—(AP) Two ex-convicts were arrested today after another ex-convict had tipped officers of a plot to kidnap William N. Baltz, former congressman from the 22d Illinois district, and rob his bank, the First National of Millstadt.

Those under arrest are Joseph Lacompte, 22, of Dupo, and James Lambert, 21, of East St. Louis.

Sheriff Jerome Muele said the plan to kidnap Baltz and rob the bank was frustrated when Herman Dannehold, 32, of Millstadt, also an ex-convict, "talked" to Marshal Philip Lippert, of Millstadt.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. They should pour out thru the bladder 3 pints of fluid a day which contains 4 pounds of waste matter.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

Bandit Uses Toy Pistol In Thirty Robberies

CHICAGO, April 26.—(AP)—A jail break is not a toy pistol's only use.

Edward Upton, 22, admitted to police yesterday he had used a toy gun in more than 30 robberies.

John Dillinger, it is remembered, whittled a toy revolver to bluff his escape from the Crown Point, Ind., jail.

LITTLE MINNEAPOLIS GIRL IS LOCATED IN PARK

MINNEAPOLIS, April 26.—(AP)—Five-year-old Mary Lou Carline was found and returned to her Minneapolis home today less than four hours after she had been forced into an automobile by a strange man.

The child was found alone in Powderhorn park, a mile from her home.

She was first taken to her home and then rushed to a hospital for an examination.

The little girl was at play with other children near her home when a strange man pulled her into an old automobile and sped away.

"DUTCH" SCHMIDT TAKEN BY CHICAGO POLICEMEN

CHICAGO, April 26.—(AP)—Ludwig (Dutch) Schmidt, notorious gunman, wanted for a $105,000 mail robbery at Charlotte, N. C., the $70,000 John Factor kidnaping, and many other crimes, was captured by Chicago police today.

One of the last members of the Roger Touhy gang remaining at large, Schmidt had been named by Isaac Costner, who turned state's evidence as a participant in both the kidnaping and the mail robbery.

His capture brought the possibility that Factor's extradition to England might be delayed, or possibly cancelled.

Prosecutors indicated they would want Factor's presence to testify in a forthcoming trial of Schmidt for the kidnaping. Under the statutes, Factor must be started back to England within 60 days, or freed.

POSSE HUNTS BANDITS AFTER ARKANSAS RAID

DUMAS, Ark., April 26.—(AP)—Posses of officers and citizens and several bloodhounds searched a section south of Pine Bluff tonight for three young men who robbed the Merchants & Farmers bank of $954 today and shot an officer in their flight.

A stolen automobile in which they fled from here was found abandoned later between Grady and Star City. From there the robbers were believed to have made their way into the southern part of Jefferson county, where officers thought they were closing in on them.

The wounded officer, A. L. Butcher, about 30, night marshal at Gould, was shot in the shoulder as he and a Gould citizen, Willie Joe Bourne, opened fire on the robbers as they raced through the main business section of the town. His wound was said to be not serious. He is in a hospital here.

ALDERMAN IS CLEARED OF RACKETEERING CHARGE

CHICAGO, April 26.—(AP)—Alderman Oscar Nelson, labor leader and announced candidate for mayor of Chicago in 1936, was freed by a directed verdict of not guilty today in the racketeering conspiracy trial of 19 defendants.

The decision came toward the close of the marathon trial which started last January 4. The defendants were charged with attempting to force a huge racketeering plot on four Chicago industries, including the cleaning and dyeing business, and thereby profit by hundreds of thousands of dollars.

CAB DRIVER ARRESTED IN BOSTON KIDNAPING

KANSAS CITY, April 26.—(AP)—Max Chipman, former New York taxicab driver today faced a trip to Boston for trial as the alleged "finger man" in the abduction of Herman P. Rutstein, October 11, 1932.

Chipman, sought by Boston police since Rutstein was accidentally discovered five days after he was kidnaped and held for $40,000 ransom, was surprised by officers at a night club here last night.

TOKYO SILENCES "EXCESSIVE" TALK ON CHINA POLICIES

the populations of both areas.

It was understood the foreign minister said the cabinet assumed full responsibility for the Amau statement and then explained that he hoped the United States eventually would see its way clear to co-operate with Japan in efforts to assume peace and stability in China.

MOVE FOR UNITED ACTION BY U. S., BRITAIN SEEN

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(UP) Concerted United States and British action in the oriental situation was believed under discussion today after President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull canvassed problems arising from Japan's informal declaration to major powers to keep "hands off" China.

Shortly after President Roosevelt and Hull reviewed the far eastern developments in an hour's luncheon table conference, the British ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, conferred with Undersecretary of State William Phillipps.

Both the White House and state department maintained strict silence, but it was indicated all aspects of the Japanese policy had been discussed. Sir Ronald admitted his visit to the state department concerned that issue.

Today's conferences followed a round of informal conversations at the state department with diplomats representing most of the signatory powers to the nine-power pact, which guarantees Chinese territorial integrity and maintenance of the "open door" in China.

They followed, too, separate but identic action by the United States and British ambassadors in Tokyo. Both called on Foreign Minister Koki Hirota in quest of official information concerning Japan's informal claims to virtual protectorate rights over China.

Reports on the results of these inquiries will be studied closely here and in London before any decision is made as to co-operative action by the two countries, it was believed.

Japanese Ambassador Hirosi Saito, in an exclusive interview with the United Press, meantime asserted that Japan's new policy represents an effort to deal "straight from the shoulder" with the United States and end mutual suspicions on Asiatic questions.

NANKING SAYS U. S. PLANS SHARP NOTE TO JAPANESE

PEIPING, April 26.—(UP)—A Nanking government spokesman today declared that the United States government is dispatching a sharp note to Japan demanding a full explanation of the Japanese "hands-off-China" policy.

The spokesman, in a broadcast to the Chinese people, declared further that Washington also was demanding that Tokyo explain utterances by Japanese statesmen in Geneva saying the Japanese "Asia for Asiatics program involved the Philippine islands, as well as India and other oriental countries.

The Nanking official said his information was based on private dispatches from the Chinese legation in Washington.

BRITISH DECLARATION IS EXPECTED MONDAY

LONDON, April 26.—(UP)—The British government intends to issue a formal declaration Monday defining its attitude on Japan's far eastern policy, it was revealed today.

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, probably will read the declaration in the form of a statement before the house of commons.

Meanwhile, the foreign office is studying a report from Tokyo on the British ambassador's talk with the Japanese foreign minister, Koki Hirota, and the conversations which Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador in Washington, had at the state department on the oriental crisis.

RAILS, EMPLOYES REACH AGREEMENT ON WAGE INCREASE

to comply with the wishes of the president of the United States in the interest of national recovery. The agreement runs for one year and to that extent will stabilize wages on American railroads and give all concerned a breathing spell."

Thiehoff said:

"We faced the choice of reaching a settlement with the employes or carrying the wage controversy to a conclusion under the law with its attendant uncertainty and disturbing effect.

"In the interest of stabilizing the railroad situation now so as to promote the national recovery program, we chose the former course. In so doing we have been mindful of the considerations of national welfare pressed upon us by the president, of the untiring efforts of the federal coordinator of transportation to compose the situation and of the forebearance of those who have represented the employes."

All Affected.

The agreement affects all railroad workers who are members of the 21 unions represented in the conference. These include every phase of railroad activity but not all of the railroad workers. There are many lines on which such employes as clerks, station agents and similar workers are not members of the standard unions.

In his congratulatory statement, President Roosevelt said:

"I am very glad that the railroads and their employes have been able to settle their wage dispute by mutual agreement.

"The country should be and will be grateful to them for this disposition of what might have developed into a troublesome controversy.

"I congratulate both sides on the wisdom and restraint which they have exhibited. They have set a good example."

Eastman said:

"I felt confident that the railroads and their employes would ultimately agree upon a settlement of the wage dispute and it is a pleasure to know that they have reached this result so quickly.

"It is a tribute to their wisdom and self-control and I congratulate them. The country will approve."

STRIKE BEGINS TODAY AT VIRGINIA SILK MILL

BUENA VISTA, Va., April 26.—(AP)—D. M. Chaplin, president of the Buena Vista Local No. 2080, International Textile Workers, said today that 150 of the 200 workers of the Majestic Silk Mills, Inc., would strike tomorrow.

"We intend to picket the plant," he said, "and to make the picket a peaceful one, if possible."

With all of the mill's union workers idle, he asserted, the plant would not be able to operate.

COAL OPERATORS ASK WAGE ORDER INJUNCTIONS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26.—(AP) Suit to enjoin enforcement of the NRA code in the western Kentucky soft coal fields was filed in the federal district court here by the operators of the mines.

The petition claimed 90 per cent of the operators, who already by common consent have closed down their mines except for contract production, were represented in the legal effort to prevent enforcement of the $4.60 per seven-hour day ordered by the NRA for the western Kentucky field.

Enforcement of the order, the petition asserted, would bring irreparable injury or annihilation to the coal industry in that field.

GASOLINE AGAIN FLOWS FOR CLEVESLAND AUTOS

CLEVELAND, O., April 26.—(AP) Gasoline began to trickle through hoses into automobile tanks today after a 24-hour strike drouth when 40 filling stations were re-opened after agreements had been signed with striking truck drivers and atte 'ants.

Filling stations in adjoining counties, meanwhile, were doing a landoffice business among Cleveland patrons. Thousands of motoroists here left their automobiles at home today and went to work on street cars and buses.

15 PER CENT WAGE BOOST GOAL OF STEEL MEN

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—(AP)—A 15 per cent wage increase for thousands of steel workers will be one of the demands made by the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers whose 59th annual convention is nearing the end of its second week.

This was disclosed today by Michael F. Tighe, international president. He added, however, that the iron wage committee's report, one of the most important reports before the general convention, is due for further discussion today.

HARRIMAN MILL SEEKS ADVICE ON CLOSING

HARRIMAN, Tenn., April 26.—(AP) Having turned in its Blue Eagle at the demand of the NRA, the Harriman Hosiery Mills in a telegram to Administrator Hugh S. Johnson asks whether the company should continue to operat "under such a stigma or should shut down our plant and throw out of employment approximately 600 contented workmen."

T. A. Wright Jr., attorney for the company, made public a telegram containing the message to Johnson last night. He said if the mill closes workers and members of their families, totaling 2,500, will be added to the relief rolls.

BALTIMORE STRIKERS SETTLE DIFFERENCES

BALTIMORE, April 26.—(AP)—Nathan W. Shefferman, representative of the national labor board, issued a statement here tonight saying wage differences of 200 striking cutters in the Baltimore cotton garment industry had been settled and the employes would return to work tomorrow.

"The wage dispute, which has been the cause of the strike in the industry for the last ten days, was amicably adjusted," Shefferman said.

At the same time, a statement was issued by J. J. Edelman, counsel for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, saying wages had been adjusted upward, with some increase as much as 25 per cent.

"Flat raises of $4 and $3 per week were agreed upon," Edelman said. "Some workers who got only $12 a week now will receive $16. All workers who earned $25 or less will receive a $4 increase and all over $25 will receive $3."

Employers, Edelman added, also had agreed to collective bargaining and in case of disputes the matter would be referred to a neutral party.

NON-RESIDENT HELD FOR ENTERING GRADY

Prosecution of non-residents for alleged fraudulent admission to Grady hospital proceeded Thursday under a new city ordinance as Hospital Patrolman J. J. Spratling booked a case of disorderly conduct against Mrs. Carl Alexander, the mother of seven children. Mrs. Alexander is charged with giving an address on Kennedy street while an actual resident of Mableton to gain admission to the hospital for her son, who had his appendix removed.

While the boy was convalescing, a daughter of Mrs. Alexander was admitted for treatment of a fracture of the leg received in an automobile accident, but gave Mableton as her address, it was said. Hospital investigators reported that Mrs. Alexander lived at the Kennedy street address for three weeks. The police court case is set for 8:30 a. m., May 6.

INCOME TAX HIKE OPPOSED BY HOUSE

Leaders Willing To Go Long Way Toward Agreeing on New Taxes.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—House democratic leaders said tonight they were willing to go a long way toward agreeing to new taxes to pay the costs of increased payments to war veterans and federal employes, but they would not accept the 10 per cent supertax written in the revenue bill by the senate.

Explaining the swift acceptance of the senate's general increases, by house conferees yesterday, the leaders said that since the house passed its $263,000,000 tax measure a need for additional income had arisen through the overriding of President Roosevelt's veto of the independent offices bill containing the added outlays to former soldiers and government workers.

The revenue measure as approved by the senate and house conferees will bring in $417,000,000 annually to the treasury, exclusive of the Couzens 10 per cent supertax on individual incomes which experts estimate would return another $55,000,000. That is the amendment that house leaders will not accept.

Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, floor leader, and Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, of the ways and means committee, expect house action on the conference report Monday.

However, the republicans in the house group, which conferred with the senate, planned to oppose it on the ground that it put an added unnecessary $200,000,000 tax burden on business at a critical period.

ARGUMENTS END IN CANNON TRIAL

Defense, State Attorneys Make Fervent Appeals as Case Nears Jury.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Another day of fervent appeal by defense and pounding attack by prosecution counsel tonight left only a little more speaking necessary to send a jury out to determine whether Bishop James Cannon Jr., and Ada L. Burroughs conspired to violate the corrupt practices act in 1928.

Justice Peyton Gordon will tell the jury tomorrow what evidence to consider and what not to regard in determining if the two deliberately planned not to report all of the contributions to the bishop for his campaign against Alfred E. Smith.

Counsel in closing speeches today made vigorous claims of guilt and innocence.

Robert H. McNeill, chief of defense attorneys, said:

"I am talking to preserve a name that has been a household world for 40 years."

District Attorney Leslie C. Garnett argued:

"Don't let the eminence of the one nor the sex of the other deter you from finding the facts."

Of the bishop, Garnett said:

"He arrogantly wraps the robes of his church about him and says 'I do as I please.'"

He recalled a defense picture of the churchman and the religious training he received "at his mother's knee."

"It would have been better for the purpose of this trial," the district attorney said, "if at his mother's knee he had learned the difference between 'mine' and 'thine.'"

McNeil declared the government had failed to prove that there ever was a meeting of the two defendants to conspire and that this was essential to prove guilt.

He said Cannon did all required by the corrupt practices act—by reporting that part of the contribution from Edwin C. Jameson, New York businessman, which was spent for campaigning outside the state of Virginia.

There was, he argued, no conspiracy because Miss Burroughs had no knowledge of transactions by Cannon, not "one word that indicates by the farthest stretch of imagination that Miss Burroughs knew of any transaction of Bishop Cannon that touched the Jameson money."

Loves and Letters of Charles Dickens

(Here is the sixth of a series of articles relating interesting episodes in the life of Charles Dickens, prepared by a student of Dickens' career.)

(Copyright, 1934, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

New York organized a committee of distinguished citizens to arrange for entertainment of Charles Dickens and his wife in New York in 1842.

Dickens arrived in New York on February 14, and, on the following evening, leaders of the arts and letters and society of the city filled the Park theater on Park Row in a mammoth demonstration.

"The agony is over," writes Philip Hone, one of New York's first citizens, in his fascinating diary of the era. "The box ball, the greatest affair of modern times, the tallest compliment ever paid to a little man, the fullest libation ever poured upon the altar of the muses, came off last evening in fine style. Everything answered the public expectations and no untoward circumstances occurred to make anybody sorry he went.

"The author of Pickwick papers is a small, bright-eyed, intelligent-looking young fellow, 30 years of age, somewhat of a dandy in his dress with rings and things in fine array, brisk in his manner and of a lively conversation. If he does not get his little head turned by all this I shall wonder at it.

"Mrs. Dickens is a little, fat English-looking woman of an agreeable countenance and, I should think, 'a nice person.'

Pickwick's Motif For Decorations.

"The theater was prepared for the occasion with great splendor and taste. The whole area of the stage and pit was floored over and formed an immense saloon. Decorations and ornaments were all Pickwickian. Shields, with scenes painted from several stories of Dickens, the titles of his works on others, surrounded with wreaths, the dome formed of flags and the side walls in fresco representing the panels of an ancient oaken hall.

"A small stage was erected at the extreme end . . . before which a curtain was suspended exhibiting the portly proportions of the immortal Pickwick, his prince of valets and his bodyguard of choice cronies. This curtain was raised in the intervals between cotillions and waltzes to disclose a stage on which were exhibited a series of tableaux vivants forming groups of characters in the most striking incidents of 'Pickwick', 'Nicholas Nickleby', 'Oliver Twist', 'The Old Curiosity Shop', 'Barnaby Rudge', etc." The theater began to fill at 7:30 o'clock and at 9, when Mr. and Mrs. Dickens were introduced, upward of 2,500 men and women greeted the distinguished pair.

Four days later, a great civic dinner in Dickens' honor was given at the City hotel, 2,230 persons being seated. Washington Irving presided and, in his opening speech, he broke down flat, forgetting, as he feared he would, some of the most flattering periods he had prepared to launch at the guest, and so concluded, amid laughter, with a toast "to Charles Dickens, the literary guest of the nation."

Washington Welcomes Not So Flamboyant.

Then, in March, the Dickenses found themselves in Washington, where the quiet reception accorded them was quite in contrast with the ardor of Boston and New York.

Philip Hone, in Washington at the time, notes that John Quincy Adams, the former president, invited Mr. and Mrs. Dickens to a Sunday dinner at half past two.

"Some clever people," says Hone, "were invited to meet them. They came, he in a frock coat and she in her bonnet. They sat at table until 4 o'clock, when he said: 'Dear, it is time for us to go home and dress for dinner.' They were engaged to dine with Mr. Robert Greenhow at the fashionable hour of half past five! A most particularly funny idea to leave the table of John Quincy Adams to dress for a dinner at Mr. Robert Greenhow's!"

Returning to London, the Morning Chronicle printed what purported to be a letter from Mr. Dickens which was so derogatory in its references to his American visit and his impressions of Americans that Philip Hone immediately wrote to Dickens, calling upon him either to deny or to avow this scandalous missive.

The letter set forth Dickens' opinion that Americans lacked good taste, that they had all the defects and none of the virtues of the English and the French. Referring to the hospitality he received in this country, the letter said, the kindness of a friend, if it is troublesome and officious, often annoys us as much as the injuries of an enemy."

Attack on America Promptly Denied.

Mr. Dickens' reply to Hone's demand for affirmation or retraction came promptly.

"I am much obliged for your friendly letter which I received with real pleasure . . . I answer it without an hour's delay, though I fear my reply may lay in the postoffice some days before it finds a steam packet to convey it across the ocean.

"The letter to which you refer is from beginning to end, in every word and every syllable . . . a most wicked and nefarious forgery. I have never published one word or one line in reference to America, in any quarter whatever, except the copyright circular, and the unhung scoundrel who invented that astounding lie knew this as well as I do. It has caused me more pain and more of a vague desir to take somebody by the throat than such an event should perhaps have awakened in any honorable man. But I have not contradicted it publicly, deeming it would not become my character or elevate me in my own self-respect to do so. I shall hope to send for your acceptance next month my 'American notes'."

The "American notes" were eventually received by Mr. Hone, who found in them nothing objectionable. But, later, with the appearance of Martin Chuzzlewit, Hone and other Americans had less cause for satisfaction in the narrative of the hero of Dickens' tale concerning his experience on American shores among "pagans, brutes and infidels."

Senate Group Urges Stock Bill Passage

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The senate banking committee today urged passage of the stock exchange control bill to prevent recurring interruptions in the nation's economic recovery caused by the collapse of speculative booms in securities.

"That the country has learned little from the catastrophe of 1929 is evidenced by the speculative boom during the summer of 1933 which ended with the usual disastrous results to investors," the committee said in its formal report on the measure.

"If our present progress toward prosperity is not to be impeded from time to time by the financial collapse invariably following artificial inflation of security prices, it is essential that the federal government adopt measures which will enable it to stem the speculative tide whenever necessary."

MAYOR KEY LEAVING FOR BEACH VACATION

Mayor James L. Key is slated to leave today for a week's vacation to Sea Island Beach as the guest of John E. Smith, Atlanta automobile dealer and a member of the Grady hospital board of trustees.

The mayor has been planning a vacation trip since the first of the year, but financial problems of the city have held him here. With federal relief expenditures insured through refinancing of 1934 city bonds, which released funds to meet demands of federal authorities for local participation, the way was cleared for the trip.

Key will return the latter part of next week, and will be in Atlanta in time for the council meeting May 7.

21 PWA ALLOTMENTS REPORTED WITHDRAWN

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The public works administration announced today withdrawal of 21 allotments totalling $1,840,097.

Allotments recalled included: St. Joseph, La., $5,200 for streets; and Buena Vista, Va., $10,000 for jail, firehouse and heating system.

The administration announced the loan to Lake City and Jonesboro, Ark., had been increased $112,000 to $126,000 for construction of a courthouse at Jonesboro and remodeling courthouse at Lake City.

EDUCATION AID BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The house today passed and sent to the senate a bill extending federal aid for vocational education for three years.

It defeated an attempt by Representative De Priest, negro republican from Illinois, to include equal allocation of funds to negro schools on a population basis.

The measure authorized appropriations of $3,000,000 for each year, to be matched with state funds.

SOCIETY ATTENDS RITES FOR MRS. VANDERBILT

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Alice Claypool Gwynne Vanderbilt, matriarch of the family, was buried today in the Vanderbilt mausoleum on Staten island after services in her mansion.

Three hundred social leaders and members of the Vanderbilt family were admitted to the home. Outside on Fifth avenue a large crowd gathered, requiring 24 police officers to keep them in order.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's two daughters, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and Countess Laszlo Szechenyi, and her son, General Cornelius Vanderbilt, were among the relatives there.

Certain Relief For Athlete's Foot

This formula for skin diseases is astounding the most skeptical in the marvelous way it heals severe cases of Athlete's Foot, Ringworm, Eczema, Tetter, Itch and other parasitic skin troubles. The minute it touches the sore spot, you feel a cooling, soothing sensation; in a few days you marvel at how your skin has healed. If you suffer with skin diseases of any kind, especially Athlete's Foot, get from any drug store a 60c box of Tetterine, and get relief or get your money back.—(adv.)

ONE GALLON could hoist S.S. Leviathan 7¾ inches!

99 Million Foot-Pounds* per gallon

Imagine the work required to hoist the world's heaviest ship 7¾ inches in the air! Astounding as it may seem, a single gallon of the powerful, new H-C could do this colossal job *if all its potential energy could be converted into useful work. Equally astounding it is that this same powerful H-C performs so smoothly, so quietly—in your engine! Try the new H-C in your car for 30 days. Compare it with any other gas you ever used—for hill climbing—for quick acceleration—for long mileage. And remember, it sells at the price of regular gasoline.

Ask the Sinclair dealer for a folder which fully explains how one gallon of the new H-C could hoist the S. S. Leviathan 7¾ inches.

SINCLAIR H-C GASOLINE
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

*Foot-Pound: The amount of work required to lift one pound one foot. Due to friction and other losses no machine yet built can convert into useful work all the potential energy in any gasoline. Friction alone steals millions of foot-pounds of work from every gallon of gasoline you buy. To keep friction loss in your engine at a minimum be sure to use either Sinclair Opaline or Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil.

Atlanta Junior League To Meet Tuesday, May 1, at Driving Club

Members of the Atlanta Junior League will meet Tuesday, May 1, at 3 o'clock, at the Piedmont Driving Club, according to the announcement made in the May issue of the Cotton Blossom, League news sheet. Suggestions for several new methods to be used by the League will be discussed and plans will be made for the entertainment at the June meeting.

Both the editorial and an article by Mrs. Murdock Equen, marionette chairman, stress the need of a home for the marionettes which could be used as a theater to present regular performances and where the children could form the habit of going for their entertainment. The editorial also stresses the need for a League headquarters or clubhouse, and urges that the Atlanta League follow the suggestions of Miss Helenka Adamowska, children's play chairman of the A. J. L. A., who visited Atlanta during the past month. Miss Adamowska advised that the year's program of theatrical presentations be arranged in advance and season tickets sold for the productions. An interesting plan for an ideal staff for a children's theater is given in another part of the news sheet.

Mrs. John Candler, Junior League chairman for the garden tours, sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Henrietta Egleston Memorial hospital, reported on the Junior League girls who are selling tickets at the entrance of the gardens. Mrs. Parks Huntt, hospital chairman, reported that the Junior League ward is filled except for two beds, and that the Egleston hospital is one of ten charities benefiting by the Sunday baseball games.

The last issue of the Junior League magazine carried a review of "The Garden History of Georgia" by Mrs. George Street; a review of "The First Billion" by Mrs. Joseph Brennan, and an attractive photograph of a scene from the marionette play, "Katinka and the Jewel Tree," according to the article of Mrs. Preston Stevens, city editor. Interesting additions to the news sheet are two short poems by Mrs. Keith Quarterman.

Of particular interest is the article, "Conference Reminiscences" by Mrs. Edwin Peeples, which tells of the elaborate entertainment of the delegate to the A. J. L. A. conference held in Atlanta in 1922. Announcement is made that Miss Oleda Schnottky, national director of plays and pageants, for the Girl Scouts will speak for the marionette committee, and any girl interested in this type of work, the exact date to be announced at the meeting. On the broadcast sponsored by the Junior League and Carnegie library children's department on Friday afternoons at 5 o'clock, Mrs. Howard Candler Jr. will read two old ballads in prose, "The Alligator and the Jackal" and "The Barring of the Door," on May 11, and on May 25 Mrs. Marion Kiser will read a Norse story, "The Magic Apples in the Days of the Giants." These programs will close the series of broadcasts.

St. Philip's Cathedral Presents Vesper Organ Recital on Sunday

Listed among the prominent musical events of the week will be the vesper organ recital to be held at 4 o'clock Sunday, April 29, at St. Philip's Cathedral, Andrews Drive and Peachtree road. The recital is sponsored by St. Mary's Guild of the cathedral, of which Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale is president.

The artist contributing the program will be Arthur Davis, organist and master of the cathedral choristers, fellow of the Royal College of Organists of London, and fellow of the American Guild of Organists. He will be assisted by Richard Holtzclaw, soloist.

The program will open with "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor," written by Bach, when he was organist at Weimar, in 1708, and reveals the great composer in a dramatic mood. This number will be followed by "The Bells of St. Anne de Beaupre," by Russell, which gives the actual notes of the chimes of St. Anne church, Beaupre, Canada, and "A Desert Song," by Shepherd. Another selection to be played by Mr. Davis is "Sketches of the City," by G. B. Nevin, the sketches including "The City Afar Off," "On the Avenue," "The Grandmother," "Urchin Whistling in the Streets," "The Blind Man," "In Busy Mills," and "Evening."

Pieces in lighter vein include "Romance Sans Paroles" and "Elves," by Bonnet, organist of St. Eustache, Paris. "Minuet Antique" is an interesting number by a blind organist, Wabling, which was played by Alfred Hollins at the opening of the Town Hall organ in Johannesburg, Africa.

Mr. Holtzclaw's selections will include "Invictus," by Huhn, and "Arm, Arm Ye Brave," from "Judas Maccabaeus," by Handel. Concluding the program will be Mr. Davis' number, "Marche Slave," written in 1878 by Tschaikowsky, and doubtless inspired when Russia joined the Serbs against the oppression of Turkey.

A free-will offering will be taken for St. Mary's Guild during the intermission.

The Improved Order of Red Men is the oldest fraternal order in the United States and is celebrating its one hundredth anniversary this year.

The feature number on the program was the tap dancing by Miss Chloe Sibley. Prizes were won in the contest by Mrs. Ruth Hathcock and Mrs. H. P. Sibley. Miss Lorette Lunsford and Mrs. Dora Weitzler, members of Silver Cloud Council No. 1, were welcomed as new members.

Cancer Control and Eradication Program Indorsed by Federation

By Bessie S. Stafford, Editor Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs indorsed the program of the Medical Association of Georgia, the cancer commission of Georgia, and the state board of health, in their efforts to control and eradicate cancer, and pledged co-operation under the direction of the above named organizations, in accelerating the program of education in cancer control, and the eradication of cancer in Georgia. This resolution was introduced by Mrs. Bonar White, fifth district health chairman, at the final session of the thirty-eighth convention, held at the Biltmore on Thursday.

After much debate upon the subject, clubwomen voted to table the resolution indorsing the principles of the bill providing for a revision of the civil code of Georgia, to include the rights of women to serve on juries, in the belief that woman's ability and qualifications provide a vital factor in the solution of grave and critical problems confronting the nation. The vote resulted in 45 against the resolution and 10 voting in the affirmative.

In lieu of this resolution, clubwomen recommended the study of equal rights for men and women during the next year. As the repeal of the eighteenth amendment brings up the difficult question of control and regulation in intoxicating liquor, clubwomen voted that temperance instruction be emphasized in the public school system, calling attention to the evil effects of the use of alcohol.

Adoption was made of the resolution instructing the division of correction to prepare study material, covering crime prevention and control measures, leading to the support of their enactment into legislation by the congress of the United States.

Other Resolutions.

Other resolutions adopted by Georgia clubwomen included the petition requesting boards of education to make nature study a fundamental elementary requirement of promotion from grade to grade in public schools, to include a course in the use and importance of natural resources in high schools, to require students in state colleges and universities who plan to teach to prepare for teaching nature study and the importance of natural resources, and to establish and maintain a school garden on the grounds of each public school where such installation is found feasible.

A resolution was indorsed to employ only sober licensed school bus drivers and instruct them not to cross railroads unless it is absolutely necessary, and to ask that school boards construct places for buses to turn around, when possible, to prevent crossing tracks.

State clubwomen passed the resolution which involved the study of unemployment insurance and old age pensions, in order to be in a position to register their opinion on the legislative proposals.

So little recognition has been taken of the wanton destruction of trees and shrubs in Georgia, that Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs favor a law similar to the one mentioned in the new Georgia code. The general principle and purpose of the Copeland pure food and drug bill was adopted in a resolution, as was the one proposing that in the future the sale of fireworks be made illegal, and any ordinance forbidding the sale of such be not set aside on holidays or any other time, for commercial or any other purposes.

Mrs. Gholston Honored.

Mrs. W. W. Crawford, tenth district president, offered the presentation of a silver loving cup to be called the Mattie Belle Gholston trophy, to be given as a reward to the district making the largest gift per capita to Tallulah Falls school. Mrs. J. W. Gholston, of Comer, retiring president of the state federation, resides in the tenth district, and the loving cup is offered and named for Mrs. Gholston in recognition of the esteem in which she is held by women in the tenth district. Announcement was made that 278 delegates attended the four-day conclave, and that the 39th convention of Georgia Federation will be held in Valdosta in April, 1935, at the invitation of the Wymodausis Woman's Club.

Mrs. Johnson Honored.

Deference was paid Mrs. J. Lindsey Johnson, of Rome, one of the founders and first presidents of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, who attended the convention and was called upon to make several talks. Mrs. Johnson was a powerful factor in the building of the substantial structure of the federation, and her pioneer work in the organization is deeply appreciated by federated women.

Newly elected officers of Georgia Federation were installed before adjournment of the final session as follows: Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, president; Mrs. Albert Hill, of Greenville, first vice president; Mrs. A. B. Conger Jr., of Bainbridge, second vice president; Mrs. Morris Bryan, of Jefferson, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph Butler, of Dallas, treasurer; Mrs. Rufus Turner, of Athens, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. J. W. Gholston, of Comer, director for Georgia in General Federation.

Midol helps those who have always had a difficult time. And the relief is lasting; two tablets see you through your worst day. Yet they contain no narcotic, nothing injurious. They're as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. But don't be fooled by ordinary pain tablets offered as a specific for menstrual pain! Midol is a special medicine, for this special purpose. Your druggist has it on the counter—or just ask for Midol.

Flowers of spring—lily of the valley and pansy! And here they are ready to embroider in all their lovely colors as real as if they had grown in the garden. There is a larger and a smaller spray in each flower with some real small sprays for napkin corners. The two flowers could be used on the same article for they certainly make a charming combination. Things That Make Woman More Beautiful

By MIGNON.

There are many women whose cosmetic budgets are very small, and who want good products, but not too many of them. In answer to queries about such things I have tried to find some of the finest creams and powders that fit these purses and yet bring the desired results. Much money is spent on expensive cosmetics by the women who have it to spend. The fun of using them is something to consider. The woman doesn't live who doesn't enjoy rare perfumes and creams and powders that other women can afford. It is a fine thrill in which to indulge. The best manufacturers have been kind enough to make creams that are within the reach of every woman.

What makes creams expensive is none of my affair. I have my own ideas. Some of them are given a dash of a rare perfume or rare something or other, and the price skyrockets. The woman with a full purse is glad to pay for the fragrance or the pretty package. I always do it when I can. But the people who make these things are clever enough to make something for the purse that the baby elephant stepped upon, for which great thanks are offered.

Today I am going to give you the names of creams and other beauty aids within reach of the girl on a very small salary or allowance.

If you want to use only one cream for both cleansing and massage there is a cream of purest white, with a satiny finish and a fine consistency; it is heavy enough to nourish the skin. Of course, if you do not get the heaviest of creams you have to use plenty of the lighter kind and massage the face for at least five minutes to get the best results.

1. If you care to use soap and water for cleansing and then an inexpensive two-purpose cream, this one will do nicely.

No matter what cream I use, I wouldn't neglect to get a finishing cream. Experience has taught me that you must keep your makeup on top of your skin and not imbed it in the pores to clog them. Only a finishing cream of some sort will hold makeup. Some of them are liquid and some come in jars. They are not expensive. They last a long time as you use ever so little. Smear the tips of your fingers with the cream and touch the face on forehead, chin, cheeks and neck. Spread ever so lightly over the surface.

2. For a finishing cream the price is not so important because you use very little. One good one, not at all expensive, I recommend highly. Another that costs a little more is also excellent and you might prefer it. Women have whims about things of this kind. The second one is a thick liquid the shade of cucumbers. Women who have tried it are generous in their praise of it.

3. A good face powder within range of the small purse is made by the same manufacturer that makes the finishing cream mentioned above. A good product, in a generous box and not high priced. Another that costs a nickle more can be highly recommended.

4. A reasonably priced bath powder comes in a box big enough to hold a large-sized puff and is easy to use. Keep it on the edge of your bathtub. One that costs 10 cents more is quite elegant, and has a scent a little more pronounced.

5. There are two inexpensive rouges for depleted pocket books, one costing a nickel more than the other. They are equally good.

6. Lip sticks run pretty much the same as to price. I can tell you of three good ones priced alike so you can take your choice.

NANCY PAGE

Apricot Chiffon Pie As Made by Nancy Is Her Trump Card.

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

Charlotte almost trumped her partner's ace. She had let her mind drift to the delicious food that Nancy had served for dinner. She wondered how it was that Nancy always had such well flavored food, such well cooked food and such satisfying meals. If taking a course in home economics in college had done that for Nancy she wished she had taken that identical course. Then she might have a home, a husband and such well-behaved children as did her hostess. In other words, Charlotte was distinctly envious and jealous. She made up her mind she would get the recipe for the apricot chiffon pie. Much to her surprise Nancy said, "Of course, you may have it. I'll write out a copy of my recipe next time I am dummy. Then you can take it home and try it without attempting to remember exact amounts. That is hard to do."

Soak one tablespoon granulated gelatin in one quarter cup cold water for five minutes or until gelatin is hydrated. Use cooked apricots, either the canned or the dried ones that have been soaked over night and then simmered over a low fire. Drain off one-half cup apricots through a sieve. Add two tablespoons lemon juice, a few grains of salt, one-half cup sugar and a few drops of almond extract. Combine ingredients and set in cool place to congeal. When partially stiffened fold in one cup of cream whipped until stiff.

Put into a baked pie shell and top with whipped cream if desired. Nancy suggests that three-quarters of the cream be folded in and the other quarter be sweetened somewhat and spread on top of the pie.

Nancy has a leaflet on pastry making which she sends on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write her in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Man, Victim of Crash, In Coma for 120 Hours

As Miss Nell Bullard passed the 796th hour in a semi-conscious state at 2 o'clock Friday morning at Grady hospital as the result of a brain injury, physicians at the hospital were confronted with another case in which a man, who has a fracture of the skull, has remained unconscious for more than 120 hours.

He is J. H. Hyder, of a Luckie stree hotel, who apparently was injured more than a week ago when he fell and struck his head on the pavement. His condition is critical, as is that of Miss Bullard, who was hurt more than a month ago in an automobile accident. Hyder was thought to be drunk when he was first brought to Grady after being picked up unconscious on a downtown street, and doctors discovered the skull fracture when he did not regain consciousness. Physicians said there was no change in the comatose state of Miss Bullard.

TEACHERS TO GET TRAINING AND PAY

Grant To Enable Selected Pedagogues To Attend College With Pay.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 26.—(AP) A plan under which selected Georgia school teachers can obtain additional training, attending college while still drawing their pay, has been made public here by Chancellor Philip Weltner, of the Georgia University system.

The program, he said, will be financed by a $12,000 grant from the general education board, and will be carried out largely at South Georgia Teachers' College in Statesboro.

It will be directed, he said, by M. S. Pittman, now with the Michigan State Normal school at Ypsilanti, who will come to Statesboro next fall. The chancellor described Pittman as "one of the country's outstanding educators."

The project also will provide "field work" for student teachers in the normal school. Weltner said such undergraduates, as "cadet teachers," would take the classes of the teachers to be brought to Statesboro under virtual scholarships.

Those to be given the aid, he said, would be rural teachers who show aptitude for the work but need higher educational training to permit them to advance.

A negro college at Forsyth will handle colored teachers in the same manner.

The solicitor said the indictment grew out of alleged irregularities in the buying of lumber to the amount of about $400.

He said the lumber was paid for by the county in 1933 and delivered only last week.

Georgia Was Heaviest Loser In War, Says M. J. Yeomans

State Honors Confederate Veterans With Touching Exercises. Graves Decorated.

THOMASTON, Ga., April 26.—(AP) Georgia and the state's gray-clad legions bore heavier losses in lives and property in the War Between the States than any other Confederate state, Attorney-General M. J. Yeomans said in a memorial address here today.

"Georgia gave her all for the Confederacy," the attorney-general said. "From 1861 to 1865 Georgia gave 94 regiments, 36 battalions embracing every arm of the service, and totaling at least 120,000 men, practically one-fifth of the Confederate army, of which 40,000 were either wounded or killed in battles.

"In 1860 property in Georgia was returned for taxation at $672,000 and in 1867 it was returned for $191,000, a loss of $481,000, more than three-fourths of her entire wealth. During the same time, South Carolina lost two-thirds, Mississippi two-thirds, Virginia two-sevenths, North Carolina one-half, Kentucky one-fifth, Louisiana two-fifths, Tennessee one-fifth, Florida one-half, while Missouri had gained $286,000. The public debt was over $25,000,000."

Yeomans cited figures compiled by the auditor at Richmond which showed that up to Decemmber 1863, Georgia lost 9,500 soldiers, Alabama 8,900, North Carolina 8,260, Texas 6,300, Virginia 5,940, Mississippi 5,360, South Carolina 4,500, Louisiana 3,039, Tennessee 2,840, Arkansas 1,940 and Florida 1,200.

"The year 1864 was the turning point in the war," Yoemans said, "and as usual Georgia was the crux of the situation. The capture of Vicksburg cut the Confederacy in twain. From then on Georgia bore the brunt of the conflict.

"From the very inception of the Confederacy, Georgia had been the chief manufacturing center of military supplies. Arms, ammunitions, clothing and other military supplies were manufactured in Etowah, Columbus, Macon, Augusta, Milledgeville and Atlanta.

War Localized.

"The war had become localized in Virginia and Georgia and Georgia was the crucial turning point. If the army then on Georgia soil, made up largely of Georgians, could be destroyed and the state laid waste, the source of supply for substance, arms and ammunition for the army of Virginia would be entirely cut off and the struggle ended.

"The federal forces centered their activities in Georgia, and at Chickamauga one of the greatest battles of the entire war was fought, then followed in quick succession the battles of Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge and later Ringgold, Dalton, Resaca, Kennesaw, Atlanta and Jonesboro, which ultimately ended in the collapse of the Confederacy."

Turning to Georgia's Confederate veterans, Yeomans expressed the fear that sufficient funds will not be realized to pay pensions in full for 1934. He explained that the 1931 legislature levied a tax of 20 per cent on all cigars and cigarets and appropriated the net proceeds for the years 1932 and 1933 to the payment of pensions.

He said the legislature of 1933 reduced this tax to 10 per cent greatly reducing the income and making it doubtful if sufficient funds will be realized from the tax to pay the pensions in full.

The attorney-general commended the United Daughters of the Confederacy for "keeping alive the memories of days which tried men's souls" and for "perpetuating the ideals and purposes which actuated the heroes and heroines of those days to undergo hardships unequaled by any people."

"We fought to preserve the constitution," he concluded. "We bowed to the mandates of battle. We are now in the Union and we are here to stay and with all patriotic Americans, north, east, south and west, work out our common destiny."

Seven hundred school pupils, including the military unit, marched to the soldiers' cemetery here where flowers were placed on the 110 graves. Out of 1,250 men who went to the war from Unson only three are living.

SHADOW OF KENNESAW LOOMS OVER BATTLEFIELD

By FRANCIS CARPENTER.

MARIETTA, Ga., April 26.—(AP) The Shadow of Kennesaw mountain looms peacefully on the graves of Confederate and Union troops who fought a fierce battle on the mountain side in the sixties.

Today Georgians joined with residents of Alabama, Mississippi and Florida to pay honor to the soldier dead who fell in the Battle of Kennesaw Mountain and other engagements of the War Between the States.

It was Confederate Memorial Day, and the graves of the south's dead were decorated again with flowers and the Confederate soldiers were eulogized once more—just as they have been since the custom started in 1866.

The battle on the mountain slope here was one of the last stands the Confederates made in their efforts to keep General W. T. Sherman out of Atlanta. But the blue-clad soldiers swept on and later took Atlanta and then marched on to the sea. The list of dead in the Kennesaw mountain fight was large.

Troops of both armies are buried here. Other cemeteries containing the soldiers of the south dot the four states observing their memory today.

The idea of a Memorial Day came from two cities of the same name—Columbus, Ga., and Columbus, Miss. The first Memorial Day service was held in Columbus, Ga., April 26, 1866. Mrs. John Tyler called a group of her friends together and formed the Ladies' Memorial Association in Columbus, Ga.

From that beginning, the custom has spread over the nation until a Memorial Day is observed in practically every state. While Confederate Memorial Day is designated as April 26 in Georgia, Florida, Mississippi and Alabama, Memorial Day in the other states on May 30.

Business paused here and elsewhere in the quartet of states and official duties were held up for a day.

Many of the men who wore the gray in battle took part in parades and had honored places at the ceremonies. Most of them rode in automobiles but a few insisted on marching.

Confederate Memorial Day this year found a wealth of flowers blooming in a good spring season and it was with these flowers that the women of the south decorated the graves.

At historic Midway church, in Liberty county, Georgia, hundreds gathered for the annual observance of the day. Robert M. Hitch, of Savannah, was the speaker.

FLANNAGAN LEAF BILL MEETS OPPOSITION

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Strong opposition from North Carolina, the nation's largest tobacco producing state, developed today at a house agriculture sub-committee hearing on a bill introduced by Representative Flannagan, democrat, Virginia, to license tobacco auction warehouses and provide for a uniform grading system.

Representative Warren, democrat, North Carolina, saying he believed he voiced the sentiment of the entire North Carolina delegation, said the bill was "unnecessary" at this time and he feared it might have an adverse effect on the Kerr tobacco control, now pending.

Warren said North Carolina law regulated the operation of warehouses in that state and that there had been little dissatisfaction with the state statute. Warehousemen, he said, had co-operated in aiding farmers to secure better prices for leaf tobacco.

About 80 persons are expected to attend the conference, which was called by McConnell to organize the state forces for work under the new set-up of their organization.

The new arrangement calls for operations of re-employment offices under a district plan, with districts divided on the basis of area, population and opportunities for employment in PWA and private industry. Under the new system, office staffs will be paid by the department of labor instead of by CWA funds. The services previously was directed by the department of labor but paid by PWA.

McConnell will speak Saturday afternoon, and several talks will be made by re-employment officers. Contractors and supervisors will speak on requirements in selection of job candidates, and A. B. One pointed a pistol at him and removed a few dollars from his pockets. The other searched his automobile for valuables.

The robbers took the keys to his car and told him he would find them in the middle of the road, half a mile away. They turned the lights out on their own car and sped away. The doctor, who was returning to his home here after a trip to Atlanta, walked down the road and recovered the keys.

Export Bank Bill Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—A bill to permit the reconstruction corporation to establish export banks to finance foreign trade was passed today by the senate and sent to the house.

The bill, one of the measures senate leaders marked down for approval before adjournment, was passed without debate or a record vote.

Submitted by Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it would authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation "to establish or to utilize export or import trading and banking corporations in which the United States shall own, directly or indirectly, the entire beneficial interest and to subscribe for the purchase the common and preferred stock and obligations thereof, for the purpose of aiding in financing and facilitating exports and imports between the United States and other nations.'"

TARVER DENIES VOTE FOR DE PRIEST PAPER

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Representative Tarver, Georgia democrat, arose today in the house on a point of personal privilege and said "In my section of the country, no gentleman would vote for the De Priest resolution."

Tarver was recorded today in the Congressional Record as having voted for it.

Tarver said the error was made "through connivance of some clerical help."

He claimed he had voted "no" in "a clear tone," and added that "in a spirit of malice," he had been "maligned."

The house agreed to let Tarver change the record of his vote from "aye" to "no."

JACKSON MAN HELD IN PROVIDENCE, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 26.—(AP)—Two civilians caught at the naval torpedo station at Newport last Saturday in naval uniform were brought here today and locked up for arraignment tomorrow before a United States commissioner.

Assistant United States Attorney George R. Beane said tonight that the names evidently were aliases and that one of the men is known to have a criminal record. He said he based his information on reports of the bureau of investigation at Washington.

Federal officials here declined to discuss reports that the pair were being questioned in regard to alleged espionage.

NEW HOMESTEADS FOR GEORGIA SEEN

Philip Weltner Reveals 7 Subsistence Projects Planned for Rural Aid.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 26.—(AP)—Subsistence homestead projects may be launched in seven different land areas of Georgia, it was said here by Dr. Philip Weltner, of Atlanta, chancellor of the University System of Georgia.

One such projeet to place families back on farms under a planned agricultural program has been located in Putnam and Jasper counties, under the $1,000,000 allotment to Georgia from the $25,000,000 national fund.

Dr. Weltner, addressing a meeting of the Kiwanis Club here yesterday, said it was hoped to set up the homestead plan in the coastal section in which Savannah is located; the upper coastal, lower Piedmont, upper Piedmont, mountain, mountain valley and southwest Georgia flat land sections.

Judge Gordon Saussy said 12,500 acres in Chatham county had been placed under option with such a plan in view.

The project already launched was proposed to the government by regents of the Georgia University System. Dr. Weltner spoke of the abandoned farm lands and said it was a "sad plight that 35,000 people in 126 rural counties of Georgia had to depend on the CWA and the FERA."

"The national administration," he said "seems determined to give the south a fair deal; and if we fail in Georgia it will be our own fault."

THE WILD BIRD

BY OWEN JOHNSON

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

"Before we go any further—I shall answer your question later—I have an explanation to ask of you." Despite every intention to keep control of her nerves, her voice broke. "You sent for Gregory to come to your office. You treated him like a book agent—you dismissed him before your secretary. Why did you deliberately humiliate him and me?" Her voice caught. "That is something I shall never forget, no, never! If you had the slightest respect for me you would at least have seen him at your home, as any gentleman would have done under the circumstances."

He gave an angry movement of his hand that sent a book scurrying across the desk.

"That had nothing to do—"

"It has everything to do with it!" She looked up wih blazing eyes. "It showed me that all that you said to me was just pretense. You didn't mean a single word of it. You deliberately, yes, deliberately, did everything to provoke a quarrel!"

"I did no such thing."

"You did! If I'd been Gregory I should have walked out of your office instantly.' She stopped because she was trembling all over, turned, and went to the long window to recover herself. "The person you hurt was not Gregory—but yourself," she said after a moment.

"When you are ready to resume the conversation—"

She came back, thinking:

"There, I've done that. Now, I must keep hold of myself."

"You have said what you wished," he said coldly. "Now, will you explain why you thought it necessary to conceal Mr. Gregory Rance's past from me?"

"I am going to marry Gregory. I have never had a moment's hesitation," she replied quietly. "This is final."

"Why? Oh, father! You know very well, why! Because I am afraid of you, yes, afraid! You've brought me up to be afraid and wanted me to be afraid, so that you could keep me here, absorb me, shut me away—"

"That's not true!"

"O, yes it is. All I've done—and you don't know the half of what I've hidden from you—I've done because I believed that if—if you got to know Gregory first, before, you might get to see him as I see him."

"And you knew if I'd known this story, I'd have shown him the door."

She frowned, angry at the expression.

"You're right there, young lady," he continued savagely. "Now, to leave all these heroics, the plain fact is that you've introduced him here under false pretenses. I disliked the fellow the moment I set eyes on him. There is something in instinct—"

She laughed angrily.

"That's ridiculous. And now, father, you may as well understand that I am at the end of my patience. You cannot call Gregory names and have me stay in this room."

"Shall I refer to him as the 'gentleman in question'?" he ... cuttingly.

Her eyes flashed, but she restrained herself.

"I'll try to reason with him, one last time, but it will be useless," she thought. She went to a chair and sat down. "Your one objection is that Gregory is divorced, isn't it?"

"My principal objection. I object to the way the marriage was made and terminated," he said, drumming on the table.

"Don't do that!" she cried involuntarily. "I'm sorry, but it gets on my nerves."

Barbara shook her head, took a breath. "Times have changed. No one objects to divorce now. There isn't a family, you know—"

"Except your own," her father broke in. "There has never been that blot on our record—yet!"

"Your principal clients are the Covingtons and the Van Wilers. There have been three divorces in the first blot on our record—yet!"

"Nothing to do with—"

"You don't refuse the management of their estates, you don't refuse to dine at their tables. If you were consistent—"

He struck the table angrily.

"Absurd and totally irrelevant. We are not discussing my business relations, the Van Wilers, the Covingtons, or anyone else but you—!"

"I am trying to make you see that every one about you, all your friends, your acquaintances—"

"Unnecessary! My principles and my standards are not—"

"O, father, can't you be reasonable? Can't you understand any other point of view?" she cried involuntarily, rising and beginning to pace the floor.

"My position is the position that any father would take under the circumstances," he answered coldly and precisely. "My dear girl, you have lost your senses. You are completely infatuated. You haven't the slightest power to reason on the most glaring facts. You are infatuated—I tell you! The man has got you—"

"If you knew!" she flung back over her shoulder.

"What do you know?" he cried, his voice rising to a shrill staccato. "Yes, what do you know about this man, who married and left his wife—left or deserted, it's all the same thing, within a few weeks? What? Nothing! You know nothing but what he's told you. How do you know it's the truth? What do you know about his life in the last 10 years? How many other women, all over the world, have been in it? You don't even know if he's mixed up with some woman now at this very moment. Have you asked him? Have you even discussed it? No!"

"That's what you think of him!" she cried. "That's exactly how you'd blacken the character of any man who wanted to marry me!"

"You haven't answered me, because you can't!" he cried, pounding the table. "Well, I know something of men and life; I know the motives back of things. And I have a pretty shrewd idea why Mr. Rance—"

"Stop! Don't say it. Wait." She made up her mind suddenly. "O, let's get out into the open. I'm tired of all this concealing of things! Now I'm going to tell you the truth. You think Gregory is a roue, a libertine, a fortune hunter; yes, yes, that's what you meant—playing with an adventure, amusing himself at my expense—O, anything you want to think! Well, the plain truth is, he had nothing to do with it. I went to him. I asked him to marry me!"

"Ridiculous! You made that up on the spur of the moment."

"It's true, and, furthermore, I loved him the moment I saw him! Yes, from the first moment I've had no other thought. I love him. I love him! He's what I want, what I've wanted all my life!"

He rose, trembling.

"Then all this cock and bull story you told me—just a lie. You've never lied to me before," he continued in a still voice, "never until this man came into your life! But don't you see, aren't you able to see, that you are no longer in possession of your senses? Barbara—Barbara! You don't know what you are saying or doing! You are completely, utterly mad!"

"I love him," she cried, swept on by her suddenly released emotions. "I love him because he has a big way of looking at things, because he understands everything, condemns no one, because his mind isn't shut in on old prejudices, because everything interests him, because he has ambitions, because he won't tell a lie even to save my feelings—"

"Because, in a word, he's everything your father isn't!" he burst out. Every word had cut him to the heart. Say it—say it, why don't you?"

She shook her head angrily—not to be diverted.

"I chose him, I did everything to bring him to me. Why? Because I had to. Because—well, because I wanted to escape from this thing you are drawing around me!"

"Barbara!"

"I'm telling you the truth at last. Now you know it! And, if our marriage fails, I'll be the only one to be blamed!"

"Good God!" He sank back, staring at her. "Never in your right senses—" He began to stutter, incapable of comprehending what he had heard. "You're quite—I won't believe—you—you are but—then—then, there's nothing left!"

"I am going to marry Gregory, and nothing that you can say or do, or any one can say or do, is going to prevent it."

He struggled to his feet, leaning heavily on the desk.

"Whether your story is true or not," he began thickly, "nothing changes my opinion, understand that! You are incapable at the moment of seeing the man as he is—"

"Father!"

"Don't interrupt me! The man is no fit person to be your husband. He has not one single standard that I recognize. You will never, never marry this man, unless every sense of decency in you—"

"That means you will never change your mind."

"Never!" he cried furiously, swept away from all caution.

"Then, father, I am going to marry him tonight!"

He raised his hand, started to speak, and his hand dropped limply.

"In that case I shall never see you again," he said in a suddenly weak voice. All his anger ran out of him; he stood pale and frightened.

"There is nothing more to be said," she said, turning to go. "You have driven me to this. I could not love him and do differently—after what you've said."

"You will not do this," he said in a whisper. "No, no, you can not do this to me. You may think you can, Barbara; you won't; you can't."

She escaped hurriedly, ran up to her room, and, taking a little satchel, began confusedly to throw into it a few things. The sight of her father's face as he stood there in the end had brought tears to her eyes. If he had only been human—for one instant even!

She hurried down the stairs, clutching her things.

"Barbara!"

With her hand on the doorknob she stopped.

"Barbara!"

Then a crash.

She rushed back to the library. He was lying on the floor, sprawled out and lifeless.

Rance, fretting out his soul in the darkness, suddenly heard her running down the path calling his name. The next moment she was in his arms sobbing, hysterical.

"A doctor—a doctor! Gregory. I have killed him!"

When half an hour later Rance arrived with Dr. Braddock Barbara was on the floor holding her father's head in her lap, the servants half dressed, scurrying around in the back shadows. The doctor knelt down to make a quick examination, while Barbara, wide-eyed, sought in his face for the first revealing expression.

"Doctor! What is it? Tell me!"

"He's had a stroke, how serious I can't tell yet." He looked up at Rance. "I want to get him to his bed. Take him up carefully. Don't bump into anything."

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

LONG AGO IN EUROPE.
V—More Cave Pictures.

After our visit in the Cave of Niaux, Monsieur Verneau takes us to the Font-de-Gaume, in south-central France. We pause before the entrance. There are two large holes before us, but we choose the one at the right because our guide says the other leads inward only a short distance.

Galloping horse and wild cow pictured on walls of French cave.

We go about 70 yards before we come to a narrow space between the rock walls, known as the "Rubicon." Marks left by the claws of a cave bear are pointed out to use at this point; and we think of olden days when bears, lions and leopards made their homes in caves of Europe. It was only after men learned to make stone-pointed spears that they were able to drive out the beasts and turn the caves into homes for themselves.

Squeezing past the narrow space, we go onward 40 or 50 yards and reach the "Grande Galerie des Fresques," a chamber in the cave where there are paintings of scores of animals.

The pictures include 15 mammoths, pointed in red and black. The mammoth must have seemed wonderful to the cave people. We, ourselves, are struck with wonder as we gaze upon pictures of the beast. We measure one of the figures, and find that it is four feet long. The great curved tusks, the humped back and the long hair are shown plainly.

"These paintings," says our scientist guide, "are among the proofs that Stone Age people saw mammoths wandering around in Europe. It is likely that mammoths were captured in pits which the people dug. Bones of mammoths have been found amid remains of feasts which took place in and near the caves.

The painting of a galloping horse catches our attention. It is painted in black and white, and seems to us to be very well done.

"There were plenty of wild horses in Europe during the Stone Age," says Monsieur Verneau, "but it is not likely that any were tamed until almost the end of the period."

"Were there wild cattle in Europe, as well as horses?"

"Yes. Not a great distance from here is a cave containing pictures of wild cattle; but bison are the nearest thing to cattle among the paintings here. Think of it! In this cave there are 49 pictures of bison!"

Before we leave the Font-de-Gaume, we gaze upon four paintings of reindeer; and we reflect that there must have been no shortage of game for hunters in Europe long ago.

Crackers Lose, 7-0; Abbott Plans Shakeup in Batting Order

Moose Fails To Bite Moose Hunter In Thursday's Baseball Show!

There was an excellent opportunity for a piece of news to occur at Ponce de Leon park yesterday afternoon.

I kept waiting for the Moose to bite the Moose Hunter. But it never happened. The Moose Hunter, in the form of that Down-East Yankee, Climax Blethen, pitched our Mr. Moose Clabaugh and the rest of the boys, right out of the picture.

Climax Blethen, who is built something like a piece of string, did not seem to have very much on the baseball. I took a seat just behind the catcher and watched. He was throwing a curve ball which didn't seem deceptive. His fast one would have broken no ribs. But he had a teaser in there which helped a lot. It was his slow one. He had it well under control.

The Maine Moose Hunter was mixing them up. And he was pitching as much with his sparsely-covered head as with his veteran arm. He takes a very human pleasure in beating the Crackers. It was this club which let him go last year as all washed up. And so it pleases him to step in there and pitch the boys silly.

The Crackers helped the Moose Hunter out with some awkward plays. Awkward is a charitable word. But he had the boys guessing up there. Just when they were set to whack the fast one they got the slow one and when they expected the slow one they got the curve.

Ah, yes, a great opportunity. It would have been splendid had the Moose bitten the Moose Hunter. It would have been equivalent to the man biting the dog. Which is news. But there was no news. The Moose Hunter did the biting. Those new crockery teeth are stout ones.

NO NEED FOR PANIC.

There seems to be no need for panic. Although at that there was considerable perturbation about Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, the Cracker president. He was moaning after the game much like a young man who has eaten too many green apples. Defeat sits heavily on his shoulders.

But the Crackers patently need only a pitcher or so and perhaps one more change, to step out as a contending ball club. The situation looks very good. And the club heads will be foolish if they are stampeded into quick action.

There have been too many of these quick "changes" in the past in which a parade of ball players, each one a little worse than his predecessor, has wended its way through the park.

The fact is that a great many changes, wrought because of apparent collapse, are unnecessary. This explains why Atlanta has shipped players to other clubs and seen them go well.

It was this very condition which caused this corner of the paper to insist that the Crackers would be off to a slow start but would begin to come after 30 or 40 days and go along to finish no worse than third.

And I think that yet. The Crackers don't look so bad. A lot of good ball clubs have lost 7 to 0 games. The boys will get started. It's early. Quite early.

A COUPLE OF DOGS.

His feet were the only familiar features. He was coaching at first base for the Knoxville club yesterday, pausing now and then to eject a stream of old-fashioned tobacco juice at the innocent turf.

It was Rube Marshall, 19 years ago with Nashville and later with Chattanooga and Memphis. He was one of the best pitchers in the south for about five or six years. Knoxville has dug him up from Tazewell, Tenn-O-See, to act as coach.

Dear old Tazewell! I was there once on a political speaking tour. The telephone office is in the parlor of a home there, a very small switchboard. The lady of the house, her son or daughter or husband—anyone handy—operates the board. The neighbors come in and sit now and then. I recall calling a young lady and the neighbors were sitting in the room rocking and listening.

Rube Marshall was famed as having the largest feet, or dogs, in the league. One of the famous stories concerning his feet was this:

One day the Nashville right fielder put Rube Marshall's shoes on OVER HIS OWN SHOES and wore them out to the field to play an inning in them.

Rube retired in 1922 after a sojourn in the Texas league.

BOB PARHAM LIKES CRACKERS.

Bob Parham, who was a back with the 1928 championship Tech football team, turned up with the Knoxville club yesterday. Parham will leave the Southern league within a day or so, reporting to Columbus, one of the Cardinal chain gang.

Parham, who began his baseball career with the Crackers in 1929, likes the Crackers. "I know some of these players," he said. "Taylor should be the league's best first baseman. And I'll bet he will hit .340 in this league. He hasn't started yet. I saw him go last season. The club looks good to me. They have the men. It's just a question of getting started."

"How about yourself, Bob?" I asked.

"Well," he said, "I guess I'll be leaving in a day or so. I'm going back to Columbus. I was sent down to Knoxville to play first base until the club could get one to use this season. The Cardinals are helping them out with some players."

"When did you start first-basing?" I asked, Parham being an outfielder.

"Well," he said, "they needed one one day and I volunteered. I played about 30 games at first base for Rochester last season. Not only that but I played every outfield position, two infield places, first and third, and had a try at relief pitching. Didn't do so badly either, gave up six hits in seven innings. I play where they tell me to play."

Parham just missed being a real major league outfielder. He may get another whirl up there. An old football knee didn't help him any. He could always hit. On the days when the other players were being stopped by some tough pitcher, Parham would get his hits.

I recall being in the Little Rock park one afternoon in 1929 and seeing him belt one for a home run inside that park. It appeared to travel a quarter of a mile. And that afternoon Carleton Molesworth, scout for the Pirates, offered $25,000 for him. Brooklyn got him for $10,000, Brooklyn having an option on all Cracker players.

Heigh ho—that 1929 Cracker club. I liked it better than any ball club I've known. It shouldn't have got to first base and so help me if it wasn't battling for the flag in August, once being a game and a half out of second place and two and a half out of first place.

SENATORS BEAT RED SOX, 10 TO 7, AFTER SHAKEUP

Three Regulars Benched by Joe Cronin for Weak Hitting.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The faltering American league champions came to life with a barrage of base hits in the first inning of their game with the Boston Red Sox today and went on to win, 10 to 7.

Manager Joe Cronin, harassed by weak stick work and none-too-good pitching since the season opened, wore a broad grin as his revamped Senators began to click.

Three erstwhile Washington regulars warmed the bench as their overnight successors, Cecil Travis, Bob Boken and Dave Harris, helped to contribute the winning punch.

The Senators wasted no time. Manush, second up in the first inning, doubled and Cronin brought him in with a single. Harris' looper to short right fell between Solters and Bishop, and Cronin went to third. Boken singled to center and Travis scored him and Harris with a double that smacked the stands in left center. Five runs were tallied before Weaver grounded to Morgan to end it.

The Senators tallied three more in the second, but Boston broke loose in the third to score five. Henry Johnson's drive went through Travis for an error. Werber, Johnson, Reynolds, Ferrell and Walters all fattened their batting before Russell went to Weaver's rescue.

The visitors made a strong bid to tie the score in the seventh, when Roy Johnson tripled against the left center stands, scoring Morgan, and then came home on Solters' long fly.

Monohan To Join Knoxville Smokies

Edgar Allen, secretary of the Knoxville Smokies, announced last night that Pete Monohan, first baseman from Tulsa and last year with the Crackers for a while, would join the club soon.

Monohan, a left-handed hitter, will replace Bob Parham, who will be returned to Columbus, of the American association, soon. The Smokies were slated to get Pete Susko, another ex-Cracker, from Albany, when he sprained his ankle.

The Cardinals, who loaned Parham to the Smokies, also have supplied them with three other good players in Wetherell and Hegsser, a pair of fine looking young pitchers, Clark, a coming star at third base, in Allen's opinion, and West, a young catcher.

Clark is considered to be the best rookie infielder in the Southern league.

BULLDOGS PLAY PETRELS TODAY

ATHENS, Ga., April 26.—Georgia's baseball nine opens a two-game series with the Oglethorpe Stormy Petrels here tomorrow with Coach Vernon "Catfish" Smith probably starting Lawrence "Flunk" Costa as the opening hurler. Georgia holds a 4-to-1 victory over the Petrels.

Costa turned in an excellent game against the Petrels in Buford last week for the 4-to-1 victory. Coach Smith may start "Lefty" Nichols for the opener but in all probability Costa, who is a right-hander, will be the starting pitcher.

Charlie Treadaway, the big gun of the Bulldog batters, has been moved in to second base to replace "Flip" Costa, who is out with an injured leg. Treadaway proved to be the fireworks of the team against Auburn last week-end, hitting a triple, double, to score three runs in four times at bat. He also stole home in the first inning.

Maurice Carter, reserve catcher, will go to left field to take Treadaway's regular position. Carter is a good batsman and will aid the Bulldog hitters. This will be the only change in the regular starting line-up.

Henry Wagnon, center field; Jordan Ennis, right field, and Harrison "Andy" Anderson, first base, will follow after Treadaway in batting order. Cy Grant, third baseman, who has found difficulty in his hitting this season will bat in the eighth position followed by the pitcher. Carter will follow Anderson in the batting order.

Leroy Moorehead, hefty catcher who did some good hitting against Auburn, will follow after Carter, then Lee Webb, shortstop, will be up.

The Bulldogs after a somewhat ragged season start seem to have hit their stride and should give Coach Frank Anderson's Petrels plenty to worry about.

Tway Winner Of Class Shoot

By Jack Troy.

Absence must make the heart grow fonder, because Jack Gray opened his Airport Gun Club for a class shoot after a long period of abstinence yesterday and the largest crowd in the club's history was on hand for the first annual Memorial Day skeet program.

There was continual firing from 2 o'clock until twilight. Squads were made up and waited around to take their turn.

Besides the contestants there was a large number of spectators. And they stayed until the very end.

Jack Tway, the Capital Gun Club secretary and one of the finest shots in the state, won the silver cocktail shaker in Class A. There was a two-way tie in Class B between Al Frese and Ralph Minehan.

Meanwhile, the random shoot had been staged and Frese was tied with Benson Freeman for first place in this event. They decided to settle both prizes in a 25-bird shootoff and Frese won with a great 24x25.

Tway broke 48x50 to win the Class A prize, and Frese and Minehan shattered 40x50 to deadlock in Class B. There also was a tie for first place in Class C between Eli White, of the East Atlanta Gun Club, and Dr. O. H. Malone, of the West End Gun Club. Dr. Malone left early and the extra shoot for the electric clock will be held later.

Frese was the big winner with a fishing rod and level-winding reel and a skeet hand trap.

The classes were determined by the registered scores and no shooter knew what class he was competing in until the day's firing was over.

Gray plans to install lights at the Airport club and stage night shooting. He was greatly pleased with the support accorded his first annual Memorial Day shoot and plans to stage another trophy event in the near future.

There were no handicaps yesterday. It took real shooting to win in every class. All the gun clubs were represented.

Prerost Obtained By Chick Outfit

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 26.—(AP) Manager Doc Prothro announced tonight the Memphis Chicks had obtained Joe Prerost, an outfielder, from the Birmingham Barons.

Though property of the Barons, Prefost has been with Oklahoma City, of the Texas league, this season, Prothro said.

Last year Prerost batted .273 in 70 games with Birmingham. Prothro said he would replace Charley Gilbert, Class "B" player, in the Memphis lineup.

Prothro said he was undecided what Class "A" player he would remove to make room for the newcomer.

Florida Sportsman Nabs Pelican, Trout

SARASOTA, Fla., April 26.—(UP) Styles Scott caught a two-pound trout and a pelican on the same fish hook today.

Just as the trout swallowed Scott's hook, the pelican grabbed the trout and Scott pulled them both in.

BLETHEN GIVES ATLANTA CLUB ONLY SIX HITS

Slow Work by Infield, Poor Hitting Cost Smoky Game.

By Jimmy Jones.

While the thousands were celebrating Memorial Day yesterday, Clarence Waldo Blethen, the grand old man of the mound, was observing it by shutting out the Crackers and turning in his first victory of 1934 for Knoxville.

The score was 7 to 0. And the grand old man, who is rounding 40 under a full head of steam, did not let a Cracker get as far as third base.

While the Maine Moose Hunter (his favorite game right now is the Crackers) was letting the home club have only six hits and putting them to shame before a fine Memorial Day turnout of 3,872 persons, the Knoxville club was losing no time in jumping on Frank Barnes, the Cracker starter, and chasing him from the box in the third inning.

A BIG LEAD.

The Smokies got five runs in that inning and given that big a lead, Clarence Waldo Blethen could pitch blindfolded and win.

It must be said in Barnes' behalf, however, that a bit of sluggish work by the Cracker infield was as much responsible for his undoing as anything else, and Barnes did not have too much on the ball at that.

Barnes set the Smokies down without a run in the first two innings. Then, starting the third, Pip Koehler at third, after making a nice stop of Horne's hot smash and with plenty of time to make the throw, pegged low to first. That was a bad start. Then Blethen hit to Barnes and the latter threw to second for a force play, but a trifle too late to catch Horne, who went down fast.

Well, that was a pretty kettle of fish cooking right there. Then Brandes laid one down the third base line—an attempted sacrifice—and nobody came in to field it.

That filled the bases with none out. And immediately the Smokies started going to town with their bats. Wally French, the fastest man in the league, hit to Chatham, forcing Brandes at second, but himself beat the throw to first on an attempted double play, Horne scoring. Ben Paschal doubled, scoring Blethen and French. Parham singled, scoring Paschal. Manager Lee Head singled to center, sending Parham to third and Manager Abbott took over the ball from Barnes' custody, giving it to Thomas.

FINALLY OUT.

Thomas finally got them out, but not until Clark singled to center, scoring Parham. The Smokies didn't hit Thomas so hard after that, but picked up two more runs in the sixth and ninth.

But the trouble on the Cracker side was that the Crackers weren't hitting Climax Blethen a-tall.

The old Maine Moose Hunter was mixing them up, pulling the string now and then for a perfect change-up and then blowing that old fast one and curve right in there to catch the Crackers' flat.

To all appearances, Blethen can still pitch as good as he ever did. And probably will win 20 ball games again this season. Letting Climax go to Knoxville still remains the prize Cracker boner of 1933.

Blethen, incidentally, is in great shape. He pitched only three innings during the exhibition season—against Albany—and spent the rest of the time umpiring the Smokies' games. But when the old bell rang, Blethen was in shape as he always was. He lost his first start to Hensiek, of Chattanooga, 5 to 0. Then he comes to town and hands the Crackers a shutout.

The last pitch made by Climax was a perfect strike that Wright took right down the middle for the third one and the game was over. Blethen didn't allow a single base on balls. The old boy had perfect control, as usual. He pitched the ball perfectly to the corners.

Four of the six hits the Crackers made were two-baggers by Harry Taylor, Palmisano, Wise and Koehler. But that ended it right there. There were no hits following those doubles that came in the first, third, seventh and ninth. "Bleth" tightened down and stopped them.

WHAT TO DO?

As for the case of the Crackers, it remains something of a mystery why the club isn't hitting any better. They all figure to hit better than they are, since most of them managed to hit well above .300 in the higher leagues last year, such as the International, the Association, the Texas and the Coast leagues. And some of those who came classified as good fielders—such as Koehler—aren't even fielding.

Koehler batted .318 for Milwaukee and played third base acceptably all last season. He is undoubtedly a capable ball player. Yet he has seemed transfixed on third, has thrown away two balls that started the Crackers on the downgrade. In fact, Koehler hasn't looked so good.

Moose Clabaugh isn't timing the ball. James isn't hitting yet. In fact, everyone seems to have gone into a spring slump all at once.

The situation is indeed perplexing, saving to Manager Spencer Abbott. That grizzled veteran of the bench

Tech High Meets Riverside in Double-Header at Henry Grady.

A double-header between Tech High and Riverside on the Henry Grady field this afternoon, will feature the quarter final round of the Big Six baseball schedule. The double-header will start at 1:30 o'clock.

Other games in the Big Six are: Boys' High at Columbus and G. M. A. at Monroe. It is likely that G. M. A. and Monroe will play a double-header as their first game was postponed, at the same time the Riverside-Tech High game was delayed.

Tech High is leading the league with four victories and no defeats. Boys' High has two wins and no losses.

N. G. I. C. Nines Play Four Games.

Four games will be played in the second round of the second half of the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference baseball race. Decatur plays Fulton at Decatur in the feature game. Fulton won the title last year and Decatur won the first half of the 1934 split season.

Other games in the N. G. I. C. are: North Fulton at Commercial, Marietta at Druid Hills, and Russell at Marist.

All four games in the opening of the second half scheduled for last Tuesday afternoon were rained out and will be played at a later date.

Many games in the first half of the season were postponed because of unfavorable weather and an effort will be made to make up as many of the games as possible.

Schmidt, Lassiter Head Power Card

The Athletic and Social Club, of the Georgia Power Company, will offer to its members another wrestling and boxing program tonight, on its regular monthly card presented in the club's gymnasium at 36 Piedmont avenue. The card will begin at 8 o'clock.

Physical Instructor F. B. McGee will offer Bull Schmidt and Freddie Lassiter in the main bout. Schmidt coached the wrestling team of the 1920 Olympic games. They meet in a one-hour, two-out-of-three falls affair.

The semi-windup match will bring together "Gentleman" John Mauldin and "Wild Bill" Collins. They are scheduled for a 45-minute, best-two-out-of-three falls match.

In the boxing, Gene Black meets James Houson over the six-round route.

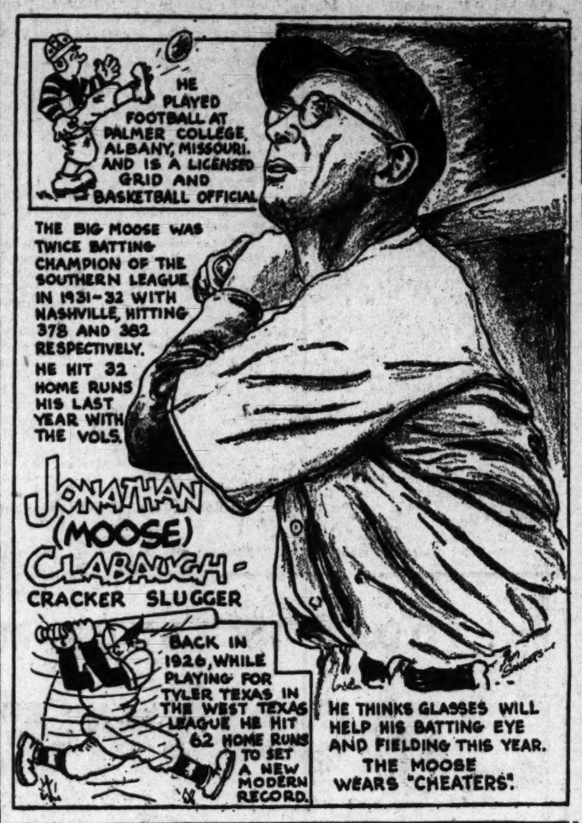
Cracker Box By Tom Sanders



Old John Fann Yawns At Southern's 'Ring'

Forget Schedule, Win Ball Games, Is His Plea; Abbott Stands Pat.

By Jimmy Jones.

The question before the house right now, especially in so far as John J. Fann, address General Delivery, Atlanta, Ga., is concerned, is not the Southern league "ring" (if one exists); who will draw up the next schedule; what Joe Engel will say to Tom Watkins at the next meeting, if anything, and whether Fay Murray will vote with the "little five" or the "big three."

The question is: When are the Crackers going to start winning some of the ball games out of the schedule that was drawn up last winter? And what, pray tell, has a "ring" to do with whether the Crackers win or whether they don't?

John Fann, being long-suffering and long of memory, is more poignantly conscious this morning of the ring of goose eggs dished up by one Climax Blethen in that 7-0 shutout yesterday than he is about Tom Watkins or Larry Gilbert or Billy West. Mr. Fann also remembers that these three gentlemen always manage to come up with pretty fair ball clubs regardless of which one draws the schedule.

SAME OLD SCHEDULE.

A Southern league schedule consists of 154 games—77 at home and 77 on the road. The Crackers, to date, have won two out of three on the road and lost three out of four at home. Still the papers are full of clandestine goings-on in the "ring," when John Fann is wanting to know what is going on at the ball park.

Mr. Abbott, the Cracker manager, poohs-poohs the mention of the jinx and says he isn't worried. He figures that James, who batted .240 in the National league will certainly bat .275 in the Southern; that Harry Taylor, who hit .309 in the International will assuredly hit that down here, and that Moose Clabaugh, who hit .336 at Baltimore, should club about that for Atlanta.

The only request Mr. Abbott makes (and he should be granted it) is that his ball club be given time to get going. He doesn't object to grandstand managing. He rather invites it, but he insists on running the club on the field. And he'd rather have the fan out there jeering, than staying home to second guess.

RAN THE CLUB.

When Spencer first went out on the coast to manage, there was a certain official there who had been in the habit of wig-wagging signals to his managers from a box seat and even sending down notes, suggesting when to change pitchers, etc.

When the first note came down to Abbott all he did with it was to tear it up. And from then on, he was boss.

Abbott, of course, thinks his ball club will snap out of it and start hitting. Moose Clabaugh hasn't hit any since the second game at Nashville and the coaching lines wasn't at all perturbed by it.

The newspapermen expected to find Spencer raving after yesterday's lack of hitting but the veteran boss, on the contrary, took it all very calmly.

"We'll start hitting. I'm glad this slump came in the spring instead of in July or August," Spencer stated. He added, however, that he might shake-up his batting order a little today. The boys aren't bunching the hits they are getting.

He will pitch Bill Schmidt, the big righthander, today. Hulvey or Huesser, a new man, will work for Knoxville.

The only bright feature on the Crackers' side yesterday was the alertness of Little Joe Palmisano, behind the plate. Twice Joe pegged like lightning to Harry Taylor, at first base, to catch Lee Head. the Smokie catcher-manager and "Red" Brandes. His nipping of Head came in the ninth after Clark had whiffed. It was a double play and retired the side.

DERBY HORSES TAKE IS EASY; SPY HILL FAST

Roustabout and Sun Abbot Turn In Good Time for Mile.

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—(AP)—Mata Hari, Charles T. Fisher's filly, was hammered down to 4 to 1 today in Tom Kearney's Kentucky Derby line.

"I'm being loaded with money on the filly, from Detroit, New York and Louisville," Kearney said.

Mata Hari never has been quoted above 10 to 1 by Kearney, who has cut that figure three times—to 8 to 1, 6 to 1 and now 4 to 1. The filly is quoted at 2 to 1 to place an even money to show.

Sir Thomas and Singing Wood remained at 6 to 1 for the Derby, while Sir Thomas continued the favorite for the Preakness at 4 to 1.

Despite the drop in the odds of Mata Hari, Kearney still offered 2 to 1 that no filly wins the Derby. Besides Mata Hari, the prominent fillies in the eligible list are Bazaar and Jabot.

Spy Hill Is Chalked Fast.

NEW YORK, April 26.—(UP)—Colors of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, victorious in the 1931 running of the Kentucky Derby when Twenty Grand set a new track record, will be well represented in this year's renewal of the mile and a quarter classic, if Spy Hill is sent to the post.

The son of Spion Kop turned in one of the best workouts of the current training season when he covered a mile and an eighth in 1:53 at Belmont Park today.

Derby Candidates Take It Easy.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26.—(UP)—Training of Kentucky Derby candidates at Churchill Downs today was light, despite ideal weather and track conditions. Only three prospective starters were tested for speed in sprint trials.

Albert Sabath's Dan Sabath dashed three furlongs in 36 1-5 in company with Mrs. E. F. Simms' Quasimodo which was timed 2-5 of a second slower. The Parkview stable's filly, Cactus Rose, the other Derby eligible to exercise, was impressive in a six furlongs jaunt which she circled in 1:17 4-5.

Two Colts Show Speed in Drills.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 26.—(UP)—C. V. Whitney's Roustabout and Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Abbot were the only Kentucky Derby candidates exercised over a lightning-fast racing strip here today. Both colts were clocked in 1:46 in mile trials.

Bradley Horses Arrive for Race.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26.—(AP) Colonel E. R. Bradley's Derby horses, past and present, arrived at Churchill Downs today from Lexington after being wintered and trained at Idle Hour farm.

The shipment included the filly, Bazaar, and the well-bred colt, Blue Again, full brother of Blue Larkspur. They will comprise the Bradley entry in the Kentucky Derby May 5 in which Idle Hour farm hopes to score its fifth Derby victory and third in a row.

Burgoo King, 1932 derby winner, and Broker's Tip, victor in the blue ribbon event last year, also were in the Bradley consignment. They are being pointed for the Clark handicap Saturday. Trainer H. J. "Derby Dick" Thompson was in charge of the stable.

Calumet farm's Derby nominee, Prince Pompey, also arrived today Warren Wright, master of Calumet, decided to leave Count Rae, his other Derby nominee, at Lexington and depend on Prince Pompey in the historic race.

John Simonetti's Sergeant Byrne, winner of the Paumonok handicap at Jamaica Saturday, was expected today but failed to arrive. Churchill Downs officials had been advised he was leaving Jamaica Wednesday, but were not told in what manner he was making the trip.

Bush Warns Golfers For 'Open' Entries

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—A warning that no entries for the open golf championship qualifying rounds would be received after 6 p. m. Tuesday, May 1, was served today by Prescott S. Bush, chairman of the U. S. G. A. championship committee on all aspirants for the crown worn by Johnny Goodman, of Omaha.

Qualifying rounds will be played in 22 districts May 14 for the 103 places remaining to be filled to round out the field of 150 for the championship proper. The 30 low scores of last year and the Walker cup players are exempt from qualifying while 10 places are being held open for foreign entrants. Canadian players must qualify in the closest district to their home.

VOLS 7; LOOKOUTS 2.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 26.—The Southern association's new pass rule, now on two weeks' trial, gave Nashville and Chattanooga a tally each today as the Vols defeated the Lookouts, 7 to 2.

The rule was invoked for the first time here in the second inning when Balaski, of Chattanooga, pitched four straight balls to Reid, Nashville pitcher, while Martin, Vols' third baseman, was on second. Martin walked home.

In the fourth Reid threw four straight balls to Reeves, Lookout third baseman, with Maxcy, shortstop, on second, and Maxcy came in.

SMOKIE LEADER ADVANCES NEW PLAYING THEORY

"Games Are Never Won by Holding the Ball," Head Says.

By Dillon Graham.

He spoke in a soft, slow drawl, this youngest of Southern Association baseball managers, but his words carried the conviction of a strategist. His baseball theory was summarized in eight short words:

"Games are never won by holding the ball."

And the orders 33-year-old Lee Head has given his Knoxville Smokies are "Throw that apple!"

"I don't give a continental about errors," was his surprising declaration—"continental" was not exactly the word he used—for most players regard hitting and fielding marks as precious things to guard.

TRY FOR OUT.

"Errors don't worry me," continued Head, who suddenly was elevated to the managership on the eve of the season's debut, "because one reason you're making errors is that you're out there hustling and trying for an out.

"By playing safe and not taking chances you make fewer errors and your fielding record may look better in print but you don't win ball games by holding the ball. I throw it every time I think there's a possible chance of making an out. And I want my players to do the same.

"No conservatives for me," said this 156-pound, medium-sized southerner who led the association catchers at bat last year with a hitting figure of .331. Incidentally, he struck out less than any man in the league a year ago—three times.

HEAD PERSUADES.

Head persuades his listener with his earnestness. His jaw is sharp and juts out just enough to convince one that he's a fighter and means business.

"There's one thing you can say about this job, it won't add any gray hairs to my head," he smilingly remarked. And for good reason, since Lee has been almost bald since his college days at Howard in Birmingham.

"This is a new assignment for me, and I'm just getting acclimated. I'm glad for the opportunity of making good. My players are responding well.

"We've had bad weather. My club will play better when it gets hot. You've got to have hot days to bring that bat around quickly. And the same goes for my pitchers; most of them are veterans and they need warm sun a-bearing down on them."

Head thinks his club is as good as most of the others. He believes the club with the best rookies may win and is satisfied with his own youngsters, Brandes and Clark in the infield, and Holt in left field.

The addition of Ben Paschal has are strengthened Knoxville, and with French, Paschal and Holt in batting order, Lee thinks the Smokies present a formidable array. "They will hit as well as any outfield trio in the league."

The baseball writers have consigned Knoxville to seventh place. "But they are wrong," Lee says, "Watch us!"

Three Ex-Crackers Spoil a Holiday

Here they are—the three bad boys who spoiled a ball game for the Crackers and a perfect holiday afternoon for close to 4,000 fans yesterday as the Crackers lost to Knoxville, 7 to 0. The three villains—all ex-Crackers—are left to right: Big Ben Paschal, Climax Blethen and Bob Parham. Paschal batted in two runs with a double in the third. Blethen allowed the Crackers but six hits, and Parham, playing first without an error, also drove in a run. Parham is with the Smokies only temporarily, being the property of the Cardinals and slated to join Columbus. Staff photo.

Chicago Suffers First Defeat When 2 Score in Ninth.

CHICAGO, April 26.—(UP)—The Chicago Cubs, leaders of the National league, suffered their first defeat of the 1934 season today after seven straight victories, while the tail-end Phillies won their first game after seven consecutive beatings.

The Cubs retained first place in the ranking despite their 5-to-4 loss to the Cincinnati Reds, because the challenging Giants likewise were beaten, 3 to 2, by the Phillies.

Sunny Jim Bottomley, of the Reds, who made three errors yesterday, redeemed himself by landing on one of Bud Tinning's offerings in the ninth, and slamming it into the left center field bleachers with a mate aboard to beat the Cubs. The Reds found Root and Tinning for eight hits. Some of which were clustered for a run in the first and two in the second. Si Johnson and Benton allowed the Cubs seven safeties, including Chuck Klein's four-bagger in the sixth.

The Cubs new "iron man" record of playing seven consecutive games without using a substitute was ended when Pitcher Root blew up in the second inning.

Jimmy Wilson's Phillies downed the Giants in the sixth inning when Ethan Allen provided the winning run with a four-bagger. Freddie Fitzsimmons started on the New York mound instead of Leroy Parmelee who was rushed to New York for an appendicitis operation. Fitzsimmons and Bell allowed eight hits, while Collins limited the Giants to five.

The St. Louis Cardinals snapped out of their slump and smothered the Pirates, 10 to 1, for their second victory in seven starts. Bill Hallahan's effective pitching limited the Corsairs to six scattered hits, while his mates hammered Birkofer, Chagnon and Smith for 16, including Virgil Davis' homer in the seventh. Pittsburgh contributed three costly errors.

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—The pitching of "Wild Bill" Hallahan, combined with the timely slugging of Virgil Davis gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 10-to-1 victory today over the Pittsburgh Pirates, their second triumph this season. Parmelee Stricken With Appendicitis

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—Leroy (Tarzan) Parmelee, star right-handed pitcher of the world champion Giants, was taken to a hospital late this afternoon for an operation for the removal of his appendix. A nurse said he was rushed into the operating room upon arrival. Parmelee was taken ill last night while in Philadelphia with the New York team.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—(UP)—Manager Bill Terry, of the New York Giants, said tonight that Pitcher Leroy Parmelee's appendicitis operation "is a great blow to our club."

Terry explained, "I had been counting on him to win from 15 to 20 games this season. He is a mighty fine pitcher. Now he probably will be out of the game several weeks."

JOHN FANN YAWNS AT LEAGUE RING

and everyone knows that Clabaugh should hit.

The fans naturally wonder why fellows like Koehler, James, Clabaugh aren't hitting up to their reputations. Abbott explains it in these words:

COULDN'T BE.

"If these fellows were a lot of bushers, I'd take them out of the lineup and get new men to take their place; but I know their records, their capabilities and I'm going to leave them in there until they get going.

No sirree, they're not going to bluff Mr. Abbott into breaking up his ball club or doing something he doesn't want to do. He is an old-timer at this managing business and figures he knows a ball player when he sees one. Too many managers fall short of success by listening to the wolves, of which there are always plenty, and breaking up a team before it gets started.

This is a tip to string along with Abbott and forget about the "ring," the jinx, Tom Watkins, Larry Gilbert, Billy West, Joe Engel and every other stock subject that bobs up when the Crackers are in the throes of a losing streak.

Firecrackers Play At Park on Sunday

There will be a benefit game, featuring Tubby Walton's Firecrackers, at the Atlanta baseball park next Sunday at 3 o'clock, under the auspices of the Disabled American Veterans' Auxiliary.

The Atlanta Crackers will be out of the city and the park will be available for the game. The Firecrackers' opponents will be the Standard Oil Company team, one of the strongest in the city. The Firecrackers have "Boob" Spurlin, Hill, Painter, Ayers, Moody, Campbell, Martin, Hawkins. The pitcher will be Gilbert Maher or Lefty Cole.

Admission will be 25 and 15 cents.

Boys' High Golfers Meet Charleston

Boys' High golf team will play Charleston this afternoon in Charleston and will journey to Savannah tonight to participate in the G. I. A. A. golf tournament Saturday afternoon.

Members of the Purples' team are: Captain Jack Ezzell, Red O'Neal, Billy Stevens and Allen Leibler.

Sington, Rollings, Two Ex-Crackers, Are Going Good

Climax Blethen beat Atlanta yesterday, 7-0. Rufus Meadows won his first game for Oklahoma City.

And two other Crackers of 1933, "Red" Rollings and Freddie Sington, are off to flying starts this year with Tulsa, of the Texas league, and Albany of the International league, respectively.

Rollings, who played third for the Crackers last year, collected seven hits in his first three games with Tulsa, Okla., to which club the Crackers sold him during the winter series of deals.

Sington, former Alabama football star, is fairly "burning up" the International league with the Albany (N. Y.) club, where he was sent by Atlanta in the Taylor-Knothe deal.

The former Alabama All-American, hitting in clean-up position for Albany, has slugged out a number of extra-base hits and has not made less than two hits a game since the season opened. He is playing left field at Albany, the same position he played at Atlanta. Sington, after a hard conditioning campaign at Bill Daly's club, worked out with Washington at Biloxi and then joined Albany.

Britons Bar Wilson From Tournament

LONDON, April 26.—(AP)—Enid Wilson, three times British women's golf champion, today was declared ineligible to compete in the 1934 renewal because she deviated from her straight reporting job with a London newspaper to give advice on golf.

Aspiring girl golfers were asked to send photos to the newspaper showing themselves playing various shots and Miss Wilson then was to advise what was wrong, if anything. This, the Ladies' Golf Union decided, was a violation of the amateur code and it declined to accept her entry.

The ruling does not affect other "playing journalists" such as Diana Fishwick, the 1930 titleholder.

Miss Wilson, who several times has threatened to retire "in order to get some fun out of the game," apparently was undisturbed by the ruling.

DRAKE RELAYS START TODAY

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 26.—(AP)—Approximately 2,000 track and field athletes tonight awaited the opening tomorrow of the silver anniversary of the Drake relays.

All entrance records are expected to be broken with the arrival tomorrow of another 1,000 competitors from the near-by midwestern schools.

Stars of the collegiate track world are ready to challenge existing marks.

Heading them is Ralph Metcalfe, the negro streak from Marquette University, in the 100-yard dash and spring relays. Twice winner of the century dash there, Metcalfe will attempt to lower the 0.5 mark he holds with Roland Locke, of Nebraska.

Ray Sears, the lithe Butler University distance ace; Glen Hardin, Jack Torrance and Nathan Blair, Louisiana State University, national champions; Duane Purvis, Purdue javeline thrower; Vincent Murphy, high jumper of Notre Dame; Jimmy Lu Valle, University of California at Los Angeles 440 star, and Heye Lambertus, University of Nebraska hurdles expert, are others of as brilliant a cast that ever entered the carnival.

Miss Lucile Robinson, Drake University co-ed and holder of the western women's golfing championship, will award the trophies. The crowning of the champions will be paterned after the Olympic games ceremony, and will include the fanfare of trumpets, the elevated pedestal for the winners and other features.

Tomorrow's program will start at 10 a. m., with preliminaries in the high school relays. In the afternoon preliminaries in the university 120 high hurdles, 100-yard dash and mile relay, along with the final distance medley relay will be the outstanding events.

Gus Mancuso Takes First Active Work

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—(AP)—Gus Mancuso, the Giants' star catcher who suffered an attack of typhoid fever late last winter, made his first appearance behind the plate this season today when he donned the pads in the seventh inning to catch Herman Bell. Mancuso's appearance was delayed by his slow recovery from the illness and consequent late start in training.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Central Press Association

Alex Morrison says:

Most of the trouble you get into by playing too far or not far enough on strange courses is caused by allowing the caddy to tell you what club you should use.

Naturally, he knows the course better than you do, but he is seldom expert enough to predict what clubs you will be most successful with. You should not trust your eye to tell you what the length of your shot is.

Ask the caddy how many yards you must carry, how long the hole is and how far the ball is from the hole.

Then, select your own club according to the loft and then the distance required for each shot.

Of course, if you kid yourself about the distance you get with certain clubs the caddy's judgment may be better after all.

Stoefen and Sharp Win Virginia Match

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 26.—(AP)—Jane Sharp, of Pasadena, and Lester Stoefen, of Los Angeles, defeated Florence Le Boutillier, of Westbury, Long Island, and Charles Lockhart, of Pittsburg, 6-3, 6-2, in the mixed doubles quarter finals of the Virginia state tennis tournament here this afternoon.

STARS GATHER FOR PENN MEET

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—(AP) Headed for whatever the athletes' god of fortune has in store, collegiate cinderpath aces today began the annual invasion of Franklin field for tomorrow's opening of the 40th renewal of the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival.

Behind today's vanguard were coming a host of other college and schoolboy stars, making up the army of 3,000 from more than 500 institutions who will do battle on track and field in the two-day athletic meet.

Glenn Cunningham, the "Kansas cyclone," who meets Gene Venzke, of Penn, in a special mile match on Saturday, was scheduled to get here tomorrow, along with the majority of entrants from north, south, east and west.

In a last minute announcement, H. Jamison Swarts, manager of this oldest event of its kind, disclosed that Yale and Cornell have withdrawn from the classic mile relay race, leaving the field to eight, and possibly nine quartets.

The Quakers of Penn are defending their crown in the mile, but pitted against them is the crack competition offered by Indiana, New York University, Navy, Manhattan, Pitt, Columbia, LaFayette, and maybe Ohio State.

Columbia, defending the two-mile laureis; Princeton, 1933 spring medley winners, and New York University's four-mile squad that won a year ago, are the east's chief threats against the power of the west contained in Michigan State, Ohio State, Indiana, Notre Dame and others. The east also has Yale's well balanced squad, Penn, Rutgers, Navy, Army, Pitt, Syracuse, Manhattan and a number of others. From the south Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama Poly are among those coming.

Gordon Wins Over South Georgia, 5-4

BARNESVILLE, Ga., April 26.—Gordon Institute defeated South Georgia Teachers' College in a second game here today, 5 to 4. The star of the day was Hansard, lefthander for Gordon, who allowed the visitors only six hits and struck out eleven men. Gordon got ten hits off Thomas, who was replaced in eighth inning by Ratley. Williams, for Gordon, got two triples and a walk out of three times up.

The last winning foursome consisted of O. W. Miller, C. E. Weaver, E. S. Humphries and George Pettit and C. W. Carver, a Buntin, K. A. Stephenson and H. Summers.

CAPITAL CITY.

Dr. McDonald and Dr. Smith divided honors Thursday afternoon in a one-day blind bogey tourney on the Capital City Country Club course. Dr. Selman, Dr. Ferguson and Dr. Campbell shared second place, one stroke away from the leaders.

Collins and Jarris Head Avondale Card

Wild Bill Collins and Ted Sarris will headline the regular weekly wrestling card at the Avondale arena tonight. They will meet in the best-two-out-of-three-falls match.

In another attraction that will rival the main go, Young Londos has been pitted against Red Duggan.

Frank Remill and Bob Anderson will open the card in a brief preliminary.

The card will start at 8:15 o'clock.

'LEFTY' SCOTT LOST TO TIDE

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., April 26.—(AP)—Alabama's hopes of winning the Southeastern conference baseball championship were somewhat lessened today as Legrant Scott, the Crimson's star left-handed hurler, underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Scott and Lee Rogers were the mainstays of the Alabama pitching corps having won 11 games in 12 played. Scott won six in six starts.

The operation naturally will throw Scott out for the season. However, Alabama already has eleven victories and only one defeat in conference competition. The Crimsons have four games to play, all with Mississippi State College. Alabama officials believe the Crimsons can split their series with Mississippi State and still win the title.

Coach J. B. Whitworth likely will shift Harry Campbell, third baseman, to relief hurler, along with Van Den Berghe and Earl Bauman.

Winn and Elzea Meet Here Tonight

Atlanta's new summer wrestling center, the Key arena, will open tonight in enlarrged quarters on the site of the former outdoor Fair Street arena, at Fair street and Delta place, across from the James L. Key golf course.

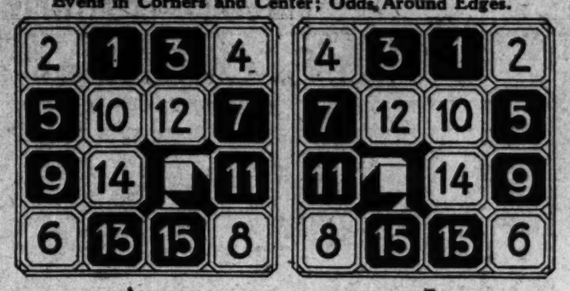
Hugh Winn, holder of the Georgia and southern light-heavyweight titles, will meet Eddie Elzea, the Great Dane, in a 90-minute match. Elzea, who is the only Danish wrestler now appearing in this country, will outweigh Winn by 11 pounds.

Freddie Lassiter, light-heavyweight champion of Ohio, meets the clever old veteran of several thousand matches, Mulldog Gust (or Gus Pappas) in a 90-minute limit match on this card.

Opening this unusually good card is a match between Whitney Patterson, the panther from Panthersville, and the pride of Roswell, Wayne Coleman.

Constitution's "Imps"

Today's Problems in the New Game. No. 13.
Evens in Corners and Center; Odds Around Edges.



One of these problems is possible of solution and the other impossible. Get out your imp game and find out for yourself which is which. Answer tomorrow.

In case you have not bought one of the manufactured games, rule off 16 blank squares. Cut them out and paste on cardboard. Number the squares from one to 15, four lines of four squares each. Discard the sixteenth square and then, without lifting any squares from the table, proceed to work out the above problems.

There are more than a trillion possible and impossible combinations of the numbers one to 15. Some of you will recognize in Imp the old 15 puzzle.

Problems will appear daily in pairs. Each pair will be alike in design and symmetry. One always will be possible of solution and the other impossible. The trial and error method is the interesting way to find the solutions.

Answer to Yesterday's Problem—A, Possible; B, Impossible.

HENRY C. BROWN, 56, PASSES AT AUGUSTA

Henry C. Brown, 56, prominent Atlantan, died Thursday in Augusta, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William F. Law Jr. Mr. Brown died only two weeks after his wife, the former Miss Amie Chafee, passed away at the home, 1830 Peachtree road here. He went to live with his daughter following the death of his wife.

Mr. Brown was a prominent figure in the cotton oil industry in the south. Prior to his retirement about two years ago, because of ill health, he was manager of the crude oil mill interests of the Southern Cotton Oil Company in Georgia, and was associated with that firm for more than 30 years. He was a past president of the Cotton Seed Crushers Association of Georgia and served as chairman of the executive committee of that organization at various times. He made his home in Atlanta for many years but was a native of Augusta.

Funeral services will be held in Augusta at 5 o'clock this afternoon, from the Church of the Good Shepherd. Mr. Brown is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Law, and by one son, Jack C. Brown, both of Augusta.

In addition to her sister, Miss Gardiner is survived by a cousin, John Gardiner; four nieces, Miss Katherine Lovette, Mrs. Robert R. Otis, Miss Margaret Doonan, all of Atlanta, and Mrs. Edward H. Oliver, of Rome, and six nephews, J. T., J. J., A. A., P. G. and the Rev. John B. Doonan, and Walpole Otis.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in the Sacred Heart church. The Rev. Father John McGrath will officiate. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery, with Sam Greenberg & Co. in charge.

INCREASE FAVORED IN WALLACE POWER

Senate Committee Favors Broadening of Secretary's Licensing Rights.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Strengthening of the power of Secretary Wallace to license producers and handlers of farm commodities was approved today by the senate agriculture committee at a surprise executive session.

Chairman Smith, democrat, South Carolina, of the committee, said Wallace requested the hearing be closed, although an open discussion of the changes in the farm act had been expected.

Committee members said apparently the secretary sought to save time and that the proposed amendments approved today would be thoroughly reviewed on the senate floor.

Smith said the committee was unanimous in approving a favorable report, although only ten of the nineteen members were present.

The action to extend the power to the secretary came at a time when the national recovery administration apparently had decided to let lapse its power to license industry.

May Bind Handlers.

Through licensing, the secretary of agriculture may bind handlers and distributors of farm products to observe marketing agreements. Only minorities have been licensed thus far, the pacts first being accepted by the majority concerned.

In explaining the amendments, Wallace said they "represent no change in the policies of the agricultural adjustment administration."

Most of the changes relate to technicalities but among the important additions and clarifications to the present act are:

To make clear the power of the farm administration to provide in benefit contracts with farmers limitations or reductions in the production of non-basic commodities.

Basic commodities are those named in the farm act. There were seven originally—wheat, corn, hogs, cotton, rice, tobacco and dairy products. Several others have been added at this session.

Wallace said this power was needed to prevent "a dislocation of the competitive situation in non-basic commodities resulting from the reduction in acreage or production of basic commodities under benefit contracts."

Other Amendments.

Other amendments would:

Make it clear that the secretary has the power through licensing to prevent non-co-operating handlers of farm commodities from shipping their products in interstate commerce. This would apply, however, only to a specific commodity whose distributors had been licensed through a marketing agreement.

License producers, but only where they are at the same time distributors of agricultural commodities.

Specify that the secretary may prorate amounts that may be purchased from producers through licensing but only where rice, milk, and its products, peanuts, flax, dry edible beans, vegetables, fruits or naval stores are concerned. Such prorations, the secretary said, may apply to producers only after two-thirds of the growers agree it should be done.

Still another important amendment would give the administrators of the farm act authority to take into account in determining a parity price for a crop current farm labor costs, interest on farm indebtedness, and taxes on farm property.

Parity price—the goal of the farm act—is defined as the price at which farm commodities must sell to have a purchasing power equal to that in the period from August, 1909, to July, 1914. In the case, however, of tobacco the base period is that from August, 1919, to July, 1929.

The result of taking additional factors into consideration probably will be the setting of a higher parity price and will result in higher processing taxes.

Merritt To Open Fight On Stock Control Bill

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Trouble ahead in the house for the stock market control bill was sighted Wednesday, with announcement that a group headed by Representative Merritt, republican, Connecticut, would file a minority report.

Word of this came shortly after the commerce committee without a dissenting vote ordered the revised Fletcher-Rayburn measure reported to the house where Chairman Rayburn, democrat, Texas, hopes to bring it up for consideration Monday under procedure that will permit amendments to be offered from the floor.

Merritt said the basis of the minority report would be that the bill not only regulates stock exchanges but "will permit the federal trade commission to interfere with the business of corporations."

The house measure differs in many respects from the bill ordered reported by the senate banking committee. It would provide for a statutory margin requirement of 45 per cent, whereas the senate measure would leave the fixing of margins to the federal reserve board.

FREIGHT RATES CUT ON STONE SHIPMENTS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today ordered a revision of freight rates on stone throughout most of the United States.

The commission divided the types of stone into four groups—paving, dressed, carved and rough.

In official territory, that part of the country east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, rates were fixed at 20 per cent on first-class rates for paving stone, 22 1-2 per cent for rough, 27.5 per cent for dressed and 35 per cent for carved.

In southern and southwest territory the rates were fixed at 15 per cent for paving, 17.5 per cent for rough, 22.5 per cent for dressed and 30 per cent for carved.

Remains of Mastodon Discovered in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 26. (AP)—Another "missing link" in Florida's age-darkened history was believed brought to earth in the form of a lower jaw and part of a skull of what may have been a four-tusked mastodon from a phosphate mine near Mulberry, in Polk county.

Although battered by water from the hydraulic mining pumps, the bones, in a high state of preservation, were found imbedded 45 feet deep in a pebble phosphate stratum. Dr. Herman Gunter, state geologist, advanced the belief they were those of a mastodon which roamed the peninsula four or five million years ago.

After a preliminary examination, Dr. Gunter said the bones might possibly be of another species, but that he believed them to be of a mastodon, ante-dating the Pliocene age, calculated in geological "years" as about 2,000,000.

- Reviewing the Shows -

Four of Atlanta's leading palaces of the screen present new features today, several of which, if not all, hold promise of better than usual entertainment.

At Loew's Grand there is Johnny Weissmuller, the original Tarzan in a new story of the jungle monarch, "Tarzan and His Mate," is the title.

The Fox presents Bing Crosby's newest, "We're Not Dressing," with Carole Lombard as the leading lady.

At the Georgia Joe E. Brown brings his outsize mouth to a Damon Runyon story, "A Very Honorable Guy."

And the Paramount's offering is "Gambling Lady," with the lovely Barbara Stanwyck as the star.

"Tarzan and His Mate" Now at Loew's Grand

Constitution readers will be especially pleased to know that Tarzan, whose exploits appear daily in this newspaper, is to be seen beginning today, on the screen at Loew's Grand theater. Again Johnny Weissmuller, who appeared in this role in "Tarzan the Ape-Man," impersonates the famous Edgar Rice Burroughs hero in "Tarzan and His Mate," and Maureen O'Sullivan is again Jane Parker, the London girl who turned her back upon civilization to make her home with Tarzan in the jungle.

Others in the cast of "Tarzan and His Mate," are Neil Hamilton and Paul Kavanaugh, two very different men from the civilized world, each of whom tries in his own fashion to lure Jane away from her jungle mate.

If youngsters delight in Tarzan's exploits, grown-ups find him equally entertaining. He is one of those characters who appeal to something fundamental in every man, and Johnny Weissmuller is an ideal embodiment of the type for the screen. His previous Tarzan picture achieved extraordinary success. This new film, a sequel, is twice as fast, twice as furious, twice as thrilling.

"Tarzan and His Mate" is sheer fantasy and thrilling entertainment, designed to divert and to fascinate and to thrill, and the film abounds in these qualities.

Crosby in South Seas In His Newest at Fox

South Sea Island adventure, jungle love, and chortling comedy feature the scenes of Paramount's "We're Not Dressing," the climax of Bing Crosby's long list of entertainment achievements, which opens today at the Fox theater.

Carole Lombard, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Ethel Merman, Leon Errol and a strong supporting cast joined hands and voices with Crosby to make this Paramount vehicle 60 minutes of unequalled action and melody.

Crosby portrays a two-fisted seafaring man with a voice and heart of gold, who works aboard the yacht of Miss Lombard.

The ship sinks, but Crosby and Miss Lombard escape, along with the heiress' guests—Miss Merman, Errol and the fortune-seeking princes, Jay Henry and Ray Milland.

They all paddle their way to a South Sea island and there—suddenly jerked from the lap of luxury—attempt to wrest a living from nature.

Song hits for Crosby were written by the Paramount team of Mack Gordon and Harry Revel and include "Love Thy Neighbor," "May I?" "Once in a Blue Moon," and "Goodnight Lovely Little Lady." Equally catchy numbers by Miss Merman, give the picture more than its share of melody.

Director Norman Taurog has turned in a directorial job that stamps the picture the best on his list

Joe Brown at Georgia In Picture by Runyon

Joe E. Brown is in town today, to begin a week's run at the Georgia theater in his latest film, "A Very Honorable Guy." The picture is based on the comedy by Damon Runyon, the famous sports and short-story writer, and is said to furnish Joe E. with the funniest vehicle in which he has ever played. Joe plays the role of a tin horn gambler, whose reputation is so good he is able to sell his own body to get a stake, the contract giving him 30 days of grace to deliver his own corpse. With a month to live, Joe goes through some of the most exciting incidents and uproariously funny situations any man has ever experienced.

Alice White, the petite blonde, is Joe's running mate. She plays the role of a gold digging chorus girl whose affections vacillate between Joe and a mad doctor, according to which one happens to be in the money.

The added attractions are outstanding with the feature, including a thrilling short showing air maniacs going through their death defying stunts, a travelogue, and a musical subject. Also, the latest issue of Paramount News. The entire program is scheduled through Thursday of next week.

Stanwyck Is Gambler In Film at Paramount

Barbara Stanwyck has been given an entirely different role from any which she has portrayed, in "Gambling Lady," which begins a week's run at the Paramount today. Her character part is both glamorous and sympathetic. In "Gambling Lady" she is a gambler, but the squarest, straightest shooting poker player that ever shuffled the pasteboards.

Not only is she on the level in cards but in the game of love and life. She can take it on the chin and does, by sacrificing her love for her husband in order to save him from the charge of murder when he gets into a mess with another woman.

As the gambling lady she plays only in the fashionable night clubs frequented by millionaire men-about-town and in the brilliant casino of Monte Carlo. Later, wedded to a wealthy society man, she is seen in the palaces of the upper world, although she is never adverse to taking a fling at the ponies or putting some society beauty over the hurdles for her jewels or what have you.

Miss Stanwyck is supported by two leading men, Joel McCrea in the role of a society man, and Pat O'Brien, as a race horse gambler, both of whom are in love with her. Clair Dodd is the other woman, a homewrecker who makes a play for Barbara's husband.

On the short feature program this week "Paul Revere Jr.," a musical "Those Were the Days," a comedy and the Fox News complete a well-rounded program of entertainment.

TARZAN WILL APPEAR SATURDAY MORNING

A Tarzan morning matinee will be presented Saturday at Loew's Grand theater. A special showing of the film, "Tarzan and His Mate," featuring Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan, will be offered, with the doors opening at 8 o'clock, and the film starting at 8:45 o'clock Saturday morning.

This matinee is being presented by the Grand management in co-operation with the Foremost Dairies, to introduce the new Tarzan Ice Cream Cup, decorated with pictures of Tarzan and his jungle friends, familiar to all readers of the Tarzan comic strip which appears daily and Sunday in The Atlanta Constitution.

Each patron of the Tarzan matinee will be presented with one of these Tarban ice cream cups, a full five ounces, filled with the delicious and nutritious ice cream made by the Foremost Dairies, and offered in a wide variety of flavors.

"Tarzan and His Mate" is a highly exciting story of Tarzan's adventures in the African jungle, and his battle to protect his wife against the schemes of a group of unscrupulous explorers from civilization.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—With commodities lower and bonds leaning a bit downward, stocks failed to do much with a spotty early advance today and ran into selling during the last hour when the tape fell a few minutes behind. Volume rose to 1,684,125 shares.

The decline in staples was mostly moderate, though cotton had an extreme break of more than $1 a bale. Stocks seemed to pay attention to such news items as the dividend reduction by Consolidated Gas of New York, Secretary Hull's remarks about economic affairs and softer textile markets. Also, the railroad wage agreement, though averting a possible strike and thus serving to clarify the industrial picture to some extent, means higher operating costs for the carriers, and this angle was presumably taken into consideration by traders and investors.

Mining stocks were still depressed by weakness of silver futures—bar silver was steady—which reflects the waning hopes of those who once thought they saw prospects of additional legislation on behalf of that metal. Coppers looked up for a time during the morning, but they lost their lustre. Rails also took a fling at higher levels but at the close most of them were lower. Consolidated Gas, common, put on a $2 annual basis against $3 previously, lost more than a point and other utilities dipped sympathetically. Motors, steels, chemicals and foods encountered lower bids.

On the basis of the 90-stock closing composite, the net change was a loss of 1.2 points.

Bethlehem Steel's report of a net loss for the first quarter of 1934, contrasted with a small profit in the preceding three months, was available long after markets had closed. During December, of last year, there was a rush to specify against expiring contracts, and this helped to swell the company's income figures for the period.

Railroad Earnings Show Big Increase

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—Net railway operating income of the first 43 railroads to report for March totaled approximately $30,128,000 compared with $5,554,000 in the same month a year ago.

For the first quarter these same roads reported net railway operating income of around $65,979,000 contrasted with $17,185,000 in the first quarter of 1933.

SCHWAB OPTIMISTIC AFTER REST IN EUROPE

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—Radiating his usual optimism, Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, returned on the liner Rex today after a brief vacation on the Riviera.

He declined to comment upon recent business and industrial developments, explaining that he had tried to forget about such matters on his trip.

"I want to say, however, that as president of the Iron and Steel Institute I am behind President Roosevelt in everything he does. I have put in my best licks to help the president as far as the steel industry is concerned."

Schwab said he was certain that the complete recovery of business was not far distant.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—On such irregularity as might carry into early dealings Friday, we would favor replacements of trading positions in such groups as rails, merchandise issues, chemicals and oils.

BEER & CO.—Movements over the next few days will be of importance as indicators of the near term trend.

DOBBS & CO.—Some further weakness is probable at the opening Friday, but we consider the behavior of the market rather encouraging than otherwise.

COURTS & CO.—We still feel that when congress has adjourned—unless we see more drastic legislation than is foreseen at the moment—prices should do better.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—The limits of possible legislative action during the remainder of the session are now sharply defined and offer no added sources of anxiety.

COTTON OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—We are inclined to believe that the worst part of the liquidation is over and expect to see a good size rally from present levels.

BEER & CO.—The cotton situation is very much confused and we suggest waiting for a clarification before making commitments.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—There is as yet no definite indication that the liquidation has entirely run its course, but considering the large quantities of cotton that has been sold during the last few days we should not be far from the end.

COURTS & CO.—A technical rally seems overdue.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—Until May liquidation in wheat is accomplished irregularities are to be expected, but we favor the constructive side on recessions.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—Looking to the future we believe the trend in the wheat market is upward.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—Interest in bonds lagged today and prices, especially in the secondary groups, pointed moderately lower.

The trading volume dwindled to a total of $14,357,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was off two-tenths of a point at 87.7.

The rails did not appear particularly enthusiastic over the compromise wage agreement.

While small gains were held by some bonds of Alleghany Corporation and Chesapeake & Ohio, losses were suffered by liens of New York Central, Chesapeake Corporation and Baltimore & Ohio.

Declines of around a point or more were shown by issues of American Rolling Mill, International Hydro-Electric, International Paper, International Telephone, and Utilities Power and Light. Moderate advances, however, were registered by loans of Warner Bros., United States Rubber and Gulf States Steel.

German government obligations rallied 1 to around 3 points on renewed hopes that the reich would maintain interest payments.

United States government securities were dull and slightly lower.

TARZAN AND THE CITY OF GOLD No. 29

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Enraged because Tarzan had not knelt before Nemone, Tomos continued, "He is an impudent, ignorant savage, my queen; but as he is about to die, his actions are of no consequence." "Why is he about to die?" demanded Nemone.

"He is to die because he came here in the dead of night to assassinate Your Majesty," explained Tomos; "the manner of his death rests of course in the hands of our gracious queen." Nemone turned her gaze full upon Tarzan of Apes.

Nemone's eyes, veiled behind long lashes, appraised the ape-man, lingering upon his bronzed skin and the rolling contours of his muscles; then rising to his handsome face until her eyes met his. "Why did you not kneel?" she asked. And fearlessly Tarzan answered.

"Why should I kneel to you who they have said will have me killed?" demanded the ape-man. "Why should I kneel to you who are not my queen? Why should I, Tarzan of the Apes, who kneels to no one, kneel to you?" "Silence!" cried Tomos. Or . . ."

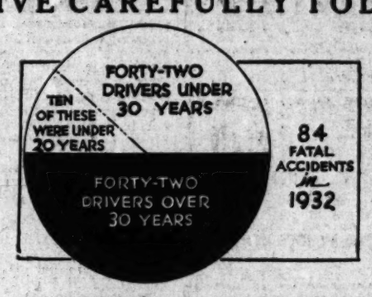
DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY



TO PARENTS AND SCHOOLS

A survey recently made in a large American city, showed that of 84 drivers involved in fatal accidents, 42 or exactly half were under 30 years of age, and 10 were under 20 years of age. More emphasis must be laid on the training, education and discipline of the youthful driver. This problem presents a real challenge to parents and schools.

AROUND LOCAL CONTRACT TABLES

by Whitner Carry

MIAMI BILTMORE, CORAL GABLES, Fla., April 26.—Just when it looked as if the Atlanta delegation for the Florida state tournament was thoroughly routed from a masculine standpoint along comes Mrs. C. E. Williamson, paired with Mrs. E. Deakin, of Palm Beach, to take second place in the Florida state women's pair championship.

Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Deakin deserve a tremendous amount of praise for their splendid achievement. Considering that they had never seen each other before yesterday, much less having played bridge their feat deserves all the more credit. Their score of 129 points was only eight and a half points behind Mrs. K. Young and Mrs. L. L. Yelvington, the winners.

Turning to things of a sadder nature we find that the Florida state men's pair which saw the final session played this afternoon was won by Vaden Parks and Eddie Cohen with 137 1-2 points. J. E. Groves and Lester Manley, with 124 1-2 points, were second, while Joe Nixon and Max Adams, with 120 1-2 points were third. All the first three places were won by Miami players. No Atlanta pairs figured in the running.

Representatives of the Gate City are now concentrating on the southeastern team-of-four which starts its first session tonight and the southeastern open pair which starts tomorrow night.

Culbertson on Contract

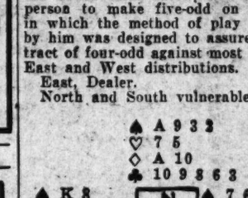
By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

The Strip Play.

One of the simplest of all types of hands to play is that involving the so-called strip or elimination, and yet there is probably no type of hand that is more frequently misplayed. Hands requiring the elimination of one or more suits occur with considerable frequency in almost every session at the bridge table, and yet, while very easy to recognize, there are many players who fail to discover the correct method of handling this type of holding.

An interesting example of a strip play occurred in a recent duplicate game at Miami, Fla., the great winter resort of eastern United States, in which Gerald Groesbeck, playing the South cards below, was the only person to make five-odd on a hand in which the method of play adopted by him was designed to assure a contract of four-odd against most possible East and West distributions.

East, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♡	1♠	2♡	2♠
Pass	4♠	Pass	Pass
Pass

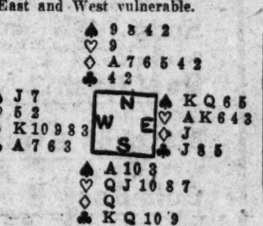
East's opening bid of one heart was, of course, in the nature of a mild psychic and South had the alternative of a double rather than an immediate bid of a spade but reasoned that the vulnerable overcall would secure free rather than forced information from his partner and that upon the basis of whether he responded freely or not South could determine how far the hand should go. Whether this reasoning was correct or fallacious, it succeeded in this particular case, and North of course gave a free raise to the spade overcall, whereupon Mr. Groesbeck bid four spades.

The opening lead was the heart ten, and when the Dummy was spread upon the table Mr. Groesbeck could count as possible losers one spade, one diamond and two clubs. The losers, of course, would be reduced, and the contract assured with a successful spade finesse, but South thought there was another method of play that gave a greater assurance of success against any probable distribution. This was the strip play, which must succeed if, after hearts and diamonds had been eliminated from both the open and closed hands, East could be put in the lead with a club and was unable to return that suit.

Acting on this plan Mr. Groesbeck won the first trick with the heart ace, led a small diamond to the ace in Dummy and returned a diamond, which was won by East with the king. East now returned a heart, which South won with the king. He led his last heart and ruffed in the Dummy. Hearts and diamonds were thus eliminated from both the open and closed hands. The next play was a small club from Dummy to the ace and when East played the queen the success of South's strategy seemed to be assured unless, of course, East was false-carding.

At this point the spade finesse was taken. West covered with the king, which was won by the ace and a small spade returned, picking up all the adverse trumps. Now South led a club, which East was forced to win, but his hand now contained nothing but hearts and diamonds. He returned a diamond, which permitted South to ruff in Dummy and discard his last club, thus not only fulfilling his contract but making an overtrick.

TOMORROW'S HAND.
East, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: The 30 years of my life have been far from a bed of roses but the problem that confronts me now is deep and dark. I have dated a girl nearly my own age for four years. Due to circumstances in my family, marriage is impossible for me now. I have told her the full truth and she and I agreed that we would call ourselves friends for the present. She has been going with another man lately and she leads me to believe that she is falling in love with him. Since I am caught in an unfortunate predicament I have wished her well. What chance is there that she will wait for me indefinitely? Isn't it more likely that she will always think of me as the best friend she ever had and marry the other man? C. J.

Answer: One of the saddest words in the language is renunciation—a voluntary surrender of something or somebody held dear. We all have to give up something or somebody dear before we have done with life but when the dear object is snatched away from us the loss is less bitter than when we must make the renunciation.

Who can hazard a guess as to which of two men a woman will marry, when one of them is champing the bit to take the road to the altar with her and the other is unable to name the day? Much depends upon her attitude to marriage. Some women think that when the marrying age arrives they are disgraced if they can't put a Mrs. before their names and they will make any sort of compromise to get a husband. Others are concerned with marriage only as it relates to the men they love and want to spend their lives with. Many a woman will wait indefinitely to marry the man she loves and feel about the delay as it was said Jacob felt after he had served seven years to win Rachel: "They seemed to him but a few days for the love he had to her."

Dear Miss Chatfield: A short time ago there appeared in your column a letter from a wife who had grown despondent over her husband's coldness and indifference toward her. She said she spent all her time in three rooms caring for her two children. I want to tell you that this woman's experience is so like my sister's that the tears ran down my cheeks as I read her story. My sister, like your correspondent, had a good business education, worked in an office for many years before her marriage. Her husband just crushed the life out of her. Sometimes when she sat down to the piano to play he would say: "Oh don't bang on that thing!" He treated her that way about all the finer things she liked. He crushed her but she had such a horror of divorce that she put up with him. She didn't even visit her neighbors because they might return her visit and he didn't like to have anyone come to the house.

She raised chickens, had a cow and sold milk for spending money. Once she told me she would like to buy a cheap car but if she bought it there would be a fuss everytime she got it out of the garage. So she just sat at home and brooded and read books, going out only to the library for reading material. One morning at daybreak she got up as usual, did not make the fire as she was accustomed to do but went to an outshed and shot herself through the temple. She left a son 13 years old. She has been dead many years but this story of your correspondent brings the grief freshly to mind. This woman must get out and get work even if she has to employ someone to take care of her children. She must work and have faith in God if she is to save her reason.

• • •

I hope this letter will be read by some husband who is crushing the life out of his wife and that he will take warning from it and be more humane.

CONSTANT READER.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Can you help me snap out of a bad frame of mind? I see the worst side of everything and everybody, so I am gloomy and discouraged. When I am in a crowd I forget myself and have a pretty good time but just as soon as I get off by myself I am blue and depressed. I don't dance, so there are not many parties for me to go to and I don't have many dates with the girls. It seems I am wasting my youth.

J. D. C.

Answer: Attach yourself to a group of gay girls and all your troubles will be over. You must learn to dance and learn to do the things the girls are doing or they won't admit you to their group. Take up tennis or some other sport that will give you exercise and leave you no time to sit and brood by yourself. If there is no physical cause for your depression it can be easily cured by hard work, exercise, and association with other young people. A little light reading sandwiched in between will help you to get your thoughts turned out.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Sunday's Son Denies Drunk Driving Charge

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—(AP)—Taking the witness stand in his own defense, Paul T. Sunday, youngest son of W. A. "Billy" Sunday, evangelist, denied today the charge he was drunk in an automobile last April 16 as had been asserted by five policemen.

Sunday said he was taking Mrs. Lucille Churchill, wife of Owen Churchill, prominent yachtman, home after a dinner party in Beverly Hills when Patrolmen J. D. Temple and Frank Skiles forced his car to the curb because he was driving without lights.

He had two cocktails before the dinner party, Sunday said.

Mrs. Churchill testified Sunday's "smart cracks" got them in trouble and denied he was drunk.

In rebuttal testimony, Skiles and Temple said Sunday was drunk and resisted arrest. The trial will be resumed tomorrow.

A. T. & T. OPERATIONS MAY BE INVESTIGATED

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—A broad inquiry into the vast relationships and operations of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company was proposed in a resolution today by Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, who said the data was needed for guidance of congress in enacting broader communications control legislation next session.

The investigation would be conducted this summer and fall by the commerce committee headed by the Washington senator with $25,000 as initial expenses.

NEW SILVER LIST SENT TO SENATE

Prominent Names Appear On Roll of "Possible" White Metal Holders.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The senate's well-known appetite for investigations was whetted today by the treasury department's submission of a list of "possible" silver holders, including Everett Sanders, chairman of the republican national committee.

Whether the inquiry will be made will be determined at a meeting tomorrow of the banking committee, but Chairman Fletcher told the senate today it was "likely."

The list was submitted to Fletcher by Secretary Morgenthau "for such further attention as you may deem warranted." The treasury head said difficulty had been encountered in investigating the holdings listed and "further investigation" would be necessary to complete the inquiry.

The list submitted by Morgenthau today contained more names of interest to the public than the previous two, but there was nothing on the surface to indicate any holdings by those who have been prominent in the movement for the remonetization of silver.

Sanders, who maintains a Washington law office in addition to serving as chairman of the republican national committee, was listed as the holder of long futures contracts for 75,000 ounces of silver.

Frank A. Vanderlip, a member of the committee for the nation which has been active in monetary legislation, and one of the sponsors of the recent dinner to members of congress interested in silver legislation, was reported to hold long futures for 300,000 ounces.

Other well-known names on the list include:

Joseph I. France, former republican senator from Maryland, long futures contracts for 200,000 ounces.

Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion, long futures contracts for 150,000 ounces.

E. L. Cord, motor and airplane magnate, 2,251,202 ounces of "spot," partially hedged by short futures contracts for 600,000 ounces.

AP CORRECTS ERROR ON POSITION OF KEELON

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—F. B. Keelon was not a sponsor of a dinner Monday night to members of congress interested in silver, as was erroneously stated in a news story from Washington yesterday in connection with the publication of the treasury's list of silver holders. Mr. Keelon was there as a guest.

The Associated Press was in error in referring to Mr. Keelon as a sponsor and is glad of this opportunity to correct the misstatement of fact.

HOUSE BODY APPROVES ENGINE BUYING POLICY

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—Over the protest of Representative McFarlane (D-Tex.) and two other members, the house naval committee today approved the airplane and engine procurement policy used by the navy since 1926.

By a 13-to-3 vote, the committee adopted the report prepared by a subcommittee which had investigated airplane and engine buying. That report, presented by Chairman Delaney (D-NY) of the subcommittee, held there had been no excessive profits on navy contracts and no collusion between contractors.

McFarlane's minority report contended naval officials had violated the law by buying aviation material without competition.

CITRUS GROUP VOTES LEVY FOR ADVERTISING

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, April 26. (AP)—To obtain money for a national advertising campaign next year, citrus growers and shippers of the lower Rio Grande valley have voted to place a two-cent per box tax on all citrus fruits shipped. The tax is expected to create a fund of between $75,000 and $100,000, depending on shipments and citrus men said most of it will be spent in the Mississippi delta region.

Jury Seeks To Solve Mystery of Lost Brein

ORLANDO, Fla., April 26.—(AP)—An Orange county grand Jury today sought a solution to the alleged disappearance of a brain which had been sent to Jacksonville for examination following the death of Preston Burnett, which the jury is investigating.

The brain, that of Burnett, was said to have mysteriously "disappeared" after it had been removed from the body in an autopsy performed by Dr. Hal Beardall, of Orlando.

WIRT ALLEGATIONS HELD GROUNDLESS

Committee Reports Educator's "Red" Alarm Without Foundation.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The Bulwinkle committee today adopted a report to the house holding unfounded the claims of Dr. William A. Wirt that administration "brain trusters" were working for a "revolution."

The vote was 3 to 2, the majority of democrats agreeing to the conclusion that Wirt, a Gary (Ind.) teacher, had not proved his contentions.

The two republican committee members, Representatives McGugin, of Kansas, and Lehlbach, of New Jersey, reserved the right to file a minority report contending the committee had not made a thorough investigation of Dr. Wirt's allegations.

Both reports are to be submitted to the house next Wednesday, Chairman Bulwinkle, democrat, North Carolina, said, adding that they would not be made public before then.

It was understood, however, the majority opinion reviewed Wirt's assertions and told how they were based largely on conversation at a dinner in Virginia last September 1. Then, the majority report will point out, the other six guests at that dinner denied quotations attributed to them by Wirt.

U. S. COTTON PROGRAM DEFENDED BY COBB

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 26.—(AP)—Controlled cotton production will not compel the United States to yield its foreign markets, and this nation will continue to export every bale that can be sold, Cully A. Cobb, chief of the cotton section of the agricultural administration, said in an address Wednesday before the joint convention of the American Hardware Manufacturers' Association and the Southern Hardware Jobbers' Association.

Cobb said the government is maintaining a staff of experts in foreign fields to keep a close watch on conditions so when there is a market for cotton the United States can meet the demand.

"Our American program is so flexible that it permits the secretary of agriculture to suspend it and allow us to go the limit, if that becomes necessary," he said. "When the demand for American goods goes to 15 or 16 million bales, a year, we will be right there with the cotton."

ARKANSAS STUDENTS HIT SCHOOL OPERATION

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 26.—(AP)—A petition containing charges of abuses in the operation of Monticello A. and M. College, signed by a group of students at the school, were received at Governor Futrell's office today and he promised a thorough investigation before he had seen the petition.

F. D. R., SOLON DISCUSS JOBLESS INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt discussed modifications in the unemployment insurance bill with Representative Lewis, democrat, Maryland, today and the latter predicted early favorable action in the house.

Lewis said he would favor the committee cutting the proposed tax on employers from 5 to at least 3 per cent.

REP. PARKER MOVES TO SEAT BRITTEN FOLLOWING PROBE

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Acting in his official capacity as chairman of the elections committee No. 1, Representative Homer Cling Parker, of Statesboro, Ga., today made the motion in the house which seated a republican, Representative Fred Britten, of Illinois, whose election in 1932 was contested by James McAndrews, democratic nominee.

"I am a partisan democrat from the south," said Mr. Parker in presenting the report of his committee, "but neither I nor other democrats of my committee evinced partisanship when they voted to seat our good friend, Fred Britten. No member of the committee considered the Britten-McAndrews contest along partisan lines.

"The conclusion of the committee is that the evidence adduced by McAndrews completely failed to support the charges in the notice of contest. The testimony of a so-called expert upon the disproportionate split vote is so frail and unconvincing in its nature as to leave no doubt in the mind of the committee of the falsity of the charge of fraud by reason of a disproportionate split vote."

Representative Britten's seat was contested on the ground that he was guilty of violation of the federal corrupt practices act; and that probable cause was set forth for a recount of the ballots.

Mr. Parker only became chairman of the committee a few days ago and his presentation of the contest was received all but unanimously by the house membership.

Representative Britten has served 22 years in congress.
